Remarkable Speech by Henry M. Whitney in Opening His Campaign.

After Savagely Attacking His Opponent Bartlett and the Other "Devils", He Paid His Respects to Lodge, and Said that Eventually Trade Between Canada and United States Will Be "as Free and Unrestricted as Between States of Union."

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 7.—Henry M. Whitney, one of the Democratic nominees for governor, opened his campaign at a largely attended rally in the Brookline town hall tonight.

He said in part: I come before you today as a candidate for the position of governor of the commonwealth. But owing to the infamous practices of certain men, I come before you today as an entirely new issue. I stand as the representative of the insulted dignity of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. You all know what happened in Springfield, how the constitutional rights of the citizens of Massachusetts were violated, how force and fraud usurped the place of law and order, how the sacredness of the ballot was violated and the good name of the State of Massachusetts was trampled in the dust.

"If I were disposed to submit to this indignity, I should have no right to submit to it. I owe a duty not only to the delegates who were there assembled at great inconvenience to themselves, but also to the men who elected them to go there, the Democrats generally throughout the State of Massachusetts, and indeed to every man, woman and child in the State who believes in fair play, who believes in the supremacy of the law, who believes in their duty to aid in transmitting to their descendants the civil liberties and political rights which, beginning with the landing of the Pilgrims, have remained supreme in the State of Massachusetts until this Saturday night. I owe to the people of the State to give them the opportunity of recording themselves on this important question. I guarantee that the Democratic party will do better than any other party in the State. I guarantee that the Democrats will purge themselves of their corruptors, and that their George Fred, Williams and their Charles W. Bartlett and their other scoundrels will be cast out of the party organization. I guarantee that the party made whole as of yesterday, the hand of the assassin has not drawn the life blood from the Democratic party of the State of Massachusetts. She will arise invigorated from this encounter with her foes and will again become, as of old, an aggressive and potent influence for good.

"What I have been striving for four or more years to bring to the attention of the people of Massachusetts is the importance of the open door to the north and east of us, now entering upon a career of development akin to that which was witnessed a century earlier in the United States of America. The people of Massachusetts are well sign a unit upon this question. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has had the audacity to enter at these efforts, to delay all attempts at improving the present condition of the people of the State of Massachusetts by any attempt to right the wrong that he failed in his duty, and false to his trust, abandoned years ago when the people of Canada were freely offering this great boon.

"He rejoices in our misfortune and glories in his shame. This opportunity is not lost to us if the people of Massachusetts will express themselves in favor of reopening this question. That is the only way in which at the present time anything can be done by the people of Massachusetts in the promotion of this great cause.

"Natural conditions have not changed with the refusal of the senator to open the open door to the north and east of us, and we are geographically still the same as we always have been. The foundation of these two great nations should dwell together in bonds of natural relations. God forbid that the tariff barriers will be cast down from the north and trade with Canada be as free and unrestricted as it is between the states in the American Union.

Water Main Supplying It Burst Yesterday, Causing Loss of Thousands of Dollars.

HALIFAX, Oct. 7.—Operations throughout the plant of the Dominion Steel Co. were suspended this afternoon at five o'clock by the bursting of its main supplying the industry with water. The 24 inch main which has caused the trouble is the only one leading to the pumping station, the source of the company's water supply. Its going out of commission has seriously interfered with the working of the plant and will entail a loss of thousands of dollars. The break occurred near the bed of Wentworth Creek near Morrison's bridge, Argyle street.

The company have special connections with the city mains to provide for just such an emergency. Unfortunately, however, this connection is beyond the locality of the accident today and the plant is consequently without water tonight except the little tank which obtains from hydrants in the vicinity of the works. It is said that when the break occurred this afternoon the greatest difficulty was experienced at the coke ovens in saving the boilers, which at the time were most inadequately supplied with water. The work of repairing the damaged main is being pushed tonight with all possible speed by a large gang of workmen and the officials hope to have the plant in active operation again by tomorrow morning at five o'clock.

Interesting Evidence in Oil Trust Suit.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Testimony that railroads purchased their lubricating oil from the Standard Oil Company at prices that were higher than those of its competitors, was heard today in the federal suit for the dissolution of the so-called oil trust. Philip Harrison, manager of the New York Lubricating Oil Company, which has engaged in a long strife with the Standard in the lubricating oil industry, was on the witness stand all day and testified that, although the products of his company had proven satisfactory to the railroads and were sold at prices under the Standard's figures, the railroads declined to renew their contracts with the New York Lubricating Oil Company. Mr. Harrison said he was never openly told by the railroad officials why the contracts were not entered into again, but he had a well-defined idea of the cause.

Mr. Harrison's testimony was illuminated by several exchanges between the witness and counsel. Mr. Rosen, one of counsel for the defendants, asked Mr. Harrison if his attorney had entered into between the Standard and the steamship companies engaged in designing the Standard's natural trade to Africa, were of a private nature and that the Standard had no authority to inquire into corporation business of the character. Mr. Kellogg declared that counsel had no right to ask such a question, and added:

"I will tell you that there is such a law, and you will find it out if you look long enough."

HEIR TO LEGACY OF $180,000 DECLARES HE WAS SHANGHAIED

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Rivalling the efforts of some of the famous writers of sea stories, the remarkable tale told by Frederick C. Demmay, once a telegraph operator at a little Canadian railway station, now on the way to New York to collect a legacy of $180,000 which he says was left him by Mrs. J. H. James, a New York woman whom he befriended after a railroad wreck.

He is here with his wife, whom he says he saw for the first time today since January, 1906, when he was "snapped" in Montreal, while on his way to New York to collect the inheritance, shang-hai on board ship and held a prisoner in the vessel's hold for months. He escaped, he says, then to find that an effort had been made by an unscrupulous lawyer to rob him of the fortune left him by his benefactor.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—A gray haired maker of banjos died in the Olympic Theatre last night while the "Banjo Bot" strummed upon the stage on instruments of his own manufacture. He claimed the large audience which had been thrown into semi-panic by J. B. Schall, fifty-five years old, occupied a front seat in the lower balcony. He had visited the theatre especially to hear the playing of two musical specialists who used banjos which had been turned out by his own hands.

Suddenly Schall rose in his seat with a choking cry, swayed for a moment as if he would topple over the balcony rail into the crowded parquet, and then crumpled down on the floor. In a fit of intense excitement, Schall's collapse was witnessed by three-fourths of the people in the house. Several women near him screamed. Ushers and attendants hurried to him and carried him to the foyer, where they laid him on the carpet and attempted to restore consciousness.

The two players upon the stage had reached a pause in their musical "speaking" and looked across the floor. They saw a man collapse and at once fled to the danger of panic in the packed house. At once they plunged into a wild medley of music to quiet the alarm of the audience. Their efforts were successful. While the audience played merrily in the balcony, a man was lying behind the tier of balcony seats.

FREDERICTON, Oct. 7.—The trustees of Victoria Hospital have been in session all the afternoon and this evening did not adjourn till after midnight. # STEWART'S GOOSE NEARLY COOKED

Drunken Belgian Took Flying Leap from Wharf to Vessel and Landed in Harbor—Cursed Rescuers.

That a special Providence cares for drunkards seemed to be proven by an occurrence at the Ballast wharf yesterday afternoon. The Belgian steward of a vessel lying at the wharf, who had acquired enough booze to give him a beautiful jaug. On his return to his vessel he scurried to use the usual method of getting on board, by jumping from the wharf to the vessel. He failed to connect. The schooner was a considerable distance below the level of the wharf and the Belgian fell about thirty feet, striking the water between the vessel's side and the wharf.

His position was extremely uncomfortable and he made everyone within earshot aware of the fact. Some men who were near at hand went to the aid of the steward and with the aid of a couple of ropes finally landed the man on the schooner's deck.

The rescuing operations were not performed quickly enough to suit the rescued man, who was very angry. He cursed a couple of ropes finally landed the man on the schooner's deck. # TRANSFORMATIONS CURIOUS RESULTS WHEN COFFEE DRINKING IS ABANDONED.

It is almost as hard for an old coffee drinker to give up the habit as it is for a whisky or tobacco fiend to break off, except that the coffee user can abstain and take up Postum without any feeling of loss of the morning beverage, for when Postum is well used it is really better in point of flavor than most of the coffee served nowadays.

A great transformation takes place in the body within ten days or two weeks after coffee is left off and Postum is taken for the reason that the potassium of the coffee served nowadays is discontinued and in its place is taken a liquid food that contains the most powerful elements of ourishment.

It is easy to make this test and prove these statements by changing from coffee to Postum. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs. "There's a Reason."
