FIRE FIGHTERS

What Ye Olden Time Veterans Accomplished in Battling With the Flames.

Among the larger fires of the olden days in Chatham were the old Eberts block in August, 1854, Pork Row on November 29, 1867, and the buildings standing where the Opera House is now situated.

That fire which destroyed the Eberts block started in a tannery down by the water's edge, spreading from there to King street, and also towards the old wooden Fifth street bridge, which it completely destroyed. So fierce was the fire, and such a terrific heat did it throw out, that the paint on the buildings across the street were all blistered so one could not read the signs. At the time of this fire there was only one fire company—No. 1. This company did valiant work, and anyone can easily imagine what great odds they had to contend against with their small engine and primitive mode of pumping. Every man and boy willingly volunteered his services at the pumps, and as one pump became exhausted and dropped out, another would take his place.

Pork Row caught fire at about the centre and spread both ways. All the firemen could do was to keep the fierce angry flames from jumping across the street to the stores opposite. As mentioned in another article, Pork Row extended from the store at present owned by G. W. Sulman to that of C. Austin. There was a great amount of pork chops went up in smoke, at that fire. The fire that resulted in the death of John Weir destroyed buildings situated where the Opera House is now situated, and was a very severe one. Mr. Weir, who was then employed in one of the stores burning up (A. D. Gordon's store) ran into the flames in an endeavor to save some books belonging to his employer, but, although he managed to make his way out alive, he unfortunately inhaled a quantity of smoke and flame which resulted in his death.

Scores of children would come around while a fire was in progress, and they would fill their pockets with candies, nuts, etc., which would be scattered about by the falling walls.

Our pioneer ancestors of those early days were very generous, and the volunteer firemen never lacked a goodly supper, given gratis by a nearby restaurant or hotel.

A GOOD THING

"Well, this street carnival means a lot to Chatham," said Doc. Thornton, who is turning out to be a thoroughly funny wit since the street carnival came here. "You may be surprised, but it has meant a saving of about $200 to me. Since seeing the sights of the various shows I have given up the idea of going to St. Louis with my wife and family. St. Louis will surely feel the effects of this Chatham street carnival."

SCOTS MEET TO-NIGHT

There will be a mass meeting of the Sons of Scotland in the office of Secretary J. W. Aitken this evening at eight o'clock. Tickets for the concert to-morrow can be secured from any of the committee composed of Chas. man Robertson, Wm. Anderson, J. Kerr, John Cummings, Robert Riddell, John McKay, S. McCormick, D. J. McDonald, Dr. D. E. Russell and J. W. Aitken. Reserved seats tickets better be secured at once.

OLD BOYS' "HOME"

John Doyle, an aged resident of Taylor avenue, arrived at the police station this morning in the rain. He has been staying at the hospital but sought a change of lodging house and Chief Holmes was surprised this morning when the aged citizen arrived bag and baggage. It isn't often that people seek this lodging house of their own free will. The reception extended wasn't cordial enough and he left to seek other quarters. He said if they didn't want him he would get another place.

THE GRAND LODGE

The Worshipful Grand Lodge of the Ladies Orange Benevolent Association of P. A. met in the Orange Hall, King St., Chatham, on May 31st, and June 1st, with Right Worthy Grand Mistress Miss Mary Cullum, of Toronto, in the chair. The work before the meeting was large and was all completed by noon on June 1st, when the secret work of the various degrees was put on the floor by the grand lodge officers. By the report of the Grand Mistress and Secretary and Treasurer and various committees, the society is in a prosperous condition and in the near future will be a tower of strength to the Orange order. The election of officers took place as follows: The Worthy Grand Mistress called W. Bro. Hugh Gallagher to the chair to conduct the same with the following results—Right Worthy Grand Mistress—Miss Mary Cullum, Toronto. Deputy Grand Mistress—Mrs. Perkins, London. Junior Deputy Grand Mistress—Mrs. Miller, Ottawa. Grand Chaplain—Mrs. Cullum, Toronto. Grand Sec.—Mrs. Alex. Gangmore, Dover Centre. Grand Treas.—Mrs. Yeates, Sarnia. Grand D. of C.—Mrs. Spagos, Chatham. G.—Mrs. Weston, Hamilton. Dep. G.—Mrs. Wilson, Chatham. The next place of meeting, Toronto.

THE SATELLITE

And the old boys keep coming home. Welcome to the Detroit Old Boys. There is really a sun. I saw it last week.

Hurrah for the Old Boys and a Tiger for Chatham. The B. G. Planet Art Souvenir is worth the money.

The shows might be good enough if they only had the chance.

I would like to thank the weather man for not sending snow, anyway.

Even the rain couldn't stay away from the Chatham Old Boys' Re-union.

The Planet Art Souvenir are on sale. Help yourself to the good stuff.

The only part of Yankee land that I like is where the Chatham Old Boys are.

Read the Planet Art Souvenir for 25 cents or for 25 minutes, just as you like.

The Street Fair is in full swing, but the swing the weather man landed was a killer.

The rain put a damper on the celebration, but the enthusiasm is still dispensed over the city bars at 10c per.

The Planet Art Souvenir will be on sale to-morrow. Don't forget to secure a copy of a dollar book for 25 cents.

"Made in Canada" and the "Old Boys Re-union" both got a ducking but even that didn't prevent each being a success.

I wonder if the weather man was casting any reflections when he furnished this water for the Old Boys' Re-union.

Bill Bailey came home, then he cried—You'll please let me in, I stand here freezing wet to the skin!"

Even if it is damp and gloomy, extend your mit to every old boy you meet and make them feel that they have been missed.

The Planet Art Souvenir are good sellers. Send one to your 32nd cousin out west, so he can see what a civilized town looks like.

I don't know what the people would have been able to grumble about had it not been for the tents. Had it not been for the rain, there would have been no grumbling.

I hope none of the Detroit Old Boys failed to recognize the Maple City of to-day as the Chatham they knew. I would hate to think they thought they had struck New York and then go on looking for the town they knew.

(Special to the Satellite).

Kindly hold the Old Boys' Re-union for me. I've been delayed by the rains but I'm coming—Chas. Williams.

BOYS FROM THE WEST

formed. To those of you who were volunteer firemen two or three decades ago when the old hand engines were replaced by the steam fire engines, which were drawn by man power, I wish to say that with the hard work you endured in fighting the flames of those days, you did valiant service for our town and the citizens of to-day gladly acknowledge your good deeds and your great skill. Brave men have always been at the fore front, and brave deeds are recorded of Chatham's firemen in the days of old, and to-day the skill and bravery of the past have descended to the present time when we enjoy the services of as good and brave and active and noble a lot of firemen as any city in the wide universe can boast.

All honor and praise to our firemen of the past, and all honor and praise to our firemen of the present. May it ever be said of our worthy firemen that they followed worthily in the footsteps of the worthy, brave and noble men who were ready to sacrifice life to save life, and who were ever ready to fight hard and long to quench the flames that were destroying their neighbors' property in the early days of our city's history.

One of the most pleasant features of our Old Boys' Re-union is the fact that it brings together the members of the old veterans and the volunteer firemen, who took such an active and responsible interest in the welfare of the old town of Chatham. I trust that the years to come will still be happy and pleasant to you, and that as you continue the journey of life the memories of this re-union will often brighten your hours and make glad your hearts and make dear the old town which we now take pride in calling the Maple City.

(Signed) W. E. McKEOUGH,

Mayor.

Chatham, Ontario, 1st June, 1904. The parade started with the Detroit Light Guard Band, then came the Detroit old boys with their attractive white umbrellas, then the 24th Regimental Band, followed by brave old veteran firemen with their natty white caps and escorted by the ex-Regimental Band. The line of march was along William to King; down King to Queen; out Queen to Grand Trunk depot; and back William to the drill shed, where they disbanded. Crowds lined the route of march and great enthusiasm was shown at the fine appearance of the procession. Amongst those prominent in the carriage was Kenneth Urquhart, the oldest living veteran fireman.

THE SUMMER SCHOOL

The June issue of the Canadian Teacher contains the following in reference to the Chatham Summer School—

The introduction of the new Programme of Studies in September will necessitate careful preparation on the part of teachers in Ontario. The new subjects will require much attention. Summer schools will be popular for a few years at least.

We are glad to hear of the Chatham Summer School. Nature Study, Drawing, Color Work, Cardboard and Paper Work, Raffle and Read Weaving, Plastiline and Clay Modelling will be taken up.

Teachers will be glad to know that Mr. J. W. Plewes, the Principal of the Chatham Public Schools, has been appointed to take charge of the work. Mr. Plewes is one of Ontario's most prominent educators. He is a teacher who is always appreciated at home, as it shown by the fact that the Chatham School Board has just increased his salary to $1,200, an increase of $500 in the past four years. Chatham has always been one of the best supporters of School and Home, and Mr. Plewes attributes no small amount of his success to its assistance in class work. Intending students would do well to communicate immediately with Mr. Plewes regarding dates, terms, course of study, etc.
