Speaking to the resolution Mr. McLaren said that in olden days when one thought of war they had a conception of flags flying, bands playing and a sort of celebration but little thought was of the grim work which had to be done by the troops engaged.

The retiring president, Mr. J. M. Elson, in handing over the reins of office to Mr. Masters said that during the seven years that he has held the office he had seen many changes in the riding especially during the war.

In conclusion Mr. Elson said he would like to suggest that the members of the association accord the new president and officers the heartiest support and if this is done the future of the party will be successful.

acres was bought in 1912 and the house is built on the side of a ravine. The cost of the land was $15,000 an acre and costs $147,000 including the law fees. The cost of cleaning up the brush on the site was $6,000. When the foundation was dug it was found that they were 19 feet below the sewer of the City of Toronto and a pump had to be installed to pump the sewage up to the required level. In 1912 the opposition were informed that the building would cost $400,000. We opposed it as a needless expenditure and there was a law in force which said that a portion of the money derived from the sale of the old government house should be used to build and equip a new house. But the government went on without legal sanction and against the act. In 1913 the cost was estimated at $622,000 and the opposition protested again but were voted down. In 1914 the estimate was $875,000 or more than double the amount estimated two years before. The government then discovered the act and slipped through another to make this big expenditure legal. The landscape gardening cost $100,000. There are twenty separate rooms in the basement and in order to heat the buildings two 100 H. P. boilers were installed at a cost of $78,000. The house is air cooled through out and a refrigeration plant was installed to provide ice. There are three billiard rooms and $400 worth of coal was used last year to heat the place. The building boasts 24 telephones, 24 bathrooms and the Donegal rugs cost over $1000 each for some of them. Some of the chairs were worth $24 each and the stall fittings for four horses cost $360. The opposition protested against this and every time they had the support of Alan Studholme, the labor member.

In conclusion, Mr. Marshall said that the situation had come to a climax and if the Liberals and others did not cooperate and drive out the government at Ottawa and Toronto they will never have a chance again.

Natural Gas Will It Last?

WEATHER Northerly winds; fair and comparatively cool to-day and Sunday.

Efforts to find new sources of Natural gas in Ontario are ceaseless. Hundreds of thousands of acres are leased by the natural gas companies to create a reserve. But a large portion of this area will prove unproductive. No one knows just how small our resources in natural gas are. But they are not inexhaustible. Economy and carefulness will mean a longer enjoyment of what we have.

Although Natural Gas is Cheap, do not waste it—the Supply is not Everlasting.

THE UNITED GAS COMPANIES, Limited.

The speaker was heartily applauded when he sat down. W. G. Charlton. The next speaker was Mr. W. G. Charlton of Aylmer who during the course of an interesting address gave an outline of the plans of the organization of the Western Ontario Liberal Association and urged the necessity of co-operation and a first class organization in this and every other district. The speaker said that the past must be a fingerpoint to the future and that the party must profit by the mistakes made in the past in order that they might not occur again. Liberalism is an ideal and something that each and everyone should look up to. Touching on the record of the Dominion government Mr. Charlton said that the spirit of the people showed their unfaith in that government and they made a bad blunder in 1911 and again in 1917 and now they must drink the soup that they brewed with their own fire.

A Fine Tribute. The last speaker was Capt. E. J. Lovelace who was greeted with applause when he stepped to the platform. During the course of a brief but inspiring address Capt. Lovelace paid a glowing tribute to the heroism of the Canadian troops and especially the men under his command. It was just a year ago said the speaker that the storm broke on the eastern front and that it was expected that the Canadian Corps would be expected to bear their share of it. They did and there was never a time when a man wanted to shrink one iota from the task he was set to do. In all the time he was at the front he never heard one word of grouching or complaint from the men. It was a serious time for many of the men and there is hardly a man who has not made some sacrifice and now that they are coming home the question is what is to be done for them. It was a privilege to go to the front and lead such splendid men and the period of reconstruction is now at hand and something must be done to provide work for these men. It made the speaker heart sick he said to think that while there were men overseas fighting there were men at home indulging in a system of petty grafting. Continuing Capt. Lovelace said that if the Liberal party does not take a foremost part in this work of reconstruction it has no call for its existence. He would like to see a progressive policy like they have in England. Lloyd George said that the government meant to make England a nation fit for heroes to live in. In conclusion the speaker recited Robert W. Service's poem "Carry On" which was well received. The convention closed with cheers for the King.
