300 Miners Killed.

Special to Evening Telegram.

BOLTON, Eng., Dec. 21. More than 300 miners lost their lives to-day in an explosion in the little Bolton colliery, which is located a short distance outside the city. The explosion occurred early in the morning soon after the miners had entered the pit to begin work. Its force was terrific. Later investigation showed that the lower passages had been blocked. Heroic efforts were made by rescue parties all day long, but a fierce fire which followed the explosion prevented the rescuers from penetrating beyond 400 yards into the workings. At 8.30 to-night all the rescuers were called out of the mines, and a conference was held at which Government Inspector Gerard issued a report after making a descent into the pit, in which he stated that it was impossible that any of the miners was still alive. He added that nothing could be done except to bring up the twenty bodies found lying in the shaft. The report was communicated to the anxious crowds around the pit mouth, after which the Bishop of Manchester commenced a touching service in the open air as the people slowly dispersed. No explanation is given as to the cause of the explosion, which completely wrecked the mines. This is the second great mine disaster in England this year, an explosion having occurred in the Wellington colliery at Whitehaven, Cumberland, on May 12, in which 132 miners were killed. The explosion to-day resulted in the temporary disablement of the machinery whereby the cages are lowered and drawn to the surface, and it was a considerable time before the first rescue party reached the bottom of the pitfall. They brought out eight men still living, but the majority of those were in a serious condition from the noxious gases. Ten bodies also were removed and 20 additional bodies were found partially covered by heavy falls of coal.

Late to-night the colliery fans were started again and the air was found to be fairly good. Arrangements were then made for relays of rescuers to go into the mine every three hours throughout the night. Towards midnight two more miners were found alive. They were terribly burned and are in critical conditions. It was announced that forty bodies had been collected at the bottom of the shaft and they will be brought up as soon as possible. Hope still animates the rescuers that more men may be found alive. Doctors, nurses and ambulances are still on the scene, and relatives, mostly women, are lingering in the vicinity. Among the incidents was the death of a rescuer who, anxious to reach his two sons who were entombed, got in advance of his comrades and forfeited his life by after-damp. The King sent a touching message of sympathy.

Special to Evening Telegram.

TOURS, France, Dec. 21. Sensational incidents occurred to-day at the trial of the self-styled "Count" Daulby de Galigny and his American wife, formerly Miss Frances Hunt, of Boston, who are charged with having swindled the Duchess of Choiseul in the sale of spurious pictures during the life of her former husband, Charles Hamilton Paine, of Boston. The closing moments of the trial this evening almost developed a riot. "Countess" Daulby, who was called to the witness stand after her husband, bitterly attacked the Duchess of Choiseul in designating her as that viper, that shameless woman, who tried to wreck my home. Daulby's lawyer, M. Bernard, attacking the counsel for the Duchess for allowing her business agent to sit beside her at the bar and practically direct the case of the prosecution. This unpardonable breach of etiquette of the French Bar, he declared, was an insult to the dignity of profession. Cries of sympathy broke out and soon the whole court room was on its feet shouting and hooting Judge Robers, pounded helplessly but was forced to declare a recess to preserve order. After the recess M. Bernard sprang another surprise. He read a letter supporting to be signed by the Duke of Choiseul claiming that Choiseul, the husband of the former Mrs. Paine had no right to the title of Duke of Choiseul, that he was merely the Duke of Praslon's representative, a junior branch of the House of Choiseul, and a grandson of the Duke of Praslon of bloody memory. Countess Daulby, unlike her husband, speaks French with wonderful rapidity, but she nearly drove the aged Judge to despair by nervous lapses into foreign words, sometimes English, especially when the name of the Duchess was mentioned when she exclaimed, speaking with reference to the plaintiff, "I didn't know her relations with my husband until later, but if I had known I would have driven her out like that viper she was." The witness said that she had met Daulby in New York and had married him for love, being especially drawn to him by reason of his musical abilities. She never knew much of her husband's business affairs and only knew as a fact that he had sold pictures to Mrs. Paine. She refused to answer questions of the opposing counsel which were calculated to show the date she had conspired to Heighston, the plaintiff's interest in the pictures, saying that persons so alleging were liars in the first degree. This completed the day. A Parisian expert who examined the paintings purchased by Mrs. Paine testified that none of them were authentic copies, others passable, but none was what the catalogue pretended. He admitted, however, that they might deceive the ordinary amateur.

Let's night, a woman named Bridget Mahoney of Majors Path, after purchasing some meat at D. Dooley's, went to the Royal Stores, and there on going to try some slides found she had lost her purse containing $25. She searched the street on her way back to Dooley's, and there a thorough search was made but without avail. The woman was about to leave the meat market in despair when suddenly she glanced up a corner and found her purse which was soiled with mud and had evidently been trodden on by several.

POLICE COURT NEWS.

To-day a drunk and disorderly who violently resisted arrest was fined $2 or 7 days. Three drunks were discharged. Two Norwegian seamen, drunk and disorderly, were each fined $5 or 14 days. A drunk was fined $1.50 or 3 days. Two men were summoned by Sergeant Noseworthy for fighting on the street on the 19th inst. One has gone to sea but the other appeared in court and was fined $5 or 14 days.

Here and There.

CALENDARS.—We thank Mr. T. J. Aylward and Mr. J. J. McGrath for calendars of 1911.

MENACE TO NAVIGATION.—The schooner "My Mother," which became waterlogged in Freshwater Bay last week and was abandoned by her crew, is now lying on her beam ends about a mile from the Southern Head. She is pretty well submerged and the sea runs over her. She is still held by her two anchors and of a dark night would be a dangerous obstacle for shipping to meet, especially if her anchors part or drag and she comes down off the Narrows. She should be put out of the way quickly.

Joseph Ronch and Anthony McGrath, who left St. John's last Sunday in a small western boat to go to their homes in Branch, had not arrived up to last night. It is feared that they were caught out by the storm of last Tuesday. The schooner was about 24 tons burthen and it would be no easy job for two men to handle her in a storm. Men who arrived from Branch this morning say that there is a possibility of her being in North Harbour. The relatives of the men are very anxious about them.

BROKE HIS FINGER.—A couple of evenings ago Mr. John F. Meehan was descending the stairway at his home he tripped and fell over it and sustained painful injuries. The middle finger of the right hand was broken and also dislocated at the joint. He received several bruises about the body and was treated by Dr. Scully.

The Furness Liner Tobasco, Capt. Yeoman, arrived here to J. & W. Pits at 8 a.m. today from Liverpool, after a voyage of 11½ days. The ship has three hundred tons cargo; and leaving there Saturday week had headwinds all the way with high seas. After reaching the Banks right up to the time of reaching port she had gales of wind, thick fog and torrential rain, and made as a result but slow progress. She sails for Halifax at 6 p.m. taking a small freight and a few passengers.
