Moir's Biscuits

Moir's Sweet Wine is a dainty little biscuit, of just the right delicacy of flavor to blend perfectly with wine, sherbet or punch. For smart social affairs, it is one of the most popular of biscuits.

The Socialist Movement.

BY ANDANTINO.

XII.—CONCLUSION.

I have almost done. I have but touched the fringe of the Movement. Yet it has led any out of the forests of prejudice and given them a view of the clear blue sky of the ultimate aim of Socialism—the writing of these papers will not have been without reward.

If those who have faith in their fellow men and in their inherent moral nature, who believe in human progress, and who do not stifle thought by the material considerations of life, it will be apparent that the Socialist brings in sight the culmination of the Universal Brotherhood of Man.

I have written mainly for those who have despised Socialism or at any rate place of worship, or from marrying, or being faithful to his wife, or from keeping and bringing up his children at home?

There is nothing in it to destroy religion nor the home, nor to foster vice.

But there is something in it to kill ignorance and to destroy vice. There is something in it to shut up the goals, to reduce crime and drunkenness, and wipe out for ever the sweat-ers and the slums, the beggars and the idle rich, and to make it possible for sober and willing workers to live healthy and happy and honourable lives. For Socialism would teach and train all children wisely; it would foster genius and devotion to the common good; it would kill scamping and loafing; it would give us better health, better homes, better work, better food, better lives, and better men and women.

For two centuries men have produced and distributed the things they needed, upon what is called "the competitive system," in which every man engaged in production and distribution is in a measure competing with every other man in it, each trying to make out of his particular calling the largest amount of money possible. That this system has resulted in great waste, misery and disease is shown only too well. One prominent feature of the system is that men do not work for the purpose of supplying the needs of their fellow creatures, but produce things simply for the purpose of making money for themselves. This competitive system is going to the wall, giving way to the Trusts, which are able to eliminate much of the waste but do not make the position of the labourer any brighter nor lighten the burden of the consumer. The latest in the Trust line is the movement of the Banks in Canada which are slowly merging into one. Where there were forty or fifty twenty years ago they have dwindled to less than half that number now, and the merger of the Traders Bank and the Royal Bank lately is causing uneasiness in Canada as to the ultimate end of it all. But it is all paving the way for State control!

It is shown that were the production of the necessaries of life placed on a proper footing that it could be accomplished in less than half the time that it takes now.

The enormous losses caused by strikes and lock-outs and the erroneous wastes of getting the market add in no small way to the present ruling of high prices. All this unrest in England, all the demands which come from the labourers everywhere spring from the tyranny and injustice of present day business methods.

As Lloyd-George says: While wealth has increased so wonderfully the worker has not got his share.

The two books that I should recommend the reader to procure are "The Socialist Movement," by J. R. McDonald, M.P., and "Twentieth Century Socialism," by Edmond Kelly, both of which can be bought here—the former for twenty-five cents and the latter for one dollar and eighty. These will enlarge what I have endeavoured to put before you and will give you a fair and practical view of Socialism, and for the principles which should underlie our daily work read Ruskin's "Unto the Last," and Carlyle's "Past and Present."

It has been an eye-opener I suspect to many to read that Socialism comes as a revelation of God's power to care for the material welfare of mankind. The Socialist State will come through political power. Indeed many of their demands are being granted even now by parties not calling themselves Socialists.

But, by the way, is it not heart-rending to see how apparently easy it is to raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for a palatial hotel for the 'idle rich' tourist to spread in, and we are blinded with dust, filled with germs of all kinds, and our people live in hovels hardly habitable? And on what authority can the Government guarantee the interest on any of the money required? Wake up! Indeed, with two hundred lives murdered every year by indifference.

Another word of thanks to the Telegram for the use of its columns, and to those who have taken the trouble to follow the articles. W. T. Stead says that we are all Socialists, plus common sense and the ten commandments, and if I have started anyone in applying the ten commandments the chief one of "loving thy neighbour in its full meaning, to the methods of business and our daily work, I am content to leave the outcome. You may not want to become a Socialist but you will find in an unprejudiced study of the movement, that it has opened the avenues of escape from the predatory methods of our time.

Money rules—rules Society—rules those who have it and those who have not.

The Socialist State is more of an Evolution than a revolution in the common meaning of the latter term.

The Socialist stands for the universal brotherhood of man, while no one can say "Thy Kingdom Come on Earth with any true meaning in the words and imagine that the direction of effort in the world to-day is in the way of that wonderful kingdom. There are attempts it is true and many deserving ones, to make the conditions under which the kingdom can be accomplished, but they are in the nature of Charity, not Justice. And it is not Aims that is needed but a friend. Not what we give, but what we share. For the gift without the giver is bare. The motive power behind Socialism is not merely mechanical and social economy but life itself.

Hence around it are ranged the living impulses of religion, of ethics, of art, of literature, those creative impulses which fill man's heart from an inexhaustible store of hope and aspiration, and which make him find not only his greatest happiness but also the very reason for life itself, in pursuing the pilgrim road which, mounting up over the hills and beyond the horizon, winds towards the Ideal.

PHOENIX, Arizona, May 31.

About 6,000 votes were cast at the Democratic State Primaries. According to returns tabulated yesterday, Champ Clark obtained 90 per cent. of the total.

HALIFAX, May 31.

The man arrested in connection with the shooting of Donaldson and wounding Cody at Birch Cove, yesterday, was brought here from Windsor to-night. His correct name is Hubert A. Grant, of Boston.

BERLIN, May 31.

Die Post learns that new official regulations according to which all German passenger steamers carrying 75 or more persons, inclusive of the crew, must be equipped with wireless apparatus with a radius of 100 miles, will go into force next October.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 31.

Despatches from Dawson, Yukon Territory, say that forest fires are still burning north and south of Dawson, and that a large acreage of standing timber has been destroyed. A hundred square miles are now barren. There has been no rain in the Yukon this season.

LONDON, May 31.

Claude Graham White announces his intention to organize the greatest aviation meet yet held. He will invite two hundred air men to take part in the competitions for the purpose of raising a fund to erect a memorial to Wilbur Wright. He says that Wright might almost be described as the Edison of the air.

NEW YORK, May 31.

It is announced that the new 50,000-ton White Star Liner to take the place of the Titanic in the fall of 1913 will be named the Britanic. She will be the same length as the Olympic. The White Star Line has had two vessels bearing the name of Britanic, both of which earned large sums for the company. The name is considered lucky.

WINNIPEG, May 31.

It is reported here that to-morrow the Publicity Commissioner of Moosejaw, Sask., is sending out 50,000 post cards bearing the slogan, "To hell with poverty; come to Moosejaw." Orders have been issued by the Postmaster General's department, Ottawa, to turn all these over to the dead letter office.

LONDON, May 31.

"Open or closed shop" is the cause of the dispute in dockland, and at present there is no sign of the employers' consent to debar non-unionists from employment, or that the strike leaders will agree to permit their men to work alongside non-unionists. The joint conference called by the Government for this morning proved, as anticipated, futile, not a single employer putting in an appearance. The Government, however, submitted fresh proposals for the consideration of the men. Whether Tillet and Gosling have succeeded in making the dispute a national affair will not be made known until after the meeting of the national executives to-morrow; but indications are that the Sailors' and Firemen's Union will probably have the deciding vote and oppose the movement on the ground that the present time is inopportune, primarily because of the financial condition of the Unions' treasury. Should the decision be against national support, the strike appears doomed to failure. Numbers of non-unionists are working along the docks daily, increasing the provisioning of London, which goes on uninterrupted. Having failed to bring employers and men together, the Government is tackling each side separately, and at to-day's meeting of the Board of Trade, at which strike leaders alone attended, the Government suggested setting up a joint conciliation board, with power over all parties.

tics working in the port. The strike leaders promise to give the men's reply June 4th. This is believed to be the policy the Government purposes to carry out, and it is understood they are prepared to enforce the authority of the conciliation board by legislation, the same as in the recent case of the coal strike.

This Lady Gives a Splendid Reason

WHY SHE WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS IN THE HOUSE.

They helped her husband and cured her own Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel of thirteen years' standing.

Cando, Sask., May 31. (Special)—"I would not be without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house," exclaims Mrs. Jno. C. MacKenzie, of this place. And those who have heard Mrs. MacKenzie's story do not wonder that she is so emphatic.

"I was a victim for about twelve or thirteen years of Bladder and Kidney trouble," Mrs. MacKenzie says. "It grew into Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel. Doctors attended me but they did not do me any good.

"My husband had used Dodd's Kidney Pills with good results and I decided to give them a trial. Before I had finished the first box I was greatly benefited.

Dodd's Kidney Pills benefit and cure permanently all who suffer from any form of Kidney Disease. They cure the Kidneys and cured Kidneys strain the poison that causes the disease out of the blood. That's why Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to cure Rheumatism, Dropsy and Gravel.

Little Girl Seriously Hurt.

At 2.30 yesterday afternoon a nine year old girl named Louise Whitty was run over near her home on New Gower Street by a horse, which was attached to a buggy driven by Mr. R. Colford, who did not see the little one until the horse was up on her, the wheel of the vehicle going over her. As a result her right leg was broken below the knee. The child was picked up and conveyed home by the driver of the team. The little girl suffered intense pain. Dr. Stafford was summoned, splinted the limb and ordered the girl to hospital.

Sailor Arrested.

Last evening the captain of the barque E. S. Hocken, which is lying at Harvey's wharf, made a complaint that one of his sailors, Rye Wallace, an Austrian, was acting fiercely on the vessel and probably would do something rash if not restrained. Const. O'Flaherty and Crocker visited the vessel and found the man only too willing to cross swords with them. A struggle ensued and after a hard time the sailor was handcuffed. Even then he became unmanageable and kicked like a steer. A cab was procured and he was conveyed to the police station. This is the third time this seaman has caused trouble, although only a fortnight in port. He is only a handful to look at, but one of the toughest the police ever handled.
