Schawb Has Booked $100,000,000 Orders.

New York, May 15.—When Charles M. Schawb returned from Europe several months ago he made the statement that war orders received by the Bethlehem Steel Co. aggregated a total of more than $50,000,000. It is now conservatively estimated that Bethlehem Steel has booked at least $100,000,000 of business in war contracts. The total, taking into consideration the work that has been booked is greatly in excess of that figure.

The Bethlehem Steel Works, due to inadequate capacity to meet the extraordinary demand for shrapnel, has farmed out work valued at millions of dollars to companies with facilities for machining shells or making shell parts.

Making a Crime Blacker

Philadelphia Public Ledger:—Burke, in his "Speech on the Conciliation of America," made that much-quoted remark, "I do not know the method of drawing up an indictment against a whole people," he did not foresee the astounding circumstances that a century and a half later there would be a people, skilled in all the arts of civilization, justly proud of the high position they had won among the nations of the world, so completely obsessed by the worst passions of human nature as to relapse into the kind of barbarism of which even the darkest of the Dark Ages might have been ashamed. It is true that the German Government has sent to Washington a perfunctory message of sympathy with the victims of the Lusitania horror. But this action cannot weigh for a moment in public opinion with the outbursts of savage joy with which the news that hundreds of innocent lives had been lost was received all over Germany.

Highlanders Parade.

The Newfoundland Highlanders held their first Church parade for the season on Sunday morning and it was one of the finest turnouts in the history of the brigade, notwithstanding the fact that over sixty per cent of the original strength of the battalion joined the Newfoundland Regiment. The depletion in the ranks were quickly made up for, due to the activities and zealous efforts of commissioned as well as non-commissioned officers.

Leaving their hall on King's Road, under command of Capt. J. J. McKay, the battalion, headed by its pipers and drummers discoursing appropriate airs, marched to St. Andrew's Church, where the Chaplain, Rev. J. S. Sutherland, M.A., delivered a patriotic sermon. After service a tour of the city was made. At the Armory the Rev. Mr. Sutherland took occasion to address the battalion, again mentioning that two members, Privates Martin and Morris—had died at duty's post, since the last church parade, the former being a victim in the Vlnkor and the latter being lost with the Clan MacNaughton.

Loan Failure Explained.

Germans Would Not Permit Investigation of Financial Situation.

London, May 15.—British official circles have just learned why the energetic endeavours of Count Bernstorff and Dr. Dernburg to obtain subscriptions in the United States to the latest German war loan have been unsuccessful.

A group of American houses were willing to take up a considerable block of the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, would give a guarantee of the accuracy of Count Bernstorff's many statements, or allow a representative of the group to make a personal investigation in Berlin into the actual state of affairs.

After much temporizing, both courses were refused, with the immediate result that not only were the purely American subscriptions withheld, but, on the facts becoming known, many German-Americans abandoned the idea of subscribing to the loan.

Count Bernstorff now is reported to be making efforts to borrow money in America for war goods already purchased there.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

The little big things of life are too often neglected by mothers of boys who comfort themselves, with the flimsy excuse that "he will do it from pride when he gets older"; but it is a poor, weak reed to lean upon for he will not do so if it is not impressed upon him early. If the boy is allowed to eat with his knife and grasp his fork by the tines when he is growing, he will do it when he is older, though during counting days he may temporarily lay aside the habit.

It is the same with all bad habits and they cannot be broken too soon. A keen sense of his obligations, mental, moral and financial, to his fellow-beings should be instilled early, so that at this age there may be no doubt in his mind on these questions. No one is better fitted to tell the intimate social conditions to a son than his mother. It is her's to strip the veil of mystery from this so-called social evil, and throw the light of knowledge on what the purity of his life will mean to himself and his offspring.
