

A Glance at Life in Great Britain--Happenings in England, Ireland and Scotland Briefly Chronicled

ENGLAND

GLUT OF FLOWERS

Hundreds of Tons Diverted From Southern France to England by Paris Floods.

Owing to the Paris floods hundreds of tons of flowers have been diverted from Southern France into England, and there is a glut at Covent Garden. Daffodils are selling at 3s a dozen, while consignments of narcissi from the Sicily Isles can be bought at 1s 6d a box of about three dozen.

Postman C. Hadlow was driving the nine-horsepower motor mail van into Sittingbourne when a massive bullock charged the van with lowered horns. The van was disabled, and the mailbags split, but the postman received no hurt. Stunned by the shock the bullock trotted away to join his fellows.

A baby penguin, a pretty little slate-grey bird, with a huge bill, has just been hatched at the Zoological Gardens, where live eleven Cape penguins. These are of the same type as the "boobies" of Jamaica, whose eggs are so popular as food in that island.

Among the wreaths placed on Sir Henry Irving's tomb in Westminster Abbey, in commemoration of the anniversary of his birth, was a laurel chaplet, "From six old Lyceum pit-titers."

The memorial of the late Mr. Richard Seddon, prime minister of New Zealand, has been completed, and the panel is being cast in bronze. Preparatory to its erection in the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral, London.

It was stated at an inquest at Manchester that a woman who earned her living by gathering waste paper, in the streets rented four houses for a total of £1 3s per week, and by letting separate rooms made a profit of 30s. Funerals can now be conducted in London with all the usual solemnity, by means of a motor hearse, which runs swiftly or slowly, as desired, but always silently, and which can be transformed, between funerals, into a cab.

The new buildings of the Institution of civil engineers, London, will involve an expenditure of over $500,000. The death is announced of Capt. John J. Dunn, the author, sportsman and artist. The captain, who was in his 73rd year, had had a brilliant career as soldier.

CLIFF FALL AT DOVER.

Many Tons of Chalk Slipped Away Besides Tall Chimney of the Mills.

A heavy fall of cliff occurred at Dover at the foot of the oil mills. Many tons of chalk slipped away beside the tall chimney shaft of the mills, and there are big fissures on the surrounding chalk threatening the destruction of the shaft.

At a meeting of Nelson Bros., the

ARE YOUR CHILDREN PUNY?

SUGGESTIVE LETTER TO PARENTS

Nature is not often at fault. Stupidity and thoughtlessness of parents are responsible for many of the half-grown men and women we meet.

Their fathers and mothers did not supply the aid that would have set their body activities into full force to develop vitality and rugged strength.

Mrs. Timothy Bristow, writes a letter that should set thousands of parents thinking. "My boy and girl, fourteen and sixteen years old, looked pale and puny. They seemed not to care for play like neighbors' children. They were too effeminate and lacked something I would have liked to see them possess. I don't know what put it into my head, but I gave up making cookies and sweet dishes, and it didn't take me long to see they were eating more of the right kind of food. I just thought I would give them some of my own tonic, 'Ferrozine,' and was delighted with the result. Such an appetite it gave them! They grew fairly fat and had a lovely pink color. I think when such a good tonic as Ferrozine is available, there is no excuse for delicate children. Certainly lots of nourishment food, and Ferrozine, will give a child a chance to grow up hearty and strong."

And Ferrozine is a good tonic for old folks too—it's full of nutrition and the weak strong very quickly. Try one or two tablets with your meals. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50; all dealers or The Chattanooga Company, Kingston, Canada.

Her Daughter Took Very Sick As Result Of Catching Cold.

Mrs. Dennis Delaney, Friar's Head N.S., writes: "At the close of the year 1907, our youngest daughter, five years old, took very sick as the result of catching cold. She became very weak and could not move around at all. We consulted doctors and gave her various kinds of medicine but they did not seem to relieve her any. On the advice of a friend I procured a bottle of your valuable remedy, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and after using the first bottle noticeable improvement was the result and after using three bottles she was entirely cured. I can certify that it was through your valuable remedy that she regained her strength and would advise every mother having young ones similarly afflicted to obtain your valuable remedy. For myself I would not be without a bottle in the house."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup contains all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree combined with Wild Cherry bark and other pectoral remedies. It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. Price 25 cents at all dealers. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

IRELAND

LABORERS' COTTAGES.

Scheme To Erect Twenty-Six In Newbury at a Cost of $2,300.

The Newry No. 1 (County Down) Rural District Council has just formulated a scheme for the provision of 26 laborers' cottages at an estimated cost of $2,300. This is the third scheme for the district.

The annual plowing match held by the County Tyrone Farming Society was held recently, and was one of the most successful events of the kind ever held in the Omagh district.

Mr. Wm. Thompson, of Cornacoff, Glenferrie, an extensive farmer and butter and egg merchant, died suddenly on Feb. 1, at Cherrybrook, Manorhamilton, the residence of his son.

The "trial" in Ireland is arranging to take concerted action with the view of getting the license clauses and the whiskey duty, so far as they relate to Ireland, omitted from the budget.

Mrs. Colvin, an inmate of the Drogheda Union Hospital, Sligo, recently received a telegram from King Edward congratulating her on her attainment of her hundredth birthday.

Mrs. A. D. Comyn, of Bellinerry, County Galway, wife of Mr. A. D. Comyn, land commissioner, and granddaughter of Daniel O'Connell, the Irish Liberator, died suddenly recently.

The lord lieutenant has appointed Most Rev. John Tobin, Bishop of Down and Connor, member of the Intermediate Education Board for Ireland in the room of Archbishop of Dublin resigned.

The congested districts board have completed negotiations for the purchase of the Windsor estate, near Castlebar, County Mayo, on which there is a large number of grazing land farms containing 500 acres.

At the Newry Port and Harbor Trust meeting on Feb. 3, the secretary, George R. Armstrong, J.P., mentioned that during the ten months ended the 1st inst. the imports of coal were 45,970 register tons.

Ireland has the longest river and the biggest lake in the British Isles. In- dole, Lough Neagh, dimensions are only exceeded in Europe by a very few sheets of fresh water. Ireland has the biggest brewery and the biggest shipbuilding yard in the world, the mightiest monument (the Wellington).

One of the largest parks in the world is Phoenix, while O'Connell street, Dublin, only wants a few feet of being the widest thoroughfare in the world.

WINTER IN WICKLOW.

Severest Snowstorm the Country Has Felt in Forty Years.

The severest snow storm that has been experienced in Wicklow in forty years swept over West Wicklow during the night of Friday, Jan. 8, and continued with unabated fierceness on Saturday.

At the city commission in Dublin recently, Thomas Doyle was found guilty of the manslaughter of his sister Josephine, and sentenced to 15 years' penal servitude. The prisoner served in the Boer war.

Ald. Daniel Boyle, of Manchester, the candidate selected by the chairman of the Irish party at the request of local Nationalists, was returned for North Mayo with a majority of 40 over Bernard Egan.

At Cavan quarter sessions, Judge Drummond, K.C., awarded $600 compensation to be levied off the County Leitrim at large, a claim for the alleged malicious burning of a quantity of hay and farming implements.

A scheme for the erection of the Ballynagall school is coupled with a scheme for the erection of a similar school in Arklow, the sum estimated as being required to complete the buildings being set down at about $14,000.

An attempt to cross the Irish Sea from Dublin to England in a balloon was tried on Feb. 15 by John Dunlop and A. Pollock, two Belfast aeronauts. The feat, which has been accomplished several times, is counted a dangerous undertaking.

A man named Canavan and his wife both aged about 50 years, together with their son, aged 9 years, were found suffocated in a small room in their house at Admors, Kilkerrin, recently. A pot of fire stood in the centre of the floor.

STOPPING WEDDING.

Farmers Brutally Ill-Treat a Man Who Would Marry Their Relative.

Three Athlone farmers were fined £1 each and sentenced to a month's imprisonment in default of finding bail for good behavior, for a brutal attack on a returned American who wanted to marry their relative, a widow with two children, and "settle in the place," a small farm.

The three farmers wanted to prevent this, and made certain statements to the parish priest, as a consequence when the couple entered the church, the priest refused to marry them, and as they were leaving the building the bridegroom was set upon, knocked down, and badly beaten.

The late Gerald FitzGibbon, Irish lord justice of appeal, left £24,500. The death is announced of Captain John J. Dunne, the author, sportsman, artist and ex-soldier. Born in Queen's County in 1837, he came to a family which boasted the purest Irish ancestry, and before all time his passionate love for his native country.

SCOTLAND

POORHOUSE ROBBED.

Enterprising Dundee Burglar Gets Away With $300 Booty.

An enterprising Dundee burglar has managed to get a haul of $300 from a local poorhouse.

During last month there were no fewer than three maiden courts in Leith.

During the year 14,272 lodgers made use of Elgin corporation lodging-house.

Sir John Macpherson has been re-elected chairman of Forres Leachell Hospital.

During the past quarter 86 pounds of meat were destroyed in Elgin as being unfit for food.

A scheme is to be formulated for the medical inspection of the schools in the vicinity of Maydayshire.

Southwick school has been closed owing to influenza, which has affected nearly every house in the parish.

The rate of interest on landed securities in Scotland from Whit Sunday will be continued at 2½ per cent.

There are 67 families in Edinburgh paying $150 and upwards of rent, and say they are unable to pay rates.

Capt. John Donaldson, of the Leith traders, Malta, I.L., has been awarded $1,100 for trawling within the limit.

The Fifth of Forth herring fishing has proved a complete failure, and fishermen have abandoned it altogether.

Mr. Edinburgh Tory lawyer candidates were nearly all defeated, while the Liberal ones were mostly successful.

A DISAPPOINTMENT.

Scottish Miners' Candidates Did Not Get Into Parliament.

To the disappointment of some 80,000 miners throughout Scotland none of the candidates who were put up for Parliament in Lanarkshire, Ayrshire and Fifeshire, was successful.

Saltcoats town council have decided to remove a large quantity of sand which had accumulated at the West Esplanade wall to the ladies' toilet.

The Edinburgh Tory lawyer candidates were nearly all defeated, while the Liberal ones were mostly successful.

CHURCHILL EXPLAINS

Continued from Page Thirteen.

ity in the new House of Commons who are under the impression that the proposals we make for dealing with the Land and their veto, it would be life and it would be foolish—it would not be in the interests of the cause we are seeking to advance—for us to do and to propose the action which must follow. When these facts are established a new situation will have been created, and that situation will involve the Government in a financial crisis of the Government. (Loud cheers.)

We are going to take immediate steps—subject only to the necessary financial business—to come to a final step upon this question elsewhere. Some delay is inevitable. Where every step is fraught with grave consequences to the state and with peril to the cause, deliberate and measured action is not merely prudent but decent. (Loud cheers.)

In the meanwhile the administration of the country must proceed with simplicity and efficiency. The time will be very short, and when the proposals are brought before the House we will stake our whole existence upon carrying them into law. (Prolonged cheers.)

"The test of the true American" it has been well said, "is the impulse to move on," and in this respect the true American has no equal. This time his move was an epoch-making one. He was called to be professor of the Johns Hopkins University of Baltimore, in 1889 when he went to it the strangely named university was not even a name to Europeans. Now it stands in the first rank in the world as a medical school. Sixteen years of Oslers work were responsible for that elevation. It was at Johns Hopkins that he perfected his methods as a medical teacher, and gained to his final self the reputation that led to his final call to Oxford in the year 1905.

A friend to young men. It was the opening of the Johns Hopkins Hospital which had called him to Baltimore. There he found himself faced with a great problem of organization, and a selfless devotion to the cause that the newly-founded medical school would make a new contribution to higher medical education, and would not content itself with merely falling behind the times, but would give a fuller responsibility and a fuller opportunity to the selected men who walked the wards of the Johns Hopkins Hospital. Withal, he had a unique capacity for inspiring enthusiasm and a selfless devotion to the cause of medicine in those who worked under him. Perhaps the greatest of all his secrets was his attitude to young men. In England, unfortunately, our young men tend too often to suppress their juniors. They deliberately try to keep them in their places, to teach them their insignificance. A young man has to fight his way upward with little encouragement from those who are older than he. He made it always his object to know and understand the young men, to find out the promising and earnest ones, to encourage them, and help them on with his cheery friendship. He does not wait for them to come to him; he seeks them out, and they freely help themselves from the stores of his knowledge and his sympathy.

His Wide Culture. No harder worker ever lived. Scientific monographs do not lend themselves to verbiage, so it may be faintly realized what is meant by the fact that a partial record of his publications down to the year 1907 fills fifteen volumes of the quarto catalogue of the Surgeon-General's Library at Washington. His great book on the "Principles and Practice of Medicine" has reached a seventh large edition. He has edited a "System of Medicine" in three volumes. He has written a history of medicine which has been within his ken during his vast clinical experience. Even the best of medical science, the two or three leading physicians who are men of really wide culture. He is a humanist of the great days of humanism, a scholar, a thinker, a public man, he is, incidentally, a passionate bibliophile. What still an American professor his lectures and addresses on general topics had become famous. With ample leisure he indulged his hobby, this side of his activity by the publication of several fascinating volumes, "Science and Immortality" (1904), "Aequanimitas and Other Addresses" (1904), "Counsels and Ideals" (1905), "The Human Mind" (1908), "An Alabama Student and Other Biographical Essays" (1908)—here we have in the mere by-products of a busy scientific teacher an output of literary quality and to the product of a literary specialist.

The Real Man. But when all is said the man is greater than his work. Oslers might have had all his ability, yet he might have done little with it if he had not possessed also a personality of pure gold. The love of his fellows had come to him wherever he has wandered, and he has been a wanderer since his boyhood. An amusing passage from a valedictory oration delivered in New York before his departure for England gives some idea of the place he filled in the hearts of his colleagues. These are the words of Dr. J. C. Wilson:

"The remarkable thing is that the further he moves the more he is missed. There is no authentic record of the state of mind that far settlement of Ontario which he left in early infancy, nor of the nature of the repast which his departure was celebrated. But when he left Toronto there were tears and sorrow, and something to eat; and when he left Montreal the same, with slogging; and when he took his departure from Philadelphia he had emotions we could not suppress, together with terrapin and champagne; and now that he is going to leave the country there is universal sorrow and the largest medical dinner ever cooked."

It has been his fate to give the most striking possible refutation of his own theory of old age, a theory, by the way, which merely sprang from an exaltation of post-prandial jocosity. At 61 he is a marvel of youthful vitality and elasticity. He brings with him into the dusty lecture-room and pedantic common-places of Oxford a fresh breeze of virility and optimism and large humanity. He has shaken our old men, and sounded the charge to our young men, in the army of medicine, and by the charm of his personality, he has wrought new links to bind together the old world and the new.

Readers of The Advertiser are advised to enter the competition for the $600 cash prize among those who return the best answers to ten questions. These questions will be based upon 52 Shakespeare sermons, beginning in The Advertiser on Saturday, April 2. The entries must be in on or before that day. It costs nothing to enter the competition. Merely read the sermon printed today and fill in the answers to the questions. (Read the sermon in the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT IT?

A druggist's best customer asked that question regarding a patent medicine. The druggist had sold the medicine for years, but was forced to admit that he knew nothing more about it than what appeared on the label, wrapper and advertising. The claims made for that particular patent medicine were so extravagant that the druggist decided to find a line of remedies he knew something about.

are manufactured by a house with a solid reputation of over half a century. The formulas are exceptionally good ones and are freely furnished to the Drug Trade. There are no secrets, simply because they are honest and have nothing to conceal. If we did not believe in them we would not recommend them to you.

Anything you buy with the Name Nyals' REMEDIES will give you entire satisfaction. Sold and guaranteed by All London Druggists teddy is coming back. The earth wears one broad, beaming smile. For swift as lightning's track, The news has flashed throughout the world, "Teddy is coming back!"

The tiger in pallid fear no more His den has made his lair no more. This mighty hunter's piercing glance, And fatal gun to evade.

In marshes peevish and rank The hippo black and white Do show their ivory tusks once more In broad grins of delight.

Yes, Africa's beasts are free to roam No fear the hunter's track, And there is joy in jungles, For Teddy's coming back!

But, oh, ye fakies, one and all, Now king no more, attack— A greater lion has arisen— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

But oh, ye fakies, one and all, Who have felt the awful shock Of Teddy's stick, come, hasten, fly— Teddy is coming back!

SHAKESPEARE CONTEST BEGINS

ON SATURDAY, APRIL 2ND

It Costs Nothing to Try for the $600 Cash Competition—Just Fill in the Coupon—An Educational Feature.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.

Shakespeare is undoubtedly the greatest product of the Anglo-Saxon race. His words of wisdom and advice, as much a part of every-day speech as are the words of the Bible. Thousands talk of his greatness; only ten know him at first hand. By taking his words to heart, and showing their full significance to the public, the author of our weekly "Sermon from Shakespeare" is doing a task that is being widely appreciated.