Matron's Little Scold.

Dear Miss Grey:—Many thanks for words of song and information concerning shrubs. In return, I take much pleasure in being able to send the words of "The Rose of Tralee," requested by one of your correspondents.

I enjoy the column very much, but if those young girls that want so much information about their "properties," the way to wear their hair, etc., etc., would ask their mothers, sisters, or girl chums, who would surely have a better idea, it would leave the column more space for something more useful and interesting. There I have had my "scold."

ANS—SCOLD AWAY, DEAR MATRON.

I assure you I should not feel one bit hurt if our young girl readers followed your advice, even to the desertion of the Mail-Box. At any rate, I am glad you enjoy the column, and hope you will long continue a reader, and also remain a contributor, as well, from time to time. Thanks for the song.

Christmas Cake Recipe.

Dear Miss Grey:—I am much interested in your column, and I would like to ask you a few questions, thanking you in advance.

1. Would you please give me a recipe for a Christmas cake?
2. I am 22, and weigh 165 pounds. Am I too heavy for my age?
3. What would be nice to make a winter dress for me, from MARY.
4. I have two pounds raisins, seeds and cut in half; 2 pounds carrots, 1 pound dates, stoned and chopped; 1 pound chopped almonds, 1 pound mixed peel, cut fine, 6 eggs, 1 pound butter, 3 cups brown sugar, coffee, 1 cup molasses, one-half cup lemon juice, one-half cup ground mixed spices, 8 cups flour, good teaspoon soda dissolved first in a little hot water, then stir into the molasses. Stir all together thoroughly, and bake in loaves in a moderate oven. This makes a large quantity, and, if desired, use half the ingredients.
2. No.
3. Watch the pattern department for ideas.

Birthday Party Hints.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. I am going to bother you once more. I am intending to hold a birthday gathering at the end of November for a number of girls and boys. Having them just for the evening, how soon should they arrive? Is this late? Where would you serve the lunch, in the drawing-room, or dining-room for about eighteen? Should the boys, as well as the girls be taken up to a bedroom to undress? What a dandy idea about the "stunt party," but would it do for boys, too?

2. I am enclosing some guessing games that are great. I hope they will help some of the readers of your paper.

3. Do you think we will have a spell of warm weather again soon?

4. Also, when does the Indian summer arrive?

5. Do you admire the French roll on some girls, and do you think it will stay in?

6. Could you tell me where I could get some little Japanese magic flowers? I have read about them, but do not know of any Japanese store. Could you tell me?

Hoping you can help me, I remain, MISS ANGEL.

A.—1. Five-thirty would be very early. Do you not mean 8:30? This would be a more suitable hour, or you could ask them to come at eight if you wished.

Suit your own convenience as to where you serve lunch. If you are having light refreshments, such as sandwiches, cake and coffee, it might be just as well to serve them in the parlors. But if you are including more elaborate "eats" like cold meat, salad, or fish, it would be best to have tables set in the dining-room. Have the girls shaded with yellow crepe paper and use

OLD SONGS AND POEMS

THE ROSE OF TRALEE.

The pale moon was rising above the green mountain.

The sun was declining beneath the blue sea.

When I strayed with my love to the pure crystal fountain.

That stands in the beautiful vale of Tralee.

She was lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

The cool shades of evening her mantles were spreading.

And Mary, all smiling, was listening to me.

The moon thro' the valley her pale rays were shedding.

When I won the heart of the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.

Oh, no, 'twas the truth in her eyes ever dawning.

That made me love Mary, the rose of Tralee.

Thou' lovely and fair as the rose of the summer.

Yet 'twas not her beauty alone that won me.
