Corn is considered one of the most kinks and twists, crawled out of a coal-shed on the wharf and began yawning difficult things to can, but Mr. Wins-low's patented process makes it com-put in a heavy night. A policeman paratively easy.

This is Winslow's mode of canning over and asked: paratively easy. .

This is Winslow's mode of canning corn:—Fill tin cans with the uncooked corn cut carefully from the cob.

'Sleep in there last night?'
'Yaas, kinder,' was the reply.
'Looking for work?' scrape the cob enough to get the milk, but not so much as to loosen any of the hulls. The corn must be freshly gathered, and not allowed to be in the sun a moment after plucking; the south of th can the better. As soon as the can is filled seal it hermetically. Put the cans when filled and sealed into a boil-do. I did live out here about eight cans when filled and sealed into a boil-er, surround them with straw to pre-vent them striking against each other when boiling; then cover them with cold water. Set the boiler over the first best cracially. Let them boil cold water. Set the boiler over the fire; heat gradually. Let them boil, after the water gets to the boiling point, one and a half hours. Then puncture the top of each can to allow the escape of gases, but seal immediately after, and let them boil two and a half hours longer. In packing the cut corn into the can all the milk that flows out while cutting it must be put into the can with the corn.

'Waal, she was my second and I was her second and we never got along any too sweet. We both of us think we know it all and neither feels like giving in. We came in to see the circus.'

If glass jars are used instead of tin cans, screw the covers tight, wrap in paper, and sit in a dark, cool place. We much prefer glass to tin for all such purposes, and especially for tomatoes, because the acid of the tomatoes acting on the tin gives a disagree, able taste, and we doubt if they are as wholesome as glass or stones.—Ex.
