

4. Provisional arrest shall terminate if, within a period of sixty (60) days following the arrest, the Requested Party has not received the request for extradition and the documents referred to in Article VIII and the person sought is still detained under the provisional arrest warrant. The competent authorities of the Requested Party may release a person provisionally arrested at any time, subject to such conditions as are considered necessary to ensure that such person does not leave its territory.

5. Release from custody of the person sought at the end of the sixty (60) day time limit shall not prevent subsequent arrest and extradition if the request for extradition and the supporting documents referred to in Article VIII are subsequently received.

ARTICLE XI

Waiver of Extradition

The Requested Party may surrender the person sought to the Requesting Party without formal extradition proceedings, provided the person sought consents to such surrender before a judicial authority after having been informed that the rule of specialty set out in Article XV and the prohibition of re-extradition as set out in Article XVI do not apply to such surrender.
