

Business of the House

amendment now and then proceed with third reading, we could then go on tomorrow with the business outlined and discussed with hon. gentlemen opposite. I do not know whether there would be a disposition on the part of the house to deal with the amendment and also third reading.

Mr. Horner: No. Six o'clock.

Mr. Speaker: It being six o'clock, this house stands adjourned until 2.30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

At six o'clock the house adjourned, without question put, pursuant to standing order.
