

- Van Diemen's Land*, i. 122. Statistics, 129. Removal of its native inhabitants to Flinder's Island, ii. 150. Their condition there, 215. Fall in wages, 229. Religious sects, 269.
- Virginia*, its early constitution and history, i. 89. 101. 260. Ill success of the first colony there, 246. Effects produced there by the abandonment of old land, 263. ; ii. 83. Trade in slaves between it and the newer States, i. 300.
- Wages*, ordinary rate of, in any country, depends on the magnitude of that portion of its capital which is appropriated to the payment of wages, compared with the number of labourers, i. 138. Tax on, its effect in new colonies, ii. 31. 238. Rate of, not unduly interfered with by the South Australian system, ii. 49. Causes which produce a high rate of, in colonies, 224—233.
- Wakefield (Mr.)*, i. 155. 243. 248. 252. ; ii. 30. 41. 111. His evidence respecting the discontinuance of assignment in New South Wales, ii. 25. Theory of a sufficient price for arable land, 54—59. Of select emigration, 296. (See Colonization, South Australia.)
- West Indies*, in general, regular succession of events in their economical history, i. 86—88. 298.
- West Indies*, Dutch, i. 56.
- West Indies*, English, economical history of, i. 73—86. Complaints of landowners there, began at an early period, 79. Restrictions on importation of provisions, lumber, &c., into, 79. 216. Effects of the monopoly enjoyed by them during the late war, 81. Of the competition of other British colonies after the peace, 84. Decline of production between the abolition of the slave trade and emancipation of the slaves, ib. Statistics, 98, 99. Economical effects of non-residence on proprietors, 234. Three different classes, as respects their economical situation, at the period of the abolition of slavery, 304—311. Schemes for the supply of free labour considered, 311—320. Emigration from Europe thither not to be encouraged, 314. ; ii. 315.
- West Indies*, French, i. 58. Period of their prosperity, 61. At the present day, 64. 323.
- West Indies*, Spanish, (See Cuba, Portorico). Their present condition and prospects, i. 43. Public opinion among the free people, except the planters, said to be adverse to slavery, 301.
- Whately (Archbishop)*, his views respecting the punishment of transportation, ii. 13.
- Windward and Leeward Islands*, meaning of the terms, i. 75.
- Wool*, statistics of its production, i. 205. ; ii. 129.
- Xivaros*, small proprietors in Portorico, i. 41.