THURSDAY MORNING, AUG. 28, 1913

TIME FOR PAUSE. Hon. W. J. Hanna has done admirably in the Humbervale Cemetery matter. As soon as his attention was called to it he made enquiries, with the result that the charter issued is to be canceled.

It is sometimes the case that the routine of business makes it possible for such slips to occur with the nominal sanction of the minister who made responsible for. It would not be textile industries and in the shipbuildfair to the civil service to say that ing yards, has there been a scarcity of such things are frequent, but they are sufficiently frequent to attract attention.

In doubtful cases no harm would be done by a little delay; it is always better to be sure than sorry. The sale of a cemetery for building lots, when it had previously been condemned by the legislature, was surely a transaction over which to pause.

GETTING TOGETHER.

With The New York Sun and Hon. William J. Bryan in agreement on this one point we may well surmise that the United States Currency Reform Bill will not only be passed, but passed at the present session. The Sun is in hopes that the bill may be so amended as to commend itself to the bankers of. the country, and Mr. Bryan expresses the willingness of the administration to meet the views of the bankers upon many questions of detail.

As The Sun points out, many secmany of the amendments recommended at their recent conference in Chinot at all with questions of principle. Indeed, the general principle of the bill is endorsed.

The one big point for which the bankers will contend, but upon which there will be no surrender by the president, deals with the nature of the currency to be issued. the current year's budget, took the optimistic view that it would be wiped out by an unchecked expansion in the revenue of the United Kingdom, many authorities were inclined to censure his decision not to increase taxation. Britain had enjoyed several years of inprecedented industrial and commercial prosperity, which the Balkan war and the consequent tightening of money had failed to injure. But it was argued with some appearance of reason that the volume of business must, ooner or later, be curtailed, and prophets were not wanting who professed to discern signs that this would not e far distant.

Up to this time, however, the chanellor of the exchequer has been vindicated. Trade expansion has not abated, and the figures for July, recently issued, again show remarkable ncreases. The total volume of imports rose by $17,000,000, or about six per ent., while exports exceeded those of the corresponding month of last year by $25,000,000, or just over twelve per cent. This, too, notwithstanding the fact that the comparison is with the then exceptional showing of July, 1912, when both exports and imports advanced by about $35,000,000 in each case over the figures of 1911. Nor can it be overlooked that the expansion is not due to higher values.

The general prosperity of the United Kingdom is no less indicated by the small percentage of unemployment in knows nothing of what he is being the skilled trades. Notably in the labor, due no doubt in part to the large volume of emigration. For, contrary to the prevalent notion, emigration is usually heavier in prosperous than in lean times. Even among farmers there have been complaints about the difficulty of obtaining harvesting assistance. As far as can be at present seen, the boom will last during the remainder of the fiscal year, tho in a recent speech Mr. Lloyd George expressed the opinion that additional taxation might have to be imposed in his next budget.

At any rate, Mr. Wilson is doing all he can to convince Mexico and all the Spanish republics on this continent that the United States desires to aid them without thought of encroachment or aggrandisement. We must remember how cruelly the United States robbed and piliaged Mexico seventy years ago. The memories of that, admittedly unjust, war still linger in the hearts of the Mexican people. Thus it is difficult for any overture by the United States to be viewed by Mexico without suspicion. without suspicion.

The Simplex Sales Co., Toronto;

Dear Sirs.—About a month ago I had you equip my car with a set of puncture-proof tubes. When the tubes were installed, you Mr. Shaw drove a nail into one of the tires six or seven times to test the self-healing qualities of the tube for some friends of mine, who were present at the time. Since then I am pleased to state that the pressure in the tube has remained the same and I have no trouble whatever with mitres. I now feel confident that I can go far as I like and get back without stopping on the road to replace a punctured tube.
