Are You

Lonely Man?

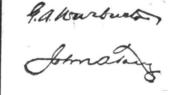

As a straight business proposition it pays to widen one's acquaintance with other men of good type and character, for through this doorway many a man enters into new worlds of employment and opportunity. Particularly does the lonely man need to meet other men.

Join the Y.M.C.A.

The Y.M.C.A. exists to be brotherly-to help in all good ways to make a man's life richer, bigger, more serviceable. The Y.M.C.A. invites to its membership all men with hearts of youth who wish to enlarge their circle of friends. The Y.M.C.A. offers all the advantages of a good club at low cost and without exclusiveness. Any man who is, or wishes to be, decent is welcome.

The Y.M.C.A. is a veritable home for many men who would otherwise be lonely. It is the community's way of saying to the stranger from out of town or to the youth just emerging into manhood, "We give you a hearty welcome." It is a place of rest and refuge, good cheer, real brotherhood, and service, if one is ready to do something for the benefit of boys and men. The membership fee is a small sum to part with to obtain so much. The lonely man will get back big, big value this winter and after-

Word that the German answer to President Wilson's note would be deferred until after a conference of the sovereigns of the German federated states was an important factor in curtailing the selling pressure which had been forcing down the value of corn. Buying, however, appeared to be restricted largely to shorts who wished to collect profits and to avoid the risks that would be involved if covering were delayed until Monday. It was evident, too, that recent selling had been so heavy on the part of both holders and shorts that many operators feared to take the bear side further at oresent. Altho offerings increased on bulges, the downturns which ensued were not of a radical sort.

Oats averaged higher for the same reasons as corn.

Give a clear, white light that approximates daylight. They are more efficient than tungstens, have a shorter, stronger filament, and give more light for the current used.

This means that your workpeople will get ahead faster, with more perfect work, with less lost time-and decidedly more cheerfully and steadily. Good light certainly pays—you'll find a good range of sizes for various duties in Hydro Gas Filled Lamps.
