What will Christmas money buy out of Dineen's stock of superb Furs?

Dainty articles of rich fur — whole sets of genuine fur. Here are two ways of choice for the same money.

Mink — that jewel among furs—in stoles and muffs — thirty dollars, fifty-five, ninety dollars. These prices only suggest the variety in one quality.

And in genuine furs—among the various grades of sable, for instance—it's a matter of five, eight or ten dollars for a ruff or scarf, and ten or twelve dollars for a muff.

Then in furs for the little folk. Muskrat two-piece sets for eight-fifty. Of grey and white squirrel ten dollars. And Iceland lamb muff and collarette for ten dollars. Here is a full department of complete variety.

For men who appreciate thorough comfort in winter dress and the suggestion of luxury that the ownership of a fur-lined coat implies, there is Dineen's muskrat-lined melton or beaver cloth coat, with wide otter collar and lapels, fifty dollars.

The season's best in Persian Lamb, Alaska Seal, Ermine and all High-class Furs.

EMMERSON PROMISES CITY HE'LL HURRY UP BRIDGE

Civic Deputation at Ottawa Meets With Consideration in Several Matters.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—Mayor Urquhart, Controllers Shaw, Hubbard and Spence, and Engineer Rust and Solicitor Chisholm of Toronto arrived in the city this forenoon, and had an interview this afternoon in the premier's office with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, and Hon. C. S. Hyman. Col. Pinault, deputy minister of militia, was also present at the interview.

The delegation had a variety of questions which they brought to the attention of the government. In the first place, there was the postal site on Front-street. The government intend building a new postal station there, and the city wants the land selected. The city owns part of the land which the government is likely to take, and as some of the leases are about to expire, the city would like to have the matter settled before renewing these leases. Then there was the garrison common property. The city does not want the military stores left there.

The question of the Yonge-street bridge was also brought up. The delegation asked that an order-in-council be passed in accordance with the decision of Justice Anglin. There was also the re-decking of the breakwaters. It was suggested by the delegation that concrete should be used on the top instead of wood. The premier said that all these matters would be looked carefully into by the department to which they belonged.

The deputation also pointed out that when the extension is made to the armories in Toronto, there will be little or no room left for parade purposes alongside. The government was asked to secure additional land. It was stated during the interview that a suitable place for military stores was available on Dufferin-street, just below King, convenient of access and with room enough to serve the required purposes.

Mr. Hyman said that the selection of the exact site for the postal station was delayed by the railway company not having yet settled how much space it will need for its station.

In reference to the Yonge-street bridge, it was suggested that the civic authorities can present a bill which the government can present to parliament if it sees fit. Mr. Emmerson said to the deputation that he would lose no time in having the railways go on with the bridge.

Mr. Hyman said that he was using cement in place of wood in the breakwater and would also increase the vote. The garrison common matter will receive consideration.

Methods Suggested for Improving the Sport in the Province.

Montreal, Dec. 13.—The Quebec fish and game conference opened this morning in the Windsor Hotel. A large number of the sportsmen of the province were present, as well as many Americans.

To do this he suggested an increase of hunter's license, that the tag system be adopted as in Ontario, that the guide system be adopted as in Maine, that netting in inland waters be prohibited, and that the game warden system be done away with, to be replaced by an efficient staff.

SMALLPOX IS RAMPANT MILD WEATHER BOOMS IT

Ease of Spreading Disease Shown by Movements of a Shelburne Patient.

"The mildness of the attack and the general indifference of the public towards the disease is largely the cause for the present spread of smallpox thruout the province," says Dr. Sheard, who declares that not for many years has the disease been so epidemic.

The doctor is again exercised over a fresh instance of the laxity that outside authorities are showing in handling the outbreak. There came to the city on Tuesday night from the neighborhod of Shelburne a patient suffering from the disease. He became sick a week ago, and a rash coming out on his face on Monday last he decided to come to Toronto for treatment. He traveled in ordinary fashion by train, mixing freely with fellow-passengers, so that there is no guessing where the disease may end. The case is only one of many of exactly similar stamp. By Dr. Sheard's orders the two coaches in the train were disinfected yesterday morning.

There are now 17 smallpox patients in the Swiss Cottage Hospital, the latest arrival and a patient from Hornby being the only two outsiders.

Dr. Hodgetts of the Provincial Board of Health, in a statement draws attention to the great need of vaccination in some sections of the province. At Dundalk there are 20 cases, all under the care of a special medical officer, and these all principally men who have never been vaccinated.

For some time a dispute has existed between medical authorities in the Townships of Seymore and Sydney, in the Counties of Hastings and Northumberland, regarding smallpox cases. Some doctors contend that the cheesemakee who was quarantined with about 2000 boxes of cheese was afflicted only with a severe case of chickenpox, but it was smallpox.
