Messrs. Gooderham and Blacklock Purchase a Silver Mine in B.C.

Montreal, April 3.—(Special) Word was received here yesterday from British Columbia to the effect that the famed silver mine property known as the Noble Five Group, has been sold to a syndicate of Toronto capitalists, the Messrs. Gooderham and Blacklock, stock being among the number.

Mr. Tarte says he may run for Beauharnois in spite of the Liberal faction in the county that offered the nomination to Mr. A. Demartigny.

Agnes Holland's Pauper Burial.
Editor World: In perusing the issue of your valuable paper of yesterday, I noticed a paragraph under the heading, "She Was a Pauper." It will certainly be an awful and everlasting reminder to the societies in this city who are ever ready to have their names mentioned as doing charitable acts. Now, sir, according to newspaper reports, the events leading to the death of Agnes Holland are such that they would arouse sympathy, as well as pity, in the hearts of every true and loyal Canadian. A short synopsis of her history in this country tends to show that she was a woman of noble character, who had in her power to minister to the hands of the poor and the sick. The Y.W.C.A. is a society which has for its watchword "Charity and Christianity."

Now, this unfortunate young girl leaves the home of her parents in England, she comes to Canada, no doubt to seek a livelihood. We next hear of her as nurse in the General Hospital, Montreal, and here it might be said that Miss Holland, in undertaking the duties of nurse, not only showed a courageous spirit, but a charitable and Christian spirit, much above the common one who would fain minister to those afflicted with disease, perhaps say a prayer over the unfortunate unfortunate whose life was ebbing fast away.

After her energetic, charitable career, we next find her engaged in the duties of the Montreal Star, showing that in her younger days she must have had good schooling. She came to Toronto, but after several attempts to fill the role of servant, she was obliged to seek assistance in the duties of a sister, where it is understood she remained until quite recently, when she was given a position as nurse to a lady, who speaks in the highest terms of her in that capacity.

Now, Mr. Editor, I am of the opinion that the unfortunate girl might have been living to-day had those in authority used better judgment, and extended a little more charitable sympathy at the proper time. When her trunk had been left as security for money owed the institution by her board, I would judge that the gold watch referred to as part of her effects would have been sufficient, and by letting the girl have her trunk would have perhaps saved her from a sudden death, brought about by nervous excitement produced by the retention of her effects.

Now, in conclusion, I will say that the Christian societies of Toronto, more especially the one above referred to, have fallen in the estimation of many who are aroused to active interest in this case, and who are loud in their condemnation of the treatment accorded to the unfortunate girl. The very fact of the burial of a Christian taking place without a minister officiating is something beyond comprehension and tends to place a blot on the history of those "Christians" in touch with the case that will require many charitable deeds to be done before it will be effaced.

HARRY WAKEFIELD, 121 Ann street.

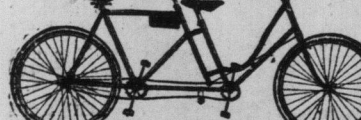

Was Miss Holland Really a Pauper?

Editor World: In your issue of yesterday I see a poor unfortunate young woman, who, from all facts given to the public, tried to live as respectable a life as her circumstances would admit, had taken board with one of our charitable institutions, the Y.W.C.A., and for the simple reason of her falling in arrears of a board bill, her trunk, containing her clothing, was retained also a gold watch valued at $80, and when the trunk is sent for it is denied her. Her death, presumably, resulted from sorrow. Then this Christian society allows her to be buried as a pauper, without even a minister of the gospel to say the burial service over her grave. Is not this a disgrace to the association and to the Christian-professing people of so-called Toronto the Good?

East End Notes.

At St. Matthew's Church on Thursday evening the Rev. Mr. Mookridge of St. Luke's preached to a large congregation of communicants in preparation for Easter day. There were the usual Good Friday services, the Rev. J. W. Blackler being the preacher in the morning and the rector in the evening. On Easter Day the services will be very attractive with special music. Mr. Albert Jordan, organist of St. Matthews, played the Dead March at the Metropolitan Church last evening. Princess Alberta Lodge of the Daughters and Maids of England gave a successful concert at Dingman's Hall last evening.

Mrs. Thos. Errett, Port Burwell, Ont., says: "I had been weak and miserable two years. I took Miller's Compound Iron Pills and never felt better than I do now."
