A Bargain Snap in Men's Suits

Even though you have to clear them out at a big sacrifice it pays, in the long run, to keep stocks free, as far as possible, from broken assortments and odd sizes. That's why we make this unusual offering for Tuesday:

107 of Our $6.50 to $10.00 Tweed Suits for Four Dollars and Sixty-Seven Cents.

That lot comprises the left-overs of at least eight different lines, and as we have no more cloth to replace the missing sizes of each line we group all together at this big clearing price:

—Men's Suits, made of English, Scotch and Canadian tweeds, in brown, fawn, grey and heather mixtures, single and double-breasted styles, best all-wool Italian linings and good duck interlinings, all sizes from 36 to 42 in the lot, but not every size of each lot. Our regular selling prices are $6.50, $7.50, $8.50 and $10.00 each, to be cleared on Tuesday at—

WHY WOOL IS A DRUG ON THE CANADIAN MARKET.

Ontario wool is as dull and weak as it has been at any time since the new clip began to come on the market. Dealers are quoting the price for the new wool at sixteen cents, but they are in constant doubt as to whether the wool will, and even fifteen or sixteen cents, they say, would be a speculative price.

The above is taken from The Globe's weekly review on the state of trade, Oct.

6. One of the industries that has been hit hardest by the protracted drought is the manufacture of woolen goods. Great Britain still leads the world in the manufacture of cloth for men's garments, and when we give a substantial preference to Great Britain in this line of goods, we simply leave our most formidable competitor to come in and take possession of our markets. This country is now flooded with cheap British goods, made by the British manufacturer, and the reason why Ontario farmers cannot get twenty-eight cents a pound for their wool is that the wool is not wanted. The British manufacturer has not the same demand for the wool as the English woolen manufacturer has.

Every farmer in Ontario who raises wool is a potential tariff. A shrinkage of 15 per cent. in the price of wool is a serious blow for our farmers. But the farmer is not the only one who is hurt by the prolonged drought. The workmen of the woolen industry are also hurt. The Government's stupid policy of giving a tariff of 15 per cent. on the woolen goods of Great Britain has favoured the English woolen manufacturers against our own. Every farmer
