Sir William Van Horne Says Negotiations Are Proceeding for Purchase of Ships.

Lots of Room for G.T. Pacific-Old Line Will Derive Benefit

Montreal, Feb. 20.-Sir William Van Horne, who reached here to-day, says he saw two newspaper men in New York. He spoke to them a couple of minutes, and while one of them cor rectly reported him the other faked a column pure and simple.

In regard to the question of the purchase of steamers by the C.P.R., Sir William said negotiations had been in progress in regard to it before he left, but Sir William intimated that he was not in the habit of taking the C.P.R. or any other business with him when he went to Cuba. He did not know what had become of the negotiations, he did not know the number of boats nor the of the con wy. He therefore could make no authoritative statement on

The Inspiration of Success

There is sometimes a note of en-couragement for the man looking at the task ahead of him to take a glance the task ahead of him to take a glance over his shoulder at the work already accomplished. Feeling that he has done pretty well in the past will generally help him in the effort to do better in the future. Just such a feeling is at the present moment strongly operating on the minds of the memory of the Independent Order operating on the minds of the mem-bers of the Independent Order of Foresters, and its influence is sure to appear in the work of the coming anonths. Twelve months ago they contemplated a net increase of 11,369, as the result of their work of of the coming the work of the coming their work of the coming the coming their work of the coming the coming their work of the coming the comin the result of their work during the year 1901, and thought they had done the introduction." fairly well, under existing circumfor the year 1902 upon which they are now congratulating themselves. During that year 30,101 new members of the average age of 28,94 years yere actually initiated in courts of the order, as against 28,826 during 1901 of the average age of 29.24. This comparison shows a decided improvement in results in favor of last year, but this is not the only gain that stands to the credit of 1902. While the total membership increased 11.369 during 1901 the increase during 1902 amounted to 13.283. Another striking feature about the LO.F. is the evident determination of the membership to remain youthful, the average age of the total membership.

Since wearing your Beit my nervous system has been built up and I feel stronger to-day than I have for several years. I was also troubled with constituation, and I can testify that your Beit has given me great relief, so much so that I have given up taking any medicine for relief of same.
