MACBETH'S TRAGEDY THE THEME OF MACBETH

Brilliant and Subtle Analysis of Shakspeare's Great Play by Prof. Griggs.

Passing over "King Lear" in his usual lecture course, Edward Howard Griggs spoke last night in Association Hall, before a full house on "The Tragedy of Macbeth."

Sin has two distinct series of consequences; one inner and one outer. The lie of the liar blots out his instinct for truth, as well as entangling outer evils.

Of Lady Macbeth he said that next to Cleopatra she was the most wonderful achievement of the poet. Delicate, sensitive, keen, entirely feminine, with no touch of masculinity, she needed no weird sisters to appear to her.

He dwelt with great power on the inevitable doom falling on the guilty pair. Nobody ever plucked the apples of Sodom who did not believe they grew on the tree of life.

Lady Macbeth, the so deeply dyed woman, was the first to break under the strain. The coarser nature of Macbeth then rose to the occasion, but without avail.

PAROLE SYSTEM WORKS WELL

Dominion Officer Archibald Gives Some Illuminating Figures.

That the results of the prisoner parole system continue most gratifying was stated in a report made by W. F. Archibald, Dominion Parole Officer, when seen at the Prince George (B.C.) jail.

During the year 468 prisoners were so released, and since the method was adopted ten years ago, there have been 251 prisoners paroled. Out of the entire number there have been only 54 licenses revoked for subsequent convictions and 99 for non-compliance with conditions which demand a certain number of months of completed sentences of parole is 1487, and there are 528 men now reporting.

Mr. Archibald said that while jail prisoners should be taken proper care of, he was opposed to the "hardship sentiment" which sought to make such confinement as comfortable as possible, thus encouraging men to return to the walls.

The low percentage of paroled prisoners who violate the conditions of release is attributed by Mr. Archibald to the care taken to free only those men who are genuine criminals. Experience has shown that the reform of the habitual criminal was little to be expected.

Mr. Archibald will be in Toronto until Thursday afternoon and will be available for consultation during his stay. He will lecture in Galt Thursday night and in St. Catharines Sunday afternoon.

CITY MUST HOLD DOWN-TOWN STREETS.

Toronto Evening Telegram: "We need Bay-street," ruminated Mr. Fleming. "It would be the only means of curbing able to bring down town Toronto, without adding to the confusion at Yonge-street."

The ceding of Bay-street and "certain other streets" referred to by Mr. Fleming, to the Toronto Railway Company, would destroy Toronto's chances of operating a municipal system to serve the new districts.

The 5000 acres of new additions to Toronto during the past two years must be given a car service.

The Toronto Railway Company had the opportunity of affording the necessary service and has refused to seize it, and this applies to everyone—from the stock boy just starting, all the way up to the most responsible manager.

SAVING YOUR WAGES IS NO SACRIFICE

By EDWARD D. EASTON President of the Columbia Phonograph Company

"Why don't you take a slip of paper now, and write down something like this: Beginning to-day I'm going to put by twenty per cent. of my salary—that settles it!"

In these words did the president of the Columbia Phonograph Company open a broadside upon his employees, recently, in the excellent and neatly gotten up little periodical called "The Columbia Salesman," issued by this company.

Mr. Easton, be it known, has taken this means of advertising his company to his own employees; and of preparing his employees to advertise their thrift and stability to the company;—a novel form of advertising that has been productive of remarkable results in this organization. Mr. Easton continues:

Try Writing It Down. "I have noticed that it often makes a good decision ten times as good to get it down on paper. You try it.

"If you had done that three or four years ago, twenty per cent. wouldn't look like a hardship now—and you could have done it, you know you could.

"When you have stuck to it thru the first straight year, that saving plan becomes an easy habit. You don't feel as if you had been denying yourself after all, when you realize savings have begun to accumulate.

"And you find you don't want some of those things that you would think you wanted if it were not for that book that stiffens your inside pocket. It makes you think twice to spend once, and the chances are you find yourself after a while with more money than you thought you had.

"The Little Wastes That Count. "It's the little wastes that count. Things like this have been said so often that they usually hit the extravagant man on a sore spot. Yet it is true the only way to handle the company's affairs, is to be thrifty.

"EVERY GOOD MANAGER OF A CORPORATION IS BOUND TO FIRST DEMONSTRATE HIS FITNESS BY A GOOD MANAGEMENT OF HIS OWN AFFAIRS, AND HE CANNOT SAFELY BE TRUSTED WITH THE CARE OF THE SMALLER PROPOSITION. The same principles and the same methods are used in the successful management of ten million dollar corporation as are employed in the right handling of a ten dollar salary.

"Our company is advancing men all the time, and is ready to advance others. All other things being equal, the man who is able to conserve his own affairs must always be chosen to handle the company's affairs. THE THRIFTY MAN, WHOSE SAVINGS ARE REGULAR, AND WHOSE EMPLOYERS KNOW HIM TO BE STEADY IN HIS AFFAIRS AND NEVER IN DEBT, IS SURE TO GET AHEAD OF THE MAN OF BRILLIANCE WHO CANNOT LIVE WITHIN HIS INCOME."

Extravagance Declared. "This is true everywhere—and, perhaps, especially true in this company. There is hardly any one thing more distasteful to the heads of this enterprise than extravagance and thriftlessness. Our head men have reached the top on a rigid plan of keeping expenses inside of income—even from the first week's salary of a very few dollars.

"The future success of the company depends on the men now growing up in the service. Those who are wasteful, extravagant, living up to their utmost cent, will surely fall to do valuable work and the company cannot long continue to employ them.

"Those who are not only efficient but careful and economical will be advanced and share with the company in that prosperity which is thus assured, and this applies to everyone—from the stock boy just starting, all the way up to the most responsible manager."

KENT HAS PLAGUE OF CROWS

Farmers in Fear of Being Driven Out by the Pest.

C. W. Nash, who was sent by the Ontario department of agriculture to investigate the plague of crows in Kent County, has reported that immense damage is being done to the corn still standing in shocks in the fields. The crows have completely destroyed the few stalks that were left, and the farmers are dreading further destruction to crops in the spring.

Owing to the extension of sugar beet growing in Kent, the farmers are unable to get in both beets and corn. The beets have to be shipped to the factories, and consequently, they have been leaving considerable quantities of corn standing in the fields in shocks.
