POLICE ADMINISTRATION.

The Gazette in its local column, yesterday, called attention to the methods of Chief of Police Clark in dealing with the alleged misconduct of one of his officers.

There is a civil department in the administration of the police which has a keener interest than the police, and is highly important that the standard of efficiency should be increased.

A few months ago Mr. Clark had been appointed chief of police. His predecessor in office had been an old and experienced man, and the control of the force had passed from his hands into those of his subordinate—some of them not the most capable.

A change took place in the state of affairs in the police force. Mr. Clark was of opinion that the gentleman who was placed at the head of the department would make a capable officer.

Before taking office he was given the opportunity of inspecting the workings of the police departments of Boston and other places, and ought to be thoroughly familiar with their methods.

The case brought to the surface yesterday by The Gazette goes to show, however, that unless a change is made by the chief in dealing with his subordinates the usefulness of the force will be interfered with.

For years the former chief encouraged a system of pinning, back-biting and tale-bearing which kept the men at each other's heels, and often drove decent men from the force.

From present indications some degree of the old system still remains, and unless the present chief has the courage to grapple with the matter at once his administration of the police department will be as great a failure as that of his predecessor.

A large majority of the citizens of Saint John are now the peculiarities of the police department and are watching the current of events before giving an opinion on the result of the changes already made.

As we have said the great credit of the department has been backing and slandering. It is seen that in the case in point the suspended officer was refused his reputation and position.

There are other matters in connection with the police department which The Gazette will give attention to in future articles.

For notwithstanding the opinion of the chief that it is not the business of the public to know what the police are doing, The Gazette believes that the public have a lively interest in the proper administration of this department.

THE GRANADER GUARDS DIFFICULTY. The difficulty with the granader guards seems to have been of a more serious nature than the English papers cared to admit.

The one in which the insubordination existed, has been ordered to Bermuda in consequence of the trouble. It is a very unusual thing for this regiment to be ordered to a foreign station.

It is complained also that the food which is furnished them is insufficient, and that this difficulty exists not only with reference to the granader guards, but also in regard to the punishment of one regiment by way of punishment will by no means put an end to the present difficulty.

Strict enquiry ought to be made as to whether the complaints of the men are well founded or not. It would be well that a regiment whose career on the field has been so glorious should not be degraded without the fullest knowledge that its members are in the wrong.

Soldiers can no longer be treated like dogs, as was the case half a century ago. The army opens an honorable career to young men in the British Isles, and has been raised to a considerable degree of respectability. It therefore ought to be the policy of the government to keep it in that favorable position and to

OUR SECOND ANNIVERSARY.

The Evening Gazette is two years old today. As in the course of a few days we shall publish an extended article on the career of this paper, it is today hardly necessary to do more than call attention to the fact that this Gazette has completed its second year.

It will be proper to state, however, and will gratify the many thousands of readers of The Gazette to know that the past year has been one of unbroken prosperity.

The advertising patronage of The Gazette also about doubled during the same period. The Gazette has now the largest city circulation of any newspaper published in St. John.

Its staff of writers is larger than that of any other St. John paper, and it employs more people. The Gazette's motto is still the same as that with which it started, "to John, first last and all the time," and its adherence to this principle has been the main secret of its phenomenal success.

THE PROPOSED BOYCOTT.

Some of the southern newspapers and public men threaten to boycott northern manufacturers and products in the south should the Lodge Federal election bill, more generally known as "the force bill" be passed.

As the force bill is aimed at the south it seems to be proper enough for the southern people to retaliate by withdrawing their trade from the north. The northern republicans are desirous to place the south under the domination of a breed of brutal and illiterate negroes and the white men of that part of the United States will again draw the sword rather than submit to it.

But before resorting to an extreme course they will try the effect of a boycott, knowing that the northern republicans who are weeping over the supposed wrongs of the negro are not inamenable to the use of advantages of the southern trade.

Since the republicans assailed the miserable Hayes in the White House by fraud they have always had a desire to employ violent methods to win elections, and no one need be surprised if their record of fraud, bribery and dishonesty in the election matters should be in the spirit of malice. But a boycott of northern wares in the south will awaken the selfish instincts of the northern people, and they will not be so ready to do as they have done.

A QUEER PHASE IN WOMAN'S CHARACTER.

A discussion in the United States senate on the 19th inst., aet a proposed appropriation of $4,000 per annum for the Industrial Christian Home Society in Utah territory, reveals the peculiar position of affairs in that territory and an attitude among the women toward the men which is almost incomprehensible.

The home was established several years ago at an expense of $50,000 for the protection of Mormon women desiring to escape from polygamy. It was stated by Mr. Cockrell that it had never had in it more than twenty-two inmates, including children, and no one questioned his accuracy.

Mr. Edmunds stated that not many Mormon women took advantage of it, but said the building was an open invitation to them, and that he should be glad to have the people of the United States help the home for their reason alone.

Then Mr. Cockrell replied that he was warranted in the assertion that at present the institution was without an inmate except those persons who were receiving salaries from the United States. The statement made by Mr. Vest, if anything, more startling than those that preceded it, but like them it was uncontradicted.

He said the home had been started as an asylum for poor deluded Mormon women who wanted to escape from polygamy, but it is reported that it did not want to escape. It was a notorious fact, he said, that the women of Utah were more opposed to doing away with polygamy than the men were.

That was easily explained. It arose not from sensuality or from any degraded feeling, but from religious sentiment. If one wanted to find absolute religious enthusiasm he would find it among women. The great architect of the universe had constructed them in that way.

The reasons of the female nature of dependence in this world and the next. He asked a woman, Utah whether she was a plural wife. She said she was; that she was a third wife, that that was according to the Bible, and that her husband could not go to heaven if he did not practice polygamy when he was able to take care of several wives.

Senator Pomeroy had had the idea that sufficient ought to be given to the women of Utah, but they got it and every one of them had voted the polygamy ticket. Mr. Edmunds, the promoter of the bill, admitted that the Mormon women who had been enfranchised had voted for the hierarchy. We, who live far away from the baneful influence of the domination of Mormonism can account for the position of affairs that is here set forth, in one way only. The female propensity to Mormonism are gathered in the main from those sections of the world where education is unobtainable by the state and where the densest ignorance prevails among the children are reared in ignorance, and in consequence are easily moulded into a belief that by submitting to the most debasing condition a woman ever occupied they are promoting the glory of God. The conclusion is that the safety of the state, of society, of the family, is dependent upon the education of the people, and in order that none should fall into evil ways unwittily it should be made compulsory, with heavy penalties on parents and guardians, who neglect to comply with the provisions for their charges.

NOTE AND COMMENT. The Telegraph this morning publishes, apparently with approval, a paragraph from the Acadia Recorder attacking Confederation. The Telegraph, who agree to say it on the down grade. It is a great newspaper, but great newspapers cannot be run by small men, and it is rapidly going to ruin.

A solution of the great servant girl problem which has been adopted by many persons in St. John is for ladies to learn to dispense with domestic help. There are few ladies in this city of such high descent that it would be a degraded for them to attend to their own domestic duties, and many of our ladies are practically illustrating this great fact. It is well that this should be the case for it helps to alter all the best weapons against imposition.

Dr. Bridges, who wrote an elaborate paper to show that women were not fit to become doctors, does not seem to have impressed many people with the correctness of his views, outside of his own profession. He has also been severely taken to task for some of his subsequent explanations.

The Montreal Transcript, referring to the statement in a letter which the Transcript had been guilty of printing isolated passages which were greatly modified in the original, giving them thereby a different construction, says: "Dr. Bridges, in this paragraph, deliberately states an untruth, and there is any other word in the English language which will express it in a more emphatic manner our denial of his statement he may accept it as said."

Dr. Bridges, the latter finding, however, that he made a mistake in his paper in insisting the fact commonly used by public men and others who seek to evade responsibility for their own mistakes by attempting to throw the responsibility on the printing and unprejudiced reader.

Provincial Points. To-day is Labor Day in Halifax and is observed as a public holiday. Mrs. John F. Root, Chagrin, N. S., has a beautiful pink rose, the parent plant of which was brought from India by Rev. George Churchill, Baptist missionary to Siam.

Some persons entered the Free Baptist church, at Yarmouth, this morning, bringing with them a large quantity of strawberries and some sugar and cake that had been provided for the festival. An oil coffin was dug out of a cellar under the Union hotel, Monday, a day or two ago, supposed to have been the remains of one of the early Free Baptist settlers, who had a burying ground in that locality.

The two-year-old child of Wm. Johnson, Milford, N. B., while playing with matches yesterday afternoon, set fire to his clothes which were entirely consumed. The body and face were terribly burned, but it is still living.

Architect Mott has prepared for Mr. Balfour plans of the proposed new house of Moncton. They show a building of 45 by 100, the walls to be of brick, square windows, and a central tower that the cornice be covered with iron and that the doors also be of iron.

Means, Coleman and Orvis, the last of the Scott Act officers, will take their departure from the jail to-night. Last evening Mrs. Hawthorn, the wife of Sheriff Hawthorn, was presented with a handsome pair of mules, the gift of the Scott act prisoners and their friends.

Between ten and eleven o'clock yesterday forenoon fire broke out in the upper portion of the brick engine house of Mr. John A. Hurd's workshop, which is about a mile from Moncton. It is understood that some stock was damaged to a considerable extent, and that the fire extinguished the fire with the hose belonging to the factory.

Other news at Amherst the Press says: "They are patronized by the best people of the town, both ladies and gentlemen. The employees of the promotion of health and vigor than a good bath or a swim where water and atmosphere are kept in proper and uniform temperature. At the bath house the water is kept constantly running and passes through a filter, thus being kept thoroughly pure."

The New York and Brooklyn notices describe the labors and literary efforts of the Long Island Tribune, a native of Charleston, the particulars of which tragic death were given in full in yesterday's Gazette. Mr. Melville was undoubtedly the most widely known editor on Long Island. A year ago his health gave way, and he travelled extensively in the hope of recuperating. He returned from the Southern States only recently, and recommenced his literary work, but on Thursday, 19th inst., he was compelled to give up. On the following Saturday he was removed to the Flushing Hospital for skilled medical attention. He died suddenly several hours afterwards.

WHAT IS LIME JUICE? This question is rendered all the more important by the attention attracted to the "Montserat" Pure Lime-Fruit Juice. The answer is that it should be obtained from the "Montserat" Pure Lime-Fruit Juice. The "Montserat" Pure Lime-Fruit Juice is a natural product of the "Montserat" Pure Lime-Fruit Juice.
