No mails have been received from any points in Washington, excepting Seattle, Tacoma and Port Townsend, at the post office since last Wednesday. The principal reason for the delay in the building of the railway is being built, which has prevented the getting in of machinery, but notwithstanding this the work of developing the coal seams will continue through the winter.

It is Expected That Will Find a Market in the Kootenays.

Arthur Hickling, who has arrived in Roseland from Princeton, is preparing for the advent of the railway, in developing the Princeton coal mines and in putting in a water system for Princeton. Work on the Princeton collieries, he says, has been retarded for some time by the fact that the railway is being built, which has prevented the getting in of machinery, but notwithstanding this the work of developing the coal seams will continue through the winter.

It is expected, Mr. Hickling said in an interview, that the railway to Princeton would be open for traffic by this time next year. It was the declared intention of the railway contractors to work during the winter on the section of the road between Kereenos and Princeton, and, if this were done, the road might reach Princeton earlier than it had been expected. The reason for the delay in the building of the railway has been the scarcity of labor. Mr. Hickling said he sincerely wished the railway were finished to Princeton so that he could get to the Kootenay country, and especially Roseland, with coal. The coal is similar to the Lethbridge product.

BAD DOG. Tore a Lady's Dress and Was Sentenced to Death by Magistrate.

In the police court this morning the story of a bad "yellow or brown dog" was unfolded by a lady who claimed that it had "jumped at her four times and tore her cloak." This lady brought a charge against another lady which, in legal terms, accused her of having such a dog in her possession. The prosecutrix gave evidence regarding the incident, and the witness testified that she saw the dog jump at her on the 12th inst., and swore that the defendant admitted owning the dog and also promised to reimburse her for the damage done to her cloak. At this point the hem of the cloak made its appearance over the side of the witness box and added much testimony to the doggie's misbehavior. The father of the prosecutrix then gave evidence, corroborating his daughter's story, after which the defendant took her stand.

The hearing of the appeal in Star Mining and Milling Company vs. B. N. White Mining Company, which has been argued before the Full court in Vancouver, was concluded on Thursday. Mr. Justice Irving, Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice Morrison heard the appeal in this famous case.

Further Work Is Ordered to Be Done in Mines by the Full Court.

The hearing of the appeal in Star Mining and Milling Company vs. B. N. White Mining Company, which has been argued before the Full court in Vancouver, was concluded on Thursday. Mr. Justice Irving, Mr. Justice Martin and Mr. Justice Morrison heard the appeal in this famous case.

After an expenditure of about $50,000 on litigation, the whole matter was referred back to have certain work done to demonstrate the true state of affairs. The case is a very complicated one and to understand it properly it will be necessary to retrace it briefly from the beginning.

The case originally was an action by the Star Mining and Milling Company of Sandon, for trespass against the B. N. White Mining Company, the trespass consisting of the defendant company having dug under its locations—which were located under the Extra-Lateral Right Law—mined from the apex of the vein in their mine into the plaintiff company's territory.

The action was first tried at Nelson in February, 1904, before the Chief Justice, the trial lasting 17 days. At the conclusion of the trial the Chief Justice intimated that in view of the different theories advanced by either side as to the continuity of the Slocan Star vein, and, further, in view of the conflicting evidence as to the observed position of the mine, he would be called upon to speculate as to the correctness of either theory, unless the parties themselves were able to demonstrate either the continuity of the Slocan Star vein or the existence of the plaintiff's alleged black fissure.

The adjourned hearing of the trial was held in Nelson in July, 1905, as a result of which the Chief Justice concluded that the Slocan Star vein was continuous from the east end line of the Silver Smith claim, and in consequence dismissed the plaintiff company's action. During the progress of the second trial, the plaintiff repeatedly their application for additional work. The application was refused by the Chief Justice as unnecessary, and from that refusal the appeal was taken.

The Full court ordered Thursday that the work requested by the plaintiffs at the previous trial should be done, and the matter was referred back to the Chief Justice to direct the doing of the work, and the evidence of what that work may indicate.

The hearing of the appeal occupied three and a half days. E. V. Bodwell, K. C., and R. Lewis appeared for the plaintiff appellants, and E. P. Davis, K. C., and S. S. Taylor, K. C., for the defendants.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL FOR MURDER

EVIDENCE IS TAKEN IN THE CARMÍ CASE

James Dale, Charged With Brutal Crime, Acts in Sullen Manner in Court.

James A. Dale has been committed for trial charged with the murder of Peter Godeau and Joseph Cella at Carmi on the west fork of the Kettle river on October 14th. The preliminary hearing was before Magistrate McMynn in Greenwood last week. The prisoner sat in the court room between his aged father, Harry Dale, and John Kirkup, of Roseland, who is also in attendance. Dale wore a dark grey suit and a red handkerchief around his neck. He wore no collar or tie and his hair was uncombed. His face is covered with several weeks' growth of black beard and his general appearance is unkempt. From beneath lowering eyebrows he restlessly watched the magistrate, witnesses and other occupants of the court room. He chewed tobacco continuously.

The witnesses examined were Hugh Laing, the stage driver, who conveyed the victims Godeau and Cella from Beaverfield to Carmi on the night of the tragedy, and a gun like the one which Clark, of Carmi, who was present on the fatal night, but did not actually see the shooting; David Smith, the wounded man; Alex. Hood and Dr. Spunkie.

22-ride, which figured in the case, and a whiskey jar containing the remainder of the liquor from which those concerned in the affair drank on the fatal night, were exhibited in the court room.

David Smith, in his evidence, testified as follows: "I went over to the hotel at Carmi to see Pete Godeau, to fix a saw, about half-past eight at night. A young Frenchman, Cella, Peter and James A. Dale were talking. Frank Clark brought over a grapevine, says: 'Who's gun is this. I found it on the wagon road.' James A. Dale grabbed the gun, a little 22, out of Clark's hand, and said: 'You accuse a man of killing a gun like this, and you don't know it? I shot myself, you see.' Jim Dale got his temper up and made a smash at the young Frenchman, Cella, with his hand. The Frenchman knocked Dale down and grabbed the gun, and smashed him on the head with the butt of the gun. Dan McBeth came and took Dale away. I took the two Frenchmen, and as I had a candle showed them the way home. We had gone a short way when there were bullets flying. If the order to execute Pete Godeau's cabin about five minutes, a bullet came through the window. It did not touch any of us. The second bullet fired struck me on the point of the nose, and I fell back on the back of the door and played possum. The next bullet knocked Pete out. Dale fired three or four shots at the young Frenchman, Cella, either at the third or fourth shot he struck him. He fell on me and I heard the blood gurgling in his throat. He lasted only a few minutes and then he said: 'Let me into this place, I'm going to get you with lead anyway.' Witness said: 'Wait till I get this corpse off me and I will let you in and show you what you have done.' I was the only one who was alive, and I then myself opened the door and as I was crawling out he was crawling in. He says: 'Hold on, Scotty, I'm coming down the road with you.' I says: 'You had better hurry up, I've got a wounded shoulder, and I'm going to get you with lead anyway.' Witness said: 'Wait till I get this corpse off me and I will let you in and show you what you have done.'
