Captain W. H. Logan of the London Salvage Association, who has just returned from Newfoundiand, where he inspected the wreck of the Allan Line steamer Laurentian which went ashore on Mistaken Rocks during a thick fog. some weeks ago, passed through the city last evening returning to Montreal.

Speaking to a Standard reporter, Captain Logan said that the vessel would be a total loss She went would be a total loss She went ashore on one of the most treacherous bits of coastline in the world, there being nothing but rocks for miles and miles.

The heavy seas which swept over the vessel caused her to break in two a few days after she struck. Most of the cargo was scattered all along the shore and a rich harvest was reaped by the fishermen.

The hull of the vessel has been sold to a Halifax wrecking firm for $1,000 on condition that the Salvage Association had access to the cargo at any time.

The vessel had absolutely no chance from the moment she struck, said Captain Logan. "In the past three years I have examined twentynine wrecked vessels, and this was the most hopeless case in regard to salvage that I have ever seen."

Asked if he had any other wrecks to examine at present the captain stated that he did not know of any just then but that he might be called upon before he reached Montreal to go to any part of the globe in pursus ance of his duties.
