THE PULP MILL HELPS RATHER THAN HINDERS

City Engineer Murdoch Says Industry at Falls Made West End Water Supply as Good as it is.

The residents of Lancaster Heights should be grateful to the Partington pulp mill instead of complaining about its taking a share of the water supply according to City Engineer Murdoch. Speaking of a complaint which appeared in an evening paper a few days ago to the effect that the pulp mill was getting more than its share of the water, Mr. Murdoch pointed out that it was due to the establishment of the mill that the Carleton service is as good as it is.

ORANGE GRAND MASTER CONDEMNNS NE TEMERE

Stirring Address by Rev. B. H. Thomas to Members of St. John County Loyal Orange Lodge.

The Ne Temere decree, and some of the recent utterances on the subject were discussed by Rev. B. H. Thomas, grand master of the Orange Lodge of New Brunswick, in a stirring speech delivered before a large gathering in the Orange Hall, Germain street, on Friday evening. The reverend gentleman advised an active campaign to secure legislation which would make such a decree illegal.

Worshipful County Master J. B. M. Baxter presided and with him on the platform were several other grand lodge officers. In his opening remarks Mr. Thomas referred to the stand he had taken in openly supporting the doctrines of the Orange Order and said that it had caused his opponents to snarl first and then try to hush him by the bribe of a government office.

The controversy over the marriage laws, he said, was a question of the greatest moral importance. He considered it a new peril to their religion and believed that unless they aroused themselves and struck a hard blow for their own side, the most serious results would follow.

The statement that Protestantism was a soulless religion was denied in vigorous terms by the speaker. Referring to a sermon preached by a local divine on the subject of the Ne Temere decree, he expressed his appreciation of its arguments, but objected to its recognition of the Roman Catholic church as a branch of the Christian church. He also expressed his surprise that the Evangelical Alliance should have endorsed this particular sentiment in commending the sermon. His own opinion, as given last night, was that it was a political rather than a religious institution.

During the pastorate Mr. Thomas has performed eleven marriage ceremonies, in which one of the parties was a Catholic. To attempt to sever these sweetest of all human relations he characterized as devilish, and said that it should be criminal. Continuing he said that the two religions were at opposite poles and supported this contention by reference to the difference in their beliefs regarding the use of the Bible, the place of saints in the church and the doctrine of salvation.

In closing he urged the necessity for a more stalwart form of Christianity that would not fear to fight for which their fathers had died for. Short speeches in a similar vein were delivered by Junior Deputy J. W. Clark of Moncton, Past Grand Master Philip E. Heine, of Moncton, and Grand Secretary Neil J. Morrison, of this city.

In a brief but forcible closing speech Mr. Baxter impressed on the members present the necessity of working as well as listening to speeches, and suggested that the best fruit the meeting could bear would be renewed activity on the part of the members.

IMPORTANT EVIDENCE IN DAVIDSON CASE

Dr. Warwick's Post-Mortem Examination of Mary Davidson's Baby was, Born Alive and had Breathed.

In the police court yesterday afternoon the preliminary examination of Mary Davidson, charged with not procuring proper medical treatment at childbirth, and concealing the body of her dead child was resumed before Magistrate Ritchie. George Shaw and Homer Forbes appeared for the defendant.

Dr. F. J. Hogan gave evidence that on March 6th he had been summoned to 19 Horsfield street by Samuel Lewis, and found Mary Davidson lying on the bed in her room partially dressed. She looked very pale and had lost considerable blood. She would not permit an examination.

Later witness in the company of Detective Killen, visited the basement of the building and found the body of a child in a trunk. Dr. William Warwick was the next witness, and testified that he made a post mortem examination on the child's body April 6th. It was a male infant weighing six and a half pounds and when he first saw it, it was frozen.

On the front and right side of the neck were several small abrasions on the outer layer of the skin. In answer to Detective Killen, Dr. Warwick said that from his examination of the body he would say the child was born alive and had been breathing.

The prisoner was remanded until next Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

A PATHETIC CASE.

The death of an infant a few months old took place under particularly pathetic circumstances in the Halifax express, which arrived in the city early Friday morning. The child, whose name was Peter Cahill, was put to sleep by his mother on the train Thursday night. Everything was thought to be well with the child, but later he became weak, and when the train was in the vicinity of Bethany, the young child quietly passed away. Corner Berryman met the train on its arrival in the city and after examining the little boy, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The mother was travelling from Newfoundland, with her three children to join her husband in Cambridge, Mass. The little boy who died this morning was a twin, whose little mate died under similar circumstances only two weeks ago. Mrs. Cahill was much distressed over the sad affair. The remains were placed in the waiting room and were later removed to Chamberlain's undertaking rooms.
