

MORE CREWS QUIT.

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—The crews of the German dreadnaughts Posen, Ostfriesland, Nassau and Oldenburg, in Kiel Harbor, have joined the revolution. Marines occupied the lockgates at Ostermoor and fought down a coast artillery division which offered resistance.

REXTON

Rexton, Nov. 8.—A little town was on fire yesterday when the report of peace was passed around. All flags were hoisted and everyone wore a smile. Whistles, bells, etc. were sounded all seemingly anxious to spread the tidings. In the evening the citizens of Rexton and Rexton united and a procession of about forty automobiles was formed. The autos were all nicely decorated with bunting and presented a pretty spectacle. During the procession all bells, whistles were sounded and guns fired and although the weather was damp the enthusiasm of the people was not. There are no cases of influenza here at present, but there are still a few cases in the surrounding country. The Catholic people greatly regret the removal of their pastor, Rev. P. Hebert, who left yesterday for his new field of labor at Notre Dame, Kent County. Since coming to this parish five years ago, Father Hebert has endeared himself to all his people. His place here will be taken by Rev. Father Joseph, who is a native of France. On account of the churches having been closed, Father Hebert was unable to give a public farewell sermon, but the people sent him an address and a purse of money as a mark of appreciation of his untiring work in their behalf.

ANOTHER REPUBLIC.

Basel, Nov. 10.—Hesse-Darmstadt declares itself a republic.

COUGHED, COUGHED ALL NIGHT LONG

Terribly wearing on the system is the cough that comes at night and prevents sleep. Sometimes it is a constant cough, cough that will not be quieted.

Sometimes it is a choked-up, stuffed-up feeling that makes breathing difficult, and sleep impossible. Whatever kind of a cold or cough you have, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the remedy you need to cure it. For the simple reason that this valuable preparation combines all the healing virtues of a cold or cough, pine tree with which is combined wild cherry bark, and the soothing, healing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Miss Margaret Landy, Bristol, P. E. I., writes:—"I am writing to tell you the benefit I have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Last fall I took a severe cough and cold in my head. I was unable to do anything. At night I could not sleep but cough, cough, all night long. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and before the second bottle was used, I was entirely cured, and I have found this the best cough medicine I can buy."

Do not accept any other "pine" preparations when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." This remedy has been on the market for a quarter of a century. It is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE HOME-DRYING OF DAMP WHEAT FOR MILLING PURPOSES

Each year thousands of bushels of damaged wheat are treated and cured in privately owned "hospital elevators" in Canada, then shipped to the mills to be milled. The flour put upon the market, bought and used for bread-making. New Brunswick wants just such flour today. The market is crying for it. We have the mills, and the damaged wheat, but no "hospital."

What can be done for our damaged wheat crop? The rough and ready home-cure must here be applied and applied with vigor, and at once to save the crop from bin-burning, heating, and mold. Wheat that is allowed to heat, becomes fire-ridden or moldy and it cannot then be used for any purpose. But if the excess moisture is driven off before much heating has taken place it will make good standard flour. Wheat sweats just as hay, potatoes and roots sweat after being harvested. It is to get rid of the moisture is the problem in each case. Sheaves of wheat taken to the barn in a damp condition will sweat in the barn but will dry off without damage if but slightly damp. In some cases the bands or twines may need to be cut and the straw scattered over the hay-mows to dry sufficiently to thresh. The sheaves will thresh much easier after the freezing weather sets in, meanwhile the barn doors should be opened widely every fine day to permit a draft.

If wheat sheaves have been thrashed when very damp, the sweating takes place in the granary bin, or in bags, barrels or puncheons in which the grain is stored. The air does not penetrate these heat developes and when cooled the wheat has a musty smell. It is then useless for grinding.

Thousands of bushels of wheat already thrashed are stored in granaries, in damp granaries and out-houses. This wheat, if held in such storage, will spoil. No "cold storage" plant can preserve its quality. It must be "dry cleaned" at home.

A method of every day use in western elevators to handle damp wheat is to change the wheat from one bin to another. This method is effective there and will be effective in your case. Empty the horseheads of wheat into a bin and if necessary shovel it over again into another bin within a week. Keep it moving as soon as heating is indicated. Ventilating shafts such as bats or strips of board, shoved down through the heaps of wet grain or a piece of stove pipe pierced with holes and the bottom plugged will keep small bins of wheat from heating, and a barrel of stone lime is useful to absorb the moisture.

If your granary is full and space limited install a plasterer's stove, or any kind of stove and keep a fire burning, provide for ventilation of the building and the wheat can be brought to milling condition with the approach of freezing weather.

Dirty, damp wheat can be dried and greatly improved if run through a fanning mill with a strong blast of air. Damp, dirty wheat yields damp, dirty flour, for the "scalper" at the mill will not screen out the weed seeds, dirt and broken smutty kernels. Then, before going to the mill, clean your wheat, and as a final "dryer" range the grit around the stove for a day or two.

The drying of damp wheat is not a local problem only good-flour is made every day from damaged wheat. Wheat-saving is imperative today and is the way of the "Victory Loan." Wheat is scarce.

Try, then, these methods to bring your damaged wheat into milling condition.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

Cleanses the little liver and bowels and they get well quick.

When your child suffers from a cold don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally; if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles, and has a sore throat give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs," to cleanse the bowels, no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children need to be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child to-morrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. "Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by 'California Fig Syrup Company.'

RED BANNER ON KAISER'S PALACE

Copenhagen, Nov. 10.—(Revolt)—Dr. Liebknecht, the noted Socialist who spent many months in prison for antagonizing the German government and who was recently released, has Berlin on behalf of the workmen's and soldiers' council. "The present chief command, is in our hands. Our comrades will be released."

The red banner has been hoisted on the Royal Palace and the red flag is waving from the Brandenburg Gate.

Among those killed in the fighting at the "Cockchafers" Barracks was one of the workmen's leaders, known as "Comrade" Habersroth.

The Dethroned Kaiser On Soil of Holland

William Hohenzollern and Ex-Crown Prince Will Stay for Awhile at Rhine Chateau of Count William Frederick Charles Henry Von Bentinck, Relative of Duke of Portland.

Washington, Nov. 10.—William Hohenzollern has arrived in Holland, and is proceeding to the town of De Steege, near Utrecht, according to a despatch received by the American general staff today from the Hague.

The message said: "Press reports state that the Kaiser arrived this morning in Maastricht, Holland, and is proceeding to Middelchen Castle, in the town of De Steege, near Utrecht."

De Steege is on the Guelders Yssel, an arm of the Rhine River, about 40 miles east of Utrecht and 12 miles from the German border. The Chateau Middelchen, which the Kaiser and his family are reported to be proceeding to, belongs to Count William Frederick Charles Henry Von Bentinck. He is a member of the Prussian Guards and before the war was attaché of the German Embassy in London, and a member of the English Turf and Royal Automobile Clubs. He is 38 years old. He belongs to the famous Anglo-Dutch German House of Bentinck, the continental branch of the family of the Duke of Portland. Middelchen Castle dates back to the year 1497.

Smokes Cigarettes.

London, Nov. 10.—The former emperor's party which is believed to include Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, arrived at Eysden, on the Dutch frontier, at 7.30 o'clock Sunday morning. Practically the whole German general staff accompanied the former emperor, and ten automobiles carried the party. The automobiles were bristling

ABDICATION OF HUN ROYALTY

Other Abdications.

Wilhelm II., reigning king of the monarchy of Wurtemberg, is declared to have abdicated Friday night, and reports have it that the Grand Duke of Hesse, ruler of the Grand Duchy of Hesse, has decreed the formation of a council of state to take over the government there. Every dynasty in Germany is to be suppressed, and all the princes exiled, according to Swiss People's governments have been established in the greater part of Berlin and in other cities of the kingdom and empire. Leipzig, Stuttgart, Cologne, Essen and Frankfurt have joined the revolution. In Berlin there have been some fighting between the revolutionists and reactionaries in which several persons were killed or wounded.

The Prince has been taken over by the revolutionists. "Long live the republic!" and the singing of "The Marseillaise" have been heard in the streets of Berlin.

Friedrich Ebert, the Socialist leader, has been appointed imperial chancellor and has issued a proclamation saying that it is his purpose to form a people's government, which will endeavor to bring about a speedy peace.

Enemy in Flight.

On the battlefield the Germans everywhere continue to suffer defeat at the hands of the British, French and American forces.

In the north Field Marshal Haig's forces have driven the enemy beyond the Franco-Belgian frontier south of the Sambre Canal, and now are almost within gun range of Brussels. The Germans are showing stiffer resistance with rear guards, but nevertheless the British are overcoming these efforts and pushing forward. Large quantities of supplies, including much rolling stock, have fallen into the hands of the British.

Likewise the French are still in pursuit of the enemy, but before them the German retreat seems to be somewhat disorderly. The enemy is abandoning guns and supplies of all descriptions, and in some instances entire railroad trains have been left behind.

All the enemy's lines of communication now have been captured, except the road leading northward from Meuse.

General Pershing's troops continue to make progress on both sides of the Meuse River, and the Second American Army has launched an attack west of the Meuse River, and against its objectives. On the Meuse the town of Stenay has been captured by the Americans after violent opposition. On the Moselle sectors several woods and villages have been cleared of the enemy by the Americans, including the Boisse de Waville from the northern fringes of which the great German fortress of Metz is only ten miles distant.

The collapse of Germany brings the eclipse of the German idea of the state, as opposed to the doctrine of individual rights, to which the nation clung with hardly a dissenting voice until recently. Under this regime there was developed a nation which militarism was the embodiment, which murdered and plundered, was headless of the rights of the individual and made terrorism a matter of studied policy.

Mad Dog of Europe.

This terrorism was directed against not only individuals but nations against not only hostile nations but those with which Germany was officially at peace. Its system of espionage, corruption and violence extended over the world. It was exemplified by the plots carried out in this country under direction of the government for the destruction of munition plants and ships before the United States entered the war and by the effort of the German government to embroil this country, then neutral, in war with Japan and Mexico. No capital of Europe was with rifles, and all the fugitives were armed.

The ex-Kaiser was in uniform. He alighted at the Eysden Station and paced the platform, smoking a cigarette.

Eysden lies about midway between Liege and Maastricht, on the Dutch border.

Not in Distress.

London, Nov. 10.—Chatting with the members of the staff, the former emperor, the correspondent says, did not say that when the former German minister returned to the station, including restaurant and sleeping cars, ran into the station. Only servants were about.

The engineer returned to Vise, Belgium, and brought back a second train, in which were a large number of staff officers and others and also stores of food. The German consular from Maastricht arrived soon after eight o'clock. Dutch railway officials soon made their appearance and many of the inhabitants came to the station, attracted by curiosity. Many photographs were taken by the people of the imperial party. On the whole the people were very quiet, but Belgians among them yelled out, "En Voyage!"

Empress Present.

London, Nov. 10.—A despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen quotes the Politiken as saying that when the former German emperor arrived at Maastricht he was accompanied by the former empress.

free from German secret agents in the years preceding the war, and the nations lived in growing dread of the huge military machine which Germany was building up, to the accompaniment of the emperor's boasts of the "shining sword," and German boasts to "Der Tag" in voices which echoed around the world.

The virtual ending of this greatest of conflicts has come with dramatic swiftness. Four months ago today the German military power apparently was at its height. The unchecked forces of the enemy had battered their way through the French and British armies until Paris was in peril and the British were fighting with their backs to the wall to prevent themselves from being forced to the sea. Late in July the world was thrilled with the news of an Allied counterattack between the Aisne and the Marne. The Germans were hurled back along the whole sector, and since that day the victorious progress of the Allies has been maintained.

Various Causes.

Various causes have contributed to the reversal. Exhaustion of German raw material and years of semistarvation assisted in the process of beating down the enemy to a submissive frame of mind.

It is also significant that the establishment of unquestioned Allied supremacy in the field almost synchronously with the unification of military control and the appointment of General, now Marshal Foch, in the post of supreme command. Military commentators without exception lay stress upon the importance of the single leadership and the genius of Foch in stemming and finally turning the tide.

Leading War Figures.

Among the individual leaders, aside from Foch, whose names stand out most prominently are Marshal Joffre, who saved France in her darkest days of the summer of 1914; Field Marshal Haig, the British commander; General Petain, at the head of the French forces; General Diaz, who on the Italian front beat back last summer's great Austrian offensive, and later tore the Austrian armies to pieces in a few weeks, and General Pershing.

On the German side are Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, a comparatively obscure officer who leaped into world-wide fame by his defeat of the Russians in 1914 and subsequently became the idol of Germany, and General Ludendorff, who although frequently credited with being the ablest of the two, never touched popular imagination as did his colleague. When Von Hindenburg was at the height of his fame a great wooden image of the German hero was set up, a monument to the power which now is broken. It stands today in Berlin, unless the new masters of Germany have torn it down.

KAMERAD.

"Kamerad," we've heard you call us when our cartridges were gone. Nearly gone—and when we answered then we died.

Running toward us over No Man's Land with true flags in the dawn.

Your grenades have torn us, then we knew you lied.

"Kamerad," you called to Russia, weary, weary, mute and blind, peace at Brest-Litovsk you promised; pleaded hard.

Till her armies were disbanded, for the trust of all mankind—

Now your agents give her women to the Guard.

"For the safety of the many," you have crucified and burned,

"Filled with pity," scores of wounded Belgian men—

"For the safety of the many?" German safety! We have learned,

"Kamerad," to know you well; you taught us then.

Now an armistice and parley "that this cruel war may cease,"

While your bloody fingers play another card?

Full in range of all our rifles you shall have our terms of peace,

"Unconditional surrender," Kamerad—
