run the country, and that ordinary people really don't count."

Only seven per cent of the students said they have a great deal or fair amount of confidence in major corporations, with oil companies picking up the support of a mere six per cent and advertising agencies only four per cent.

What's in store for the future? While 67 per cent of the students are confused about the rest of this century, 79 per cent think North American society is at a historical turning point.
