

CIAU Hockey Championships

Alan Small

What university hockey conference do the York Yeomen and the Western Ontario Mustangs play in?

York, Mustangs, out of their league

If you take a look at the standings in each of the pools at the CIAU's this weekend, one only needs a small knowledge of Canadian hockey trivia and geography to figure out what happened in the preliminary games this weekend.

Both teams were unable to register a win for the OUAA this weekend and were unable to deflect the criticism that was levelled towards them. The criticism being the picking of Western over the University of Calgary Dinosaurs as the tournament wildcard team.

In Western's first game, they got off to a 2 - 0 start against tourney finalist Saskatchewan but gave up five unanswered goals in the rest of the game to lose 5 - 2.

Against PEI in their second game they came up with a pathetic offensive performance while the only highlights of the game for the Mustangs were the outstanding play of goalie Chris Jackson and the frequent trips to the penalty box of Joe Rampton. Rampton accounted for eight of the thirteen minors called on the Mustangs.

Western coach Barry Martinelli was adamant about his team's right to be at the nationals.

"Calgary could have stunk too, and could have played with little emotion. The whole business of us not being here is a piece of s---," Martinelli steamed.

"We played five games in nine days," he reasoned. "We had no energy, and we lost our emotion in the series against York."

York has a stronger case, being the OUAA champions, as they lost two close games to the last two CIAU champions. They lost a 2 - 1 game to Alberta, and a 4 - 2 game to the eventual winners from Trois-Rivieres. Scoring, or their lack of it, was the main reason for their winless tournament.

York coach Dave Chambers said, "We win our games 4 - 2, 3 - 2."

The performance of the two OUAA representatives may cause the people who choose the CIAU top ten hockey rankings to think twice before placing teams from Ontario above teams from Quebec, the Maritimes or from Canada West.

If they think at all, that is.
