Quinte Cheese Factory Com-

Still Going Strong

Rednersville.—Some people who voted "Dry" on Monday last wonder why we are getting so much rain and some of the "Wets" think they could stand a little less than is coming. The explanation is no doubt found in the fact that there have been two eclipses during the week, one in connection with the Referendum, 18th inst., and another of the Moon, 22nd.

The Quinte cheese factory here began operations on Monday last with an unusually heavy supply of milk. The plant looks fine in its new coat of paint and with the interior cleaner and repainted from boiler room to curing-room it is certainly a credit to the community. The directors and the cheesemaker, Mr. Jno. Hall, are to be congratulated upon the fine improvements.

Rev. J. Cockburn, Field Secretary of the Dept. of Social Service and Evangelism and Rev. H. Frost of Grace Church, Trenton, were callers at the parsonage on Saturday last.

The public school is overcrowded at present so that the Trustees have ordered and put in some new seats to in part accommodate the newcomers. Will this hasten the Consolidated School movement? Most schools nowadays have a different experience to relate—small attendance being too prevalent.

Mrs. Crosby, Home Dept. Supt. and Mrs. W. J. Babcock, Cradle Roll Supt., have been completing organization of their departments and making calls this week. They report a fine interest and a splendid support. This omens well for the Sunday school.

All are glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Ashton back in their comfortable residence on Front St. after having spent the winter with their son, Harry in Toronto.

Also grateful to report Mrs. W. K. Ostrom returned after her very serious operation for tumors. She was only absent for about four weeks which pays tribute to Belleville Hospital indeed as hers was an unusual critical case.

Mrs. A. Babcock is quite recovered from her recent illness.

Mr. W. G. Orris has returned after spending several days with friends at Newmarket.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wannamaker have moved into their new house on Church street. The Trail Rangers now meet in the house vacated by them.

It is considered a worthy enterprise in behalf of the "3 C's" motto that there is to be held a joint field day at Foxboro on May 24th in which the Trail Rangers' Camp of Cannifton, West Huntingdon and Rednersville also the Boy Scouts of Foxboro are to participate. Clear athletes surely aid in the direction of clean living and clean speech. Success, Boys, and Congratulations, Leaders!

With the decline in the price of pork some farmers hereabouts are considering other lines of endeavor. A reckless motorist making his way across county was responsible for killing two pigs for F. Hermon here Thursday. This extravagant, foolhardy speeding is doing harm in many ways. Heavy fines and imprisonment is the only way to make our roads safe. Where does Prohibition end?

The Victoria Athletic Club will hold a Pie Social in the basement of the church, Wed. evening next. They have many sympathizers and supporters in their new organization.

The baseball club met on Friday to prepare their diamond for the season's game. They expect to get into the competition for the cup to be given by Hon. Nelson Parliament, M.P.P., to the winning team.

Mrs. A. Thompson has had an attack of grippe but is recovering under medical care.

Mr. W. Fox has been very busy of late overhauling and cleaning engines for various motor owners of this vicinity. Our garage has not yet opened but we have a good travelling expert, people say.

Local authorities predict a big plum crop. Gages and cherries are also promising big. Prince Edward may again be famous for her "plums."

Rev. L. M. Sharpe made a trip to Toronto and Galt this week in connection with matters of concern to the S.S. and Evangelism Department of the Methodist Church.

Fortunately there is no law against the importation of dress-makers, though some "anties" claim there should be against certain fashions which originate in Paris and New York. Truly in this strain we might write with Solomon: "Thine eyes shall behold strange women." However, to some people it is a real torment to be kept out of the latest fad and they therefore have our sympathy.

The churches were well attended here on Sunday. A Reception Service was held in the Victoria Church where three members were received following the Decision Day effort there. The Sunday schools were also re-organized at Centre and Albany with the result that Mr. Elwood Spencer was duly elected as Superintendent of the former, and Mrs. R. Onderdonk for the latter.

Hon. Nelson Parliament and Mr. M. Bekert called in our village on Monday last. The Legislature recess following the Referendum permitted the members to return to their constituents though, of course, they had the privilege of voting in Toronto because of the registration permit of a few weeks ago.

The Sunday evening service here was in the interest of the Trail Rangers. The Camp attended church and had the seats of honor and Mr. Harold Babbitt, Mentor, acted as chairman very efficiently, giving a very interesting outline of their work and aims.

Mr. W. G. Orris also gave a splendid address, inspiring and instructive, urging the co-operation of the parents and the church.

Mr. Roy Mitts spent the week end in the city renewing acquaintances and visiting his aunt there.

Mr. Randal Bontor, and family, Albany Road, have again taken up their abode on the farm after enjoying the winter in Trenton.

Quarterly meeting for this circuit will be held in the Methodist church, here Sunday, May 1st, at 10.30 a.m. The re-organization for Rednersville will take place in the same church at 1 p.m.

Community Club meets on Friday evening, April 29, at Albany. A good program is in store as there have been two weeks of preparation for this meeting. The mock parliament of itself is sufficient guarantee of witty and interesting entertainment, while music, singing, reciting, contest, etc., fills up a very pleasant two hours of profitable enjoyment. Everybody invited.

TRIBUTES OF RESPECT

Floral and spiritual offerings for the late Mr. Albert Ford were: Gates ajar—Grasselle Chemical Co., Cleveland, O.; anchor—Students Ontario Business College; wreaths—International Association of Machinists, The Intelligencer staff, Miss Owen Beare; cross—Mr. and Mrs. C. Paving Highways Cost
Oshawa.—The account for construction and maintenance for the 74 miles of the provincial highway in the united counties of Northumberland and Durham for 1920 has been received by the counties clerk and amounts to $68,644.15, of which $63,072.29 is for construction and $5,571.86 is for maintenance. Last year the counties were billed for 40 per cent. of the cost, and this year only 20 per cent. In Hamilton and Haldimand townships the counties share of the purchase price of the toll road from Cobourg to Grafton is included.

Cobourg.—This week M. Rex and Co., Cobourg, started the completion of the canoe factory of the Rice Lake Canoe Co. It is expected that active manufacturing operations will start in the new factory on May 15. The canoe factory has been operating on the second story, and this is needed by the latter to keep up with the increased number of orders coming in. Men are being taken on each week.

SIR GILBERT PARKER IMPROVED IN HEALTH

His New Screen Picture "The Money Master" Soon to be Released—Bank of Italy Most Impressive—MacDiarmid Says Massassaga Park Should be Advertised in New York Magazines.

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Your readers will be glad to learn that the illness of Sir Gilbert Parker was not serious and that he was only indisposed for a few days, the result of indigestion. The news was sent all over America and news of Sir Gilbert Parker, who was about to sail from New York to England, to miss her boat as she was preparing to start again for California, when she was assured that there was nothing serious. Sir Gilbert was much put out about it, but smiled when told that that was one of the drawbacks of being great. He is back in Los Angeles after being out on location and witnessing and helping to direct the filming of his new play, "The Money Master." The date of release for the picture has not been set, but it will be in the near future. Contrary to expectations, Sir Gilbert, who was to sail for England this month, will remain here until August, and will write and direct the next photo drama, which will be entirely original. He is looking splendid and the sunshine of California is giving him a ruddy complexion which is a clear indication that he is improving in health, as he was quite pale on his arrival here. Two years ago, he underwent an operation and he says he is a new man. He is a great walker and we have had a number of them under the stately palm trees of the beautiful avenues of Beverly Hills. Sir Gilbert would say, "I must have my walk. Do you like to walk?" Assuring him that walking was an accomplishment of Bellevillians, who would never encourage a street car company to do business in their city, we would start out, Sir Gilbert talked of many things and the writer was a good listener. Few know what the war has done and what the consequences of the war will be, like Sir Gilbert. He does not think that good times will come for quite a while and deeply deplores the lack of employment in England and elsewhere. Much he said was not intended for publication, and of course his wishes will be carried out.

Lifting his cane and pointing to a palm tree a hundred yards away, he said, "A bomb fell from one of the German Zeppelins as close to my house in London as that." The bombing of England by the air ships did not scare the English as the Germans thought it would. The submarines, which cut down their food supply, did more damage than the air ships. Everyone felt the pinch of hunger in England. Sir Gilbert said he was satisfied when the Germans were set back at the Marne that the result of the war was for the Allied cause.

Shortly after the Boxer rebellion in China, in which the soldiers of the different countries took part, under the direction of Admiral Goeben of the English navy, he was talking with the Admiral about the uprising. Sir Gilbert said the Admiral told him he had more trouble with the German soldiers than any of the others, and he noticed that the German soldier showed that he was without initiative and was unable to carry anything out away from the eye of his superior officer. If we ever have a war with Germany, said the Admiral, my contention will be proven. It certainly was.

In selecting "The Money Master" for the silver sheet the lovable Jean Jacques Barville is probably, in the humble opinion of the writer, one of the best adapted of all Sir Gilbert's books. The rugged scenery of Santa Rosa was taken for Quebec and a mill was erected there like the one at St. Saviour, where Jean is the big man of the village. The master carpenter is in love with Jean's wife, and when he is caught in the mill wheel pit and Jean threatens to drown him, will be a big scene in the play. There is no doubt but that "The Money Master" will be the greatest success of any of Sir Gilbert's works thus far.

The Italian bank is to California what the Bank of Montreal is to Canada. In all California cities the Bank of Italy has the most imposing buildings, and the capital is many hundreds of millions. At the head of the foreign department is Harry Parker, who started out with the Nations Bank at Trenton, and after getting a thorough knowledge of the banking business went to St. Paul, Minn., and from there to California. He is doing as well in the banking business as his illustrious brother in the realm of books. When one considers the vast resources and work of this bank it is pleasing to know that a Bellevillian has such an important part in shaping its destiny.

Harry is a genial, smiling business man, and despite his heavy responsibilities is always willing to talk, and you can only get away from him by promising to call and see him again.

Massassaga Park is about to be opened again. There is no reason why that delightful resort should not be as popular as any in America. If the Lions want to do something for their city let them advertise Massassaga in the magazines of New York State alone. Tourists from that state are the richest in America, and if the beauties of the Quinte and the fishing were advertised there would have to be an addition built to Massassaga every year. All that is needed is to get the beauties of the Quinte known away from home. Those who live in Belleville do not realize the beauties that lay from Murray canal to the shores of Kingston until they get away from it. No one will go there unless they hear about it. Look at what advertising has done for California. The Californian is just what the Bellevillian ought to be—a great booster. There are only two people in the world who know that Mosquito Bay has the greatest lunge fishing in America, and that is Harry Day and Lew Appleby. If American fishermen knew that they would get there no matter how hard they had to travel, and the cost would not matter. It would be just as well to change the name from mosquito to something more appropriate, and the tourist trade would be to Belleville what it is to Los Angeles; and the president of the Lions Club, "Bobby" Gorman, would find his shoe sales double every summer when business would otherwise be as quiet as it has been since Chief Jenkins headed his canoe away from the park to do business in the heap big Hotel Quinte.

Cordially yours,
W. S. MACDIARMID.

What Shall I Do?

ANSWERS TO QUERIES
Peg.—Perhaps he's really been too busy to write often; and maybe it's just because he's like most men and hates to write. At any rate don't tell he's "hurt" you—that sounds whiney. Just stop writing so often yourself, waiting just as long before answering his letter as he did before replying to you.

Blonde.—Don't marry any man you don't love, and don't let anyone make you. It is perfectly proper to send commencement announcements to your boy friends.

Mae.—Boys and girls should not walk arm in arm unless the road is dangerous. Then the boy should offer his arm.

Dimples.—You don't say how old you are, but 10 o'clock is quite late enough for your callers to stay, I'm sure—possibly too late.

Brown Eyes.—It is sufficient to say "how do you do" when introduced to a man, and "I'm glad to meet you" when introduced to another girl. The girl should always speak first—that is until the acquaintance is so well established that recognition is simultaneous, (look it up in the dictionary).

O. P.—Working girls are no different from other girls in having nothing more worth while than their good names. Be sure to cherish yours, because no one can take it from you unless you make it possible, dear.

D. C. G. C.—You ask so many questions I haven't room to answer them all here; send a stamped, addressed envelope for a personal reply, please.

Blonde and Brunette.—When the boys bring you home, thank them for a pleasant time. Five nights a week would be too many to see your boy friend even if you weren't in school, since you are, two nights a week are all you can afford. It is not proper to kiss him goodnight nor goodbye when he goes away, nor to hold hands in the movies. The first two would be proper only if you were engaged to marry the boys, the last not even then.

Shamrocks.—You two girls must send a stamped and self-addressed envelope for a personal reply to your questions.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma wouldn't leave me go out this afternoon on account of me having pasted a big home made label on her suit case with home made printing on it saying This Suit Case Belongs to Mrs. Willyum Potts, Hands Off and I was standing at the parlor window wishing I was out instead of looking out, and Puds Simkins came up, saying, Come on out, Benny, I know where there's 2 pecky piles of dirt, come on out.

I can't, I ain't allowed, my mother would leave me for pasting a label on her suit case, I sed.

Well ask her again, sed Puds, and I sed, I asked about 40 times all ready, G, I know a way, Ill go up in her room and you yell up to me to come out and Ill yell down about the label and you yell back that you did the same thing and your mother let you go out all rite.

Which I ran up to do, and ma was sewing on the sewing machine and I opened the window, ma saying, Close that, do you want my patterns to blow all over the room?

No man, Puds, Simkins is down there yelling something and I cant hear wat he's yelling, I sed. Wich jest then Puds yelled up, Hay Benny come on out, and I yelled down, I cant, I pasted a label on ma's suit case to do her a favor and I cant.

Aw wat of it, I jest pasted one on my mothers suit case this morning and Im out, and I, my mother didnt think it was anything, Puds yelled up.

Benny, close that window, sed Ma. Dig you hear wat Puds jest yelled I sed.

Close that window, sed Ma. Wich I did, thinking, Aw G, heck, wat the doose.

BRITAIN GETS RICH ISLAND

Incidental of the War Which Gives to Empire Rich Supply of Phosphates

WAS ONCE GERMAN
Two Tiny Points in the South Pacific—More About Discovery

LONDON.—As one of the incidents of the war and the dividing up of the former German possessions in the Pacific, the British Empire has acquired what is perhaps the richest supply of phosphates in the world. Two tiny points in the South Pacific, the island of Nauru and the Ocean Island, taken over by Great Britain under mandate after the war have been found to be treasures out of all proportion to their size.

Up to ten years ago the names of these islands were unknown to any but the geographer and the specialist. They lie out in the lonely Pacific about 50 miles south of the Equator and some 3,000 miles west of the coast of South America. In 1885 the two islands, then considered of no commercial value, were formally annexed by Germany. Some time afterwards deposits of phosphate were discovered on Ocean Island and later still Nauru was found to have phosphate deposits.

When the two islands, with the remainder of the old German possessions in the South Pacific, were transferred to Great Britain under mandate an agreement was made on July 2, 1919, between the governments of the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth of Australia and the Dominion of New Zealand for the allotment of British-controlled phosphates in the Pacific Ocean on a basis of 42 per cent. to the United Kingdom, 42 per cent. to Australia, and 16 per cent. to New Zealand.

It is stated that the formation of these phosphate beds has been accomplished largely through the agency of finished sea birds which have left vast deposits of guano on the islands. The guano, mingling with the lime of the coral rock has practically converted the whole of the islands in great repositories of phosphate of lime. On Nauru these phosphate deposits range to a depth of 40 feet, and on Ocean Island they are 57 feet deep.

Neither island has any harbor facilities and in order to load the phosphate it has been necessary to construct jetties of the "cantilever" type, running far out over the reefs. The material is taken out on cars to the jetties and thence lightened to steamers, moored far out in deep water. Under good weather conditions, from 1,000 to 1,200 tons of phosphates can be loaded daily from the two islands. The present annual output is in the neighborhood of 350,000 tons.

So far the bulk of the phosphates has gone to Australia but it is understood that arrangements have now been effected by Great Britain taking up her entire quota for home production. It is expected that some 180,000 tons of high grade island phosphates will be delivered to the United Kingdom each year and after mixture with basic slag will be distributed at farmers' stations at something under three shillings per unit of phosphate of lime. The present quotations of phosphate of lime range above five shillings per unit. The first consignment of island phosphates are expected to arrive in England in June and July. It is said that one-third of the output for the first six months has already been contracted for.

CITIZENS SHOULD STUDY FINANCES

Boards of Trade Can Take More Interest in Community Affairs

CLOSER CO-OPERATION
Full Publicity Should be Given Finance Says Research Bureau Head

While rapidly increasing tax rates from coast to coast have impelled business men from coast to coast to take a more direct interest in questions of civic government and civic finance there is still too much of a feeling of apathy on the part of the more intelligent voters toward their local government. For that reason, every sign of closer co-operation between the tax-payer and the people who spend their money is a welcome sign.

Nearly every city in Canada has its board of trade and in the board of trade there exists an agency that can do good work along the line of educating business men to their civic financial problems. The interests of the community are after all the interests of the board of trade, for the interests of the board are as wide as the community if it is progressive and alert. Speaking in Oshawa a few days ago Dr. H. L. Brittain, head of the Citizens Research Institute of Canada referred to this question and indicated that the board of trade's interest and the community's interest interlocked with regard to protection of persons and property, highways, education, public health and sanitation, social welfare, charities and correction, housing and town planning, recreation and public utilities.

More Than Financial Question
Dr. Brittain showed that the expenditure of public funds is more than a financial question. If the town or city takes a dollar away from a man it must be prepared to spend it to greater advantage than the man himself can in the public interest. As the money is raised by the municipality for community service, every dollar wasted is a dollar taken from some necessary community service.

There can be no adequate control of public expenditures without full publicity. Dr. Brittain stated that this was one of the four fundamentals of the community's interest in public expenditures. The other three were the definite location of financial responsibility and the necessity for a budget and modern municipal accounting.

There should be continuous careful study of community needs and problems for "lack of knowledge is the chief source of community inefficiency" said the speaker.
