

ANNUAL LOCH LOMOND FAIR PROVES SPLENDID SUCCESS

Ideal Weather and Large Crowds—Fine Display of Produce and Home-made Articles—Cattle and Horses Shown Above the Usual Standard—The Prize Winners

The twenty-seventh annual exhibition of the Simonds and Loch Lomond Agricultural Society was held yesterday at Loch Lomond and was every way a grand success. The weather was ideal for an exhibition and the fair one of the best held in the history of the society.

The attendance was exceptionally large for in addition to the large number of farmers and their families there was a great number of ladies and gentlemen from the city.

The produce and domestic manufactures made an excellent display. Those who are quite capable to judge say that they never saw a better exhibition of produce than that shown by the Simonds parish farmers, and better work in hand than that of the male, quilts, mittens and socks that were exhibited by the wives of the farmers.

The cattle and horse display was exceptionally fine and in fact the judges in the different lines of exhibits had considerable difficulty in awarding the prizes.

Hundreds of persons visited the grounds during the morning and this crowd was enlarged by new arrivals after dinner. Every person present was pleased with the work of the society was heartily congratulated for the excellent manner in which they performed their part of the work.

The new Loch Lomond House was crowded all day and the guests were well looked after by the hostess, Mrs. Barker. The judges of the different exhibits finished their work about 3 o'clock and the doors of the building which had been closed during the time of judging, were thrown open to a well pleased crowd of visitors.

DR. SMITH HAS A LEPROUS CURE

New Brunswick doctors are wondering why so much fuss is being made about the case of leprosy that was discovered near Washington when according to Canadian standards, there is no reason why he should not be cured—his life, if his attack is as yet only in the early stage.

A medical man states that government heads of the health department are convinced that leprosy can be cured not by any single remedy, but by a combination given in a systematic manner. At the leper lazaretto at Tracadie, in this province, it is said that at least two cures have taken place during the last four years.

In each case the disease was contracted in its early stage.

The first successful case was that of a man who had what is known here as hereditary leprosy.

Leprosy was brought to New Brunswick originally by shipwrecked sailors. During the last ten years, however, the disease has been fairly well stamped out and now there are only fifteen cases in the lazaretto. The last to arrive was a woman, who registered in 1905. She had not inherited the disease but was inoculated, apparently, while attending a relative who died from it. This leper had kept his affliction a secret.

The woman, who then contracted the disease, was given Dr. Smith's treatment, and he has reported to Ottawa that she is virtually cured, although he would keep her at least another year in the institution.

DIVORCE SUIT STOPS NATURALIZATION PLAN

In the circuit court today, Judge Landry refused to grant the application of John Albert Ljungberg to be naturalized. Objection to the granting of the application was taken by W. B. Wallace, K. C., and J. A. Barry, who was acting for Ross N. Ljungberg, wife of the applicant, in a divorce suit in which the husband is the plaintiff.

Counsel for the defence stated that the applicant was seeking to establish her domicile at Upperport, Kings Co., and that the application should be made in that county. He also objected on the grounds that the applicant was not a resident in Canada for the term of years required by the act, and that the application was made solely to get on with the divorce suit. C. F. Sanford appeared for J. R. M. Baxter, who is counsel for Ljungberg in the suit for divorce.

RAINFALL OF THE WORLD.

The rainfall of the continents after a long collecting of records has been estimated to average thirty inches a year. Collecting measurements are difficult, but after considering all known facts Pritchard has now concluded that the entire earth's surface has a mean annual rainfall of thirty-six inches. This means a total for every 382,000,000 metric tons of water every

THREE KILLED IN COLLISION

BRANTFORD, Oct. 5.—Three men killed and two seriously injured in the result of a head-on collision which occurred this morning at Mount Vernon, a small place distant from here nearly seven miles. The C. P. R. machinists in West Toronto share in the general satisfaction over the strike settlement, and it is reported that thirty boiler makers and seventy machinists have decided against applying for old jobs.

Captain Nicholas Wagner, master of the Star of Bengal, Victor Johnson, his first mate, and two of the seamen who testified at the investigation made out to ascertain Captain Wagner's responsibility for the loss of the bark, yesterday made a statement under oath to the United States officials. In which they charge Captains Hamilton and Farrar with cowardice and neglect in departing the bark when in a critical position.

HUNDREDS OF CANADIAN WOMEN ARE WEARING MEN'S APPAREL?

Rather Startling Assertion of Canadian Woman who had been Garbed as a Man for Fifteen Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Puzzling the immigration officials at Ellis Island, the case of a woman attired in man's clothing, who was landed yesterday from the New York of the American line, from Southampton and Cherbourg, will be taken up today by a special board of inquiry and Robert Watchorn, Commissioner of Immigration, will no doubt refer the case to Washington for final settlement, if the woman does not change her mind and dress today.

The woman, who is fifty years old, passed through the inspection line yesterday garbed as a man, her feminine appearance caused her to be halted and questioned. She finally admitted that she was a woman and that the name, Frank Woodhull, which she had assumed, was not her proper one. Then more questioning brought out her story.

To the examiners she told that her true name is Mary Johnson and that she was born in a little town outside of Quebec of French-Canadian parents. For thirty-five years, she said, she had dressed according to the custom of her sex until she found that she could get along better attired as a man, and fifteen years ago, while in California, she put on masculine garb and made a success as a canvasser for books. Then she went to New Orleans, where her knowledge of French stood her in good stead and she did very well.

She saved enough money to go to France this summer and visited the little village where her ancestors were born. To the inspectors she said that she was on her way to New Orleans to again take up her work. As Miss Johnson could not be placed in the detention rooms for men, despite her attire and for obvious reasons could not stay in the part of the big building assigned to women, Joseph Murray, assistant commissioner, was puzzled to know how to care for the detained woman. Finally she was placed in a private room in the hospital.

Miss Johnson's hair, which is cut short, has a tinge of gray, and on her lip is a faint down, which she says has been the bane of her life. The years have enabled Miss Johnson to take on some of the ways of man, and when she talked yesterday she wore and held her small hands in her trouser pockets.

"I have worked as a man because I have had to," she said. "I have always lived an honest and respectable life. I have travelled across the Atlantic both ways, with three men in the room assigned to me, and they never knew my sex was different than mine. Why should I be denied the right to earn my living as I am doing? Hundreds of women in Canada are wearing men's clothes in order to earn an honest living, simply because they are obliged to do so. A woman of my age can get no employment in the United States, especially if she is not strong. There is nothing in the laws admitting aliens as to their wearing proper clothing of their sex, but the laws of the State forbid it."

TOOK CARBOLIC ACID AFTER DISPUTE WITH EMPLOYERS

John Campbell, Aged Workman, Had Trouble This Morning With C. H. Peters Sons, and Committed Suicide.

John Campbell committed suicide in rather a sensational manner at his home, 202 British street, this morning. He was employed as a warehouseman for C. H. Peters' Sons on Walker's Wharf, and was 61 years of age.

Ever since he first started work he had been employed with the Peters firm and was looked upon as a most peaceable citizen. This morning about 9:30 o'clock his wife was surprised to see her husband return home from his work. He appeared to be greatly troubled and his wife thought that while at his work he had an altercation with Shirley Peters, a son of one of the members of the firm, and during the row he struck young Mr. Peters on the head.

After telling his wife the above story he left the house and about 8:45 o'clock he returned and entering the room where his wife was he held out an empty bottle and told her that he had visited a drug store and had drunk the contents of the bottle which had contained carbolic acid.

The deadly drug then began to get in its work and the unfortunate man collapsed on the floor of the room where he rolled about in agony. Mrs. Campbell became terror stricken when she realized what her husband had done and picking up the empty bottle threw it into the stove.

A hasty message was sent for a physician and Dr. Beilley was summoned, but when he arrived the man was beyond anything that the physician could do to save his life. He soon passed away.

The trouble which Mr. Campbell had with his employer's son apparently caused him great mental trouble, and the grief was too much for him to bear. When he informed his wife of the dispute, he then decided to end his life, for he immediately left his home and going directly to a drugist purchased the acid, and just before he entered his own home, he swallowed the contents of the bottle.

Much sympathy is expressed for the heart broken widow and her son. Coroner Berryman was summoned and has made some enquiries into the case, and has put the police to work. As soon as he obtains more evidence he will hold an inquest on several occasions the coroner has spoken strongly against the indiscriminate manner in which carbolic acid is sold.

WANT FINES USED TO PAY FOR PROSECUTIONS
Citizens Petition Fredericton Council to Enforce This Regulation—The Road Committee.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 6.—The city council at its regular monthly meeting yesterday voted to purchase a lot from A. B. Kitchen on Government Lane and incorporate the same in Winnet Park. The purchase price is $1,866 and the city is to pay five per cent. until such time as legislation can be secured to ratify the purchase. A communication signed by eight leading citizens was read calling attention to the council to the fact that fines collected in Scott Act cases were not being used to defray the cost of enforcing the act as the law required. After some discussion the question was referred to a special committee to investigate and report.

The road committee which has hitherto consisted of the whole council will in future have only three members—A. H. Mitchell, Winstlow, Kitchen will serve on it for the balance of the year.
