

A Healthy Individual.

The following is the last thing written by the late "Artemus Ward." O'ull quite recent I've been a healthy individual. I'm nearly sixty and yet I've got a minkie into my arm which don't make my fists resemble the feet of a canary bird when they fly about and hit a man. Only a few weeks ago I was exhibitin' in East Skowhegan, in a bildin' which had formerly been occupied by a pugilist—one of them fellers which hits from the shoulder and teaches the manly arts of war by the free in consequence of previally cockeeping and biding, with a large yeller dog. "To be sure, sir, but not with this yeller dog," he said, "O yes," I said, "Oh, no." He said, "Do you want to be ground to powder?" I said, "Yes, I do, if there is a powder grinder handy." When he struck me a disgustin' blow in the left eye, which caused the concern to at once close for repairs; but he didn't hurt me any more. I went for him energetically. His parents lived with me, and I will simply state that fifteen minutes after I had gone for him, his mother, seeing the prostrate form of her son approachin' the house onto a shutter carried by four men, run out doors, hurriedly looked him over, and said, "My son, you've been foolin' round a thrashin' masheen. You went in at the end where they put the grain in, come out with the straw, and then got up in the thugmajig and let the horses tread on you, didn't you, my son?" You can judge by this what a disagreeable person I am when I'm angry.

The Boss Child Abduction.

There seems to be as yet very little light thrown upon the now celebrated Philadelphia child abduction case, those whom the bungling efforts of the detectives have brought into prominence now threatening with libel suits, the newspapers which were too quick to draw inferences concerning their guilt. The crime is one easy to commit, and so terrible in its consequences, that attention has been drawn to it from all quarters. Notwithstanding the wholesale abuse that is being heaped upon the heads of the Philadelphia police, there is no reason to believe that the city is guarded with at least average care, and the perpetration of this crime under the very eyes of the public guardians, has caused a feeling of uneasiness in the mind of every man with young children, and without the power to raise several thousand dollars. One of the most unpleasant features of the case is the reported correspondence for a compromise between the abductors and the distressed father; but we are glad to see that Mr. Ross denies this in fact, and describes the charge against himself as a cruel blow to one already overburdened with misfortune. We hope that this denial will put a stop to the large amount of casuistry, which has lately appeared in the press with respect to the innocence or guilt of the father, whose children the law was unable to protect. The position of a parent in such circumstances is painful beyond expression, and the generous sympathy of the public will go a long way in the attempt to exculpate from him the guilt of compromising with criminals.

THE CROPS IN THE UNITED STATES.—The crop prospect in the United States, are according to the report issued by the Department of Agriculture for July, on the whole, good. About 2,000,000 acres more corn has been planted this year than last, and in the West the crops are generally large. Spring and fall wheat have been somewhat damaged by worms, which will reduce the average 20 to 30 per cent, for last year. Oats, rye, and barley are a full average. The average of potatoes is larger than last year, and the yield fair, although the Colorado beetle has been at work. A parasite which preys upon it has been noticed in some localities. Only about half as much tobacco was planted this year as last and the prospect is not so good as usual. Sugar is cultivated in six States, with marked success in all cases. Cotton will not quite reach the average of other years, owing to the drought in a great measure, to the disastrous spring floods. Fruit will be good in quality, but deficient in yield. Hay and pasture are an average, but not more. Taken altogether, although the prospects of our friends across the lines are not so encouraging as with us, there is not much for them to complain of.

THEY are trying to build the largest hotel in the world in San Francisco. It is to be known as the Pacific Hotel and will contain 700 rooms. There will be 374 bay windows. Accommodations will be furnished for 1,200 guests. The hotel is to be completed in August, 1875, and will cost altogether $2,750,000. Of this amount $1,000,000 will be the cost of the lot, $250,000 of the building, and $500,000 for the furniture.

THE Bangor Whip tells of a squirrel which, chased by some boys, ran up the corner of a mill chimney, reaching the top, 105 feet from the ground. He tried to come down, but could not, and evidently made up his mind that he must leap, and this he did, spreading out his legs and balancing himself so that he struck the ground about fifty feet from the base, uninjured, and immediately scrambled off and ascended himself under a pile of boards a little distance away.

REFFERING to the Bengal famine, the Vice-o's telegram states that the prospects of the crops continue favorable. The numbers on relief have decreased from 177,000 in the fortnight ending June 27, to 893,000 in the following fortnight. The numbers in receipt of charitable relief increased from 406,000 to 525,000. From the end of August the need of Government aid will gradually diminish.

Bacy Literature.

Ad unpopular "ism"—The Rheumatism. How can a man see the point of a joke when he is the butt? A Texas man has had to put a muzzle on his dog's tail because he wagged it so enthusiastically that he knocked over a lamp and set the house on fire. "What's the plural of pillow?" asked an Irish teacher the other day. "A bolster, sir," replied the rawest pupil, amid the tittering of the whole class. "Yes, sir," said a Michigan Fourth of July orator, "Putman went right into the wolf's den, dragged her out and the independence of America was secured." Dennis O'Toole's house burned down from a spark of a fire cracker. Dennis always was a patriot before that, but now he says: "Be damned to your Fourth of July."

A student undergoing his examination was asked what was the action of disinfecants, and replied: "They smell so badly that the people open their windows, and fresh air gets in." Thirty days in jail is the price for throwing your wife out of doors in Greenville, Conn. These domestic amusements will soon be so cheap as to be within the reach of the poorest. "Pat," said a joker, "why don't you get your ears cropped? They are much too long for a man." "And yours," replied Pat, "ought to be lengthened; they are too short for an ass."

"Why," asked a governess of her little charge, "do we pray to be given our daily bread? Why don't we ask for four days or a week?" "Because we want it fresh," was the ingenious answer.

"Doctor," said a dying woman feebly, about whose bed were gathered weeping children and friends to hear her last request, "Doctor, can't you keep me alive until I hear Moulton's evidence?" An Irishman remarked to a companion, on seeing a lady pass, "Pat, did you ever see a thin lady as that before?" "Thin," replied the other; "but she's thin; I've seen one as thin as two of her put together, I have."

A farmer near Prairie City complains that a hook and ladder company has been organized in his neighborhood. He states that the ladder is used after night for climbing into his chicken house, after which the hooking is done. "An ingenious Elmira man has invented an aërograph, or storm writer, which fortells the weather ten days in advance. He ought to be able to make his everlasting fortune out of intending bridal parties or ladies with new bonnets.

A dissipated young spendthrift, when remonstrated with by his wife, replied, "I am like the prodigal son, and shall repent by and by." "Yes," said the better half, "and I am like the prodigal son, too; for I will arise and go to my father."

A Kalamazoo judge went to a neighboring town to see a man and telegraphed back to his wife, "I have found Garland; won't he be home for a week." When the despatch reached her it read, "I have found girl, and won't be home in a week." Here let us draw a veil.

CONSIDERATE.—Old Stinky (to a friend) "My lad, have you a purse?" "No, sir." "Sorry, if you had I'd give you something to put in it." Next time the same question answered, "Yes, sir." "Glad, if you hadn't I meant to give you something to buy one with." A young fellow in a Western town was fined $10 for kissing a girl against her will, and the next day the damsel sent him the amount of the fine, with a note saying that the next time he kissed her he must be less rough about it, and be careful not to do it when the old man was around.

In New York recently, a fashionable couple up town celebrated their wedding, and the first quarrel of their married life occurred on this occasion. It was created by the husband classifying his mother-in-law as an "old beast," for sending as a present a fifteen cent paper knife.

A Newswriter, Delaware, woman has been tolerably thrifty since her marriage. During the twenty-four years of her connubial joys she has added a darling hopeful, yearly, to her blossoming household. She has now twenty-three, and don't expect to do better than she has done in years to come.

A country newspaper says that in reply to a question from the lecture committee of the chief town of the district as to the subject of a lecture to be given at the institution, the lecturer telegraphed, "A Taste of Naples and Rome." The operator made it read, "A Taste of Apples and Rum."

"Papa, do you think Beech?" "Hush, Johnny." "But papa do you think Beech?" "Didn't you hear me tell you to stop your noise, sir? I won't have you talk about these things. Go in and get your face washed." And Johnny with tears in his eyes wants to know why papa won't tell him whether beech ants are ripe.

DIALOGUE IN A CEMETERY.—Wife—"Ah husband do you see this beautiful carving? How delicately cut in the pure white stone!" Husband—"Yes, very pretty." Wife—"But, William, you have no taste for art; you don't enjoy these things as I do. Just notice this slender column of immaculate marble, with the touching question so beautifully carved, 'Do they miss me at home?'" Husband—"Yes I see; and here is her name on the foot-stone." G.A.B. Yes I guess they miss her if that was her name." And there came silence.

DR. LA'MERT on the Physiology of Marriage, a Popular Medical Review of its Social, Moral and Physical Obligations, and on the various Disqualifying Causes, which in both Sexes prevent the fulfillment of the Personal Duties, and the attainment of its legitimate Objects. With an essay on the Functional Disorder of the Reproductive Organs, arising from solitary habits or excesses, and the treatment and Cure of Nervous Debility, Physical Incapacity, Spermatorrhoea, Imbalance, and Sterility, founded on the results of twenty-five years successful practice.

By S. LA'MERT, M. D., L. S. A., &c., &c. 27 BRUNSWICK SQUARE, LONDON, E. C. A distinguished Queen's Counsel, in addressing the Court of Queen's Bench in reference to this work, observed: "That is an extremely valuable book, written by an eminent and experienced medical man, upon one of the most important and interesting subjects of life, which every one, married or single, ought to be acquainted with." It points out how all the attributes of Manhood can be preserved to an advanced period of life, how they are lost, and how they can be recovered. De. LA'MERT, Doctor of Medicine of the University of Edinburgh, Licentiate of the Royal Society of Apothecaries of London, Honorary Member of the London Hospital Medical Society, &c., is the only regularly qualified practitioner who, for 25 years, has devoted his entire attention to the care of these disorders, which imperil the very fountain of life, health and vigor, but which, owing to the great discoveries of modern science are rendered subservient to a rational, simple and easy mode of treatment. At home for consultation, personally, or by letter, from 10 till 2, and from 6 till 8 daily, at his residence, 37 Bedford Square, London. Parties residing in the Colonies can be successfully treated by correspondence, and remedies can be forwarded in secrecy and safety to any address. THE PHYSIOLOGY OF MARRIAGE may be had of the undermentioned Agents, price 50 cents: Free by post, 60 cents. Halifax, J. H. Woolrich, Druggist; Yorkmouth, H. A. Parr, Druggist; Pictou, Henry Elliott. CAUTION.—The public are warned against an advertisement of the so called "Peabody Institute," in which the title of Dr. Samuel La'Mert's works, "Self Preservation" and the "Science of Life" are unbecomingly appropriated, the said works having been published by him for nearly thirty years. Oct. 15th, 1873. 1y
