COLONEL OTTER

Will be Rewarded for Gallant Services in South Africa.

MONEY VOTED TO CONTINUE WAR.

Dutch Students Prohibited From Serenading Kruger.

SANTA FE STRIKE STILL ON.

Centennial Anniversary of Removal of Capital to Washington Will be a Great Event.

From Wednesday's Daily Toronto, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—The Globe says the government will be asked to vote $20,000 as a reward to Col. Otter for his valient services in South Africa.

The same paper also says the government will increase seats in the senate as follows: Two from Ontario, two from Quebec and two from the maritime provinces.

To Continue War.

London, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—The house of commons today voted £16,000,000 to continue the war in South Africa.

Dutch Students Restrained.

The Hague, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—The Dutch government refused to take the initiative in the arbitration of the Transvaal matter.

The serenading of Kruger by students was prohibited by the police, as trouble was feared.

Strike Still On.

Chicago, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—The Santa Fe telegraphers' strike which was thought to have been settled by filling the positions with new people, is assuming a serious look, and the railroad men may order a general sympathetic strike.

Washington Celebration.

Washington, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—Extensive preparations are being made to celebrate the rooth anniversary of the moving of the nation's capital from Philadelphia to this place. A reception will be given the governors of the various states at the White House, and there will be a great military parade and review. It is proposed by congress to make it a national holiday.

Typhoid in the Army.

London, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—Reports just received say that typhoid is raging in the army in South Africa many cases proving fatal.

The Water Co. Case.

Witness Foley, whose examination in the case against the water company took place yesterday afternoon, was heard under cross-examination this morning.

The witness had been in the employ of the water company previous to the placing of the tank house on Second avenue, and testified that at the time the house was placed there the ditch for the reception of the man had been dug as far as Fourth street that he knew of, and might have been further. A pipe had been laid from the house to Fourth street, but this was not a main but a smaller pipe.

Alister H. Cameron, patrolman for the water company at the time the injunction was issued, testified that on the night in question he had replenished the fire in the house. He had not built the fire again that night because he had found a written order from Mr. Matheson, telling him not to build any more fire till further notice.

On the night in question he could not remember having heard anyone calling to him from the Melbourne window concerning a fire, or in fact, about anything else.

He had found the key hanging near the door, and while he had built no fires after this, he had been in there frequently just to see that everything was all right.

He carried the key to the house or left it hanging on a nail outside during the time of the injunction.

Foreman O'Grady was called and testified as to his position with the company, what his work had been, the depth of ditches, etc., after which court adjourned till the afternoon session.

Souvenir En Route

A telegram received yesterday evening by the Nugget conveys the information that Mr. Robert S. Harris is now en route from Skagway to Seattle on the steamer Victorian, having in his care and keeping the beautiful golden Klondike souvenir, which was provided by the Nugget and manufactured by J. L. Sale & Co., as a present to the presidential candidate polling the majority of the votes in the Klondike in the well remembered election so successfully conducted by the Nugget, and the result of which, as is also well remembered, was an overwhelming majority for Bryan; therefore, to him is the souvenir being sent.

Mr. Robert S. Harris, to whom the important mission is intrusted, is well known and popular in the Klondike. He is a pioneer in the country and owns valuable mining property on Hunker. Having years ago been a neighbor to William Jennings Bryan, and having great admiration for him both as a man and statesman, he was an ardent worker in his cause during the late local contest, and to him the pleasure of carrying to Mr. Bryan's home and presenting in person the beautiful token bequeathed him by the sentiment of his fellow Americans in the far-off Klondike is to Mr. Harris an inexpressible and an indescribable pleasure.

Mr. Harris left here on the 2nd of the present month with the souvenir, a letter from the editor of the Nugget to Mr. Bryan and other letters to various papers descriptive of the golden token, its origin, the result of the election and all details. Mr. Harris will stop in Seattle for two or three days during which time the souvenir will be on exhibition in some prominent place. From Seattle the messenger will go direct to Bryan's home, Lincoln, Neb., where the evidence of his popularity in the Klondike will be safely delivered into his hands. Mr. Harris will wire the Nugget immediately on his safe arrival at Lincoln and on the delivery of the treasure entrusted to him.

From Nebraska Mr. Harris will return to California on a visit to his old home. He expects to return to Dawson over the ice in March.

They're Curling Again.

Notwithstanding the misfortunes which have fallen from time to time upon the bright dreams of the curlers, almost wrecking all their future plans for curling, the rink is open now and apparently the ice is in splendid condition, which goes to show that curling, crushed to earth will rise again. To those who never saw the game, it presents but little interest during the first few minutes, but if the spectator remains during the opening 15 minutes, and has the good fortune to have the merits and scientific points explained to him by some canny Scotchman, he will notice a strange itching in his finger tips, and if there chances to be an unoccupied rink and a broom in sight the chances are two to one that he will fall an immediate victim to the curling habit and be wriggling backwards in front of a stone, sweeping the ice in its path as if his life depended upon it, in less than five minutes.

This goes far to explain the great number of curling enthusiasts who are to be seen at the rink nightly.

Information Wanted.

Eliot Hubbard, of 206 Beacon street, Boston, Mass., writes to the Nugget for information concerning his brother, Richard D. Hubbard, whom he has somehow heard was tired for murder here sometime ago. Inquiry among court records fails to bring to light the name of such a man having been tried for any crime. Should anyone have any information that would relieve the mind of the anxious brother in the far east, they should address him as above.

A Lost Man.

Inquiries are made for Wm. Beckmen, last heard of at Whitehorse. Will anyone knowing of this man's whereabouts call at the town police station and leave their informatio.

Goetzman makes the crack photos of dog teams.

Pulham Arrives

George Pulham, division superintendent of the Dawson-Whitehorse mail route, arrived down the river at 11 o'clock this forenoon after a careful trip of inspection of the entire trail from Whitehorse. When asked about the condition of the trail and the cause of the delay in bringing in the mail Mr. Pulham said the trail is very bad and that state of affairs accounts for the slow progress made by the mail teams.

"When the river closed," said he, "and the trail was broken, it was broken in the wrong place, too close to shore, and now that the water has gone down that trail crumples and breaks until it can not be used, with the result that we have been compelled to break a new trail which we are doing, making it as nearly as possible in the center of the river where it will be solid all winter."

"The worst part of the trip is from Selwyn to Mackey. I sent out my very best team between Mackey and Carmack and it took 20 hours to cover a distance of 20 miles. And that is why mail has not been coming down the river at lightning express speed. Our men are still at work on the trail and when it is as good as it was last year we will make just as good time with the mail as was made then."

Mr. Pulham thinks the government should assist in making winter trails in the Yukon. He says the four-horse stages which are en route to Whitehorse will have some thrilling experience before the journey is complete. Mr. Pulham will direct the business of his company from this end of the line during the remainder of the winter.

ONE-EYED RILEY

Is Pursued by Ollie Dorrelle Who Is Said to be His Wife.

HE WAS TRYING TO SHAKE HER

Were Married the Sunday Before Fortune Smiled.

FOLLOWED HIM ON TO SOUND.

Anarchists Raise Money for Family of Bresco and Threaten President McKinley.

Skagway, Dec. 19.—Ollie Darrelle arrived Monday from Dawson in pursuit of "One-Eyed Riley," who is said to have won $18,000 before leaving Dawson, but who had left here for below the day before the woman arrived. She followed him to the Sound today, leaving on the new steamer Victorian.

"One-Eyed Riley," or David Allen, which is his proper name, made big winnings in Dawson prior to his leaving and is said to have slipped away to avoid taking Ollie Darrelle with him. One story is that Allen and Ollie were married the Sunday before he began making winnings and that she is his lawful wife. Allen telegraphed her from Stewart on his way out that he was going and for her to remain in Dawson. Instead of heeding the advice, she at once set about getting ready to follow the recalcitrant man "wid de bum lamp" but he had four days the start of her before she was able to arrange for getting away. She went as one of three passengers on a one-horse sled. Ollie Darrelle, or Mrs. "One-Eyed Riley," came to Dawson as one of John Flynn's gaiety girls and her first appearance was in that cast at the Savoy. She soon severed her connection with the combination, taking offense, it is said, at Flynn, for speaking of her as a totum pole. She continued to stay at the Savoy as a box rustler and married Allen when he had no money and no prospects other than to live on her earnings. Those who know them say that as soon as Dame Fortune began to smile on the one-eyed man he began to extend to his wife the "marble," but she was not to be turned down so easily as he thought. Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned, and the pursuing female will probably persist until her efforts are crowned with success.

New York Anarchists.

New York, Dec. 12, via Skagway, Dec. 19.—Five hundred anarchists attended a meeting held tonight for the purpose of raising money for the family of Bresco, who assassinated King Humbert of Italy. Many hot speeches were made and one, which threatened the life of President McKinley if he attempts to interfere with free speech, was loudly applauded.
