LIES THE WHITEST, LIGHTEST

ROYAI

VEAST CAKE

OVGILLETT COMPANY LIM

EWGILLETT CO. LTD

Has been Canada's favorite yeast for more than forty nough for 5c. to produce 50 large

loaves of fine,

home made bread, Do

close to the dove and almost directly above her, menacing her with his sharp beak and livid claws. Terrified, the poor bird directed its flight toward a clump of oaks, hoping to take refuge toward her. Pierre, his heart oppressed, his hands trembling, longed to give some of his strength to the

was about to seize his victim, a shot was heard. The eagle turned over in the air mortally wounded, and fell to the ground, and the dove, saved from his clutches, disappeared among the terposed in his favor in an undeniable manner. The invisible marksman whose intervention had thus settled the question, had he not been guided to the spot in order to put an end to head.

"Work, that is the true panacea," he lost. I have returned to it, it will save

The sun sank into the sea, red as fire. Pierre rose and returned to the village with a more tranquil heart.

CHAPTER IV.

It was the first Sunday of the Carnival, and the Casino at Nice, splen-didly illuminated, was thrown open for the grand veglione. In the Place

Massena a crowd of curious spectators were watching the masqueraders entering the building, grouped around the burlesque throne on which King Carrival, in his spangled robes, had been sitting solemnly for two days past, the scaptre of Folly in his hand.

The strains of the band filled the air, and the gay measures of waltz and quadrille, drowned by the buzzing of the crowd that ceaselessly surged brough the vast edifice given up to masks and some without (and all vearing dominos, of various colors, passed back and forth in the great hall, with bursts of laughter and live-ly repartee. In the room where the orchestra was stationed, dancing was going on, in the boxes conversation and intrigue. All the lovely and seductive women of Monaco, Nice, and Cannes were here assembled to de-against the wall, Prince Patrizzi stood chatting and watching the coming and going of the dominos as they passed through the hall. With the help of the gay friends who surrounded him, he amused himself in guessing the

A COMPLETE WRECK

From the After Effects of Pneumonia Followed by Diphtheria.

Frequently the after effects of ill-tia, I was take ndown with a sever.

attack of pneumonia. I had sufficient been able to go out when I was at-tacked with dipletheria. In my weak-ened state it took a terrible hold on sup of water would flow back through my nostrils unless they were held closed. My voice aws almost 'mandas ever, much to the surprise of all who knew me, as all thought I could not get better. Since then I have several times taken the Pills whon run down and have always been greatly benefited by them."

bring

y recevered to be around, but had not

It a corner of the room, light the eye.

said.

THIS SCHOOL GIRL HAD BAD FAINTING SPELLS

Was Weak and Run Down, But Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Made Complete Cure.

A GIFT OF

A SOUL

a secret.

The most critical time in a girl's life comes during the school age, when she is impelled by rivalry to put forth her best efforts in studying for examinations. At the time she should have healthful outdoor exercise and abundance of fresh air. cise and abundance of fresh air, 10 keep the blood pure and rich, she is confined by her studies. Is it any wonder that she becomes run down in health and suffers from headaches, indigestion, loss of appetite and spells of weakness or fainting?

The case described in this letter is a good illustration, and you can read here the splendid results of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to help through this critical period.

Mrs. H. Houston, Highland Grove,

"While attending school my darghter became weak and very anch undown. She was subsequently troubled with bad fainting spells, and nothing we tried seemed to do her any good.

We were advised to try Dr. Chase's Limited, Toronto.

"What is his name?"

"Ah," said the doctor, "it is not

"But he lives in the village," replied

look of surprise crossed the doc

A look of surprise crossed the doctor's face and he said quickly:
"He has lived here about two worths, is it not so?"
The traveller, reflecting for a moment, said to himself in a low voice:

"Can it be possible?" Then aloud:
"Do you know even his Christian

"Yes, Monsieur, ne is called Pierre."
"And he has chestnut hair, blue eyes, a blonde mustache, and is of me-

'A blonde mustache? No," said the priest, "but his eyes are blue, and he is not above medium height."

"It is he, it must be he," cried the doctor. "And then there is no one but himself who could paint this Resur-

"You know this young man, then?" said the priest. "Ah, if you would be so good as to inform us—"

"Who he is? I cannot do that, since

I may at least tell you that the artist who has done these paintings for you is one of the most promising of the younger painters of the French school

-But I must see him; where is he?

of my presence here for him."
He took a pencil from his pocket-book, and proceeded to write on the

"Go on," answered the latter.

Then the stranger wrote these words below the "Resurrection" painted by

Pierre:
"Et idem resurrexit Petrus," and book, and proceeded to write on the whitewashed wall, first saying to the

Will you permit me, Monsieur le

"He is away for a few days."
"Away? And we are going to-morw! No matier. I must leave a sign it is his wish to remain unknown.

said the traveler

height,"

quickly.

Cure?

known who the artist is, then."

"I do not know."

the cure, "and-

Nerve Food, and did so with most satisfactory results. I am pleased to tell you that after using five boxes of the Nerve Food she was compl cured and has no return of the fainting spells. This statement is certified to by Mr. Hamilton Houston, Justice of the

The reason Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is so effective in cases of this kind is because of its extraordinary b. de-forming influence. By creating an abundance of rich, red blood it strengthens the action of the heart, revitalizes the exhausted nerves and The appetite is restored, digestion improves, you rest and sleep wei, and the new vigor and energy is feit in every organ of the human body. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing wonders whose for men, women and children, whose systems have become weak and run down. Fifty cents a box, 6 for $2.50, board. While we are here it must be and was proceeding to work, when the cure, pushing open the glass door of the parlor, entered.

"Ah, Monsieur le Cure;" cried Pierre.

To what are we indebted for this

"A message with which I have been Pierre's forehead clouded, and in oice that trembled slightly, he said:

"Let me hear what it is."

"I am at your orders."
He took his hat and went out with

For some time they walked on your painting, and he has assured me that you have enriched our church

Pierre did not answer. He nodded without speaking and hastened his steps as if eager to learn what was with a picture of great value.

intrusted for you.'

"Ah! And by whom?"
"A stranger."

than I could tell you.'

the priest.

"Monsieur le Cure, I thank you for having taken this trouble. What you have told me has a profound interest for me. Au revoir, Monsieur le Cure." And with a slow step and eyes bent upon the ground, he returned to the ouse of Agostino's mother.

On the following day one of the acolytes brought him a letter which had been posted at Ajaccio, hearing this address: this address

'Monsieur Pierre, care of Monsieur le Cure de Torrevecchia."
He opened the letter with emotion.

It contained these lines:
"My Dear Friend:—You are still "My Dear Friend:—You are still among the living; a more agreeable surprise could not have awaited me. It was I who performed the painful task of taking to Beaulieu the note in which you announced your fatal resolution, which happily was not carried out. He to whom you bequeathed your soul, whether by a miracle or through the power of imagination, suddenly felt a renewal of life and is now almost restored to health. But one who is closely connected with him came near losing her life in consequence of the news of your death. In came near losing ner life in consequence of the news of your death. In the depths of your retreat, know that you passed close to happiness without perceiving it, but that it is still in your power to obtain it.

"Your sincere friend, "Davidoff."

Having read the letter, Pierre fold-Having read the letter, Pierre folded it, put it into his pocket and left the house. He walked thoughtfully along the road to Bastia, pausing when he reached the shore. The calm blue sea sparkled in the sunshine, far as the eye could reach. The vessels in the distance, their sails shining in the sunlight, glided along so slowly as to seem almost motionless. The young man sat down on a rock, and, as on the evening when he had contemplated suicide, he fell into a revery. Slowly the image of Jacques rose before him, his face no longer pale and gloomy, the image of Jacques rose before him, his face no longer pale and gloomy, but radiant with health and youth. He walked with buoyant step on the verdant terrace of the house at Beaulieu. All nature had awakened at the balmy breath of spring, and Jacques, liberthe plants and the flowers, seemlike the piants and the flowers, seem-ed animated with new life. Suddenly Juliette appeared beside him, and now it was she who was ill and sad. Under The two travellers then lighted their cigars, entered one carriage, and proceeded on their way.

The next day but one, Pierre reit was she who was ill and sad. Under her beautiful eyes were black rings, her cheeks were hollow, and in her turned from his expedition with the brother-in-law of Agostino, bringing with him a pair of pretty silver earrings for Marietta and a buckle for her mother. He breakfasted early, heart-rending smile there was the heart sweetness of a last farewell.

A shudder passed through Pierre. A shudder passed through Pierre. It seemed to him as if the gaze of the young girl, fixed upon the sea, sought vainly in its blue waters for something that was not there. He saw this girl whose affection, reciprocated for a moment, he had afterward disdained, dying slowly of grief for his loss. He heard a voice murmur beside him: "It is you who are the cause of her tears, of her suffering, of her languor. You have just heard it—she is dying You have just heard it—she is dying because she believes that you are dead You had but to utter a word, and this innocent heart, filled with your image, "If you will accompany me to the church," said the priest, "you will learn it more quickly and more fully would have opened to receive you. You had happiness and peace in grasp, but you flung them recklessly away. Why delay longer in trying to regain them? Will you let her whom you love perish? You have only to go to her and she will revive again. Come, begin life anew. The future is silence. As they were nearing the great square the cure said: "A stranger has been looking at yours, since you are loved."

He heaved a sigh and tears sprang to his eyes—the first he had shed since the tears of rage and shame of which Clemence Villa had been the cause. But he did not long give way to his emotion. He wished to examine his own heart, and judge himself with impartial severity. Was he purified impartial severity, was ne purified and regenerated by this voluntary withdrawal from all he had held dear? If temptation came in his way would he have the strength to resist it? He awaiting him.

He crossed the nave of the church, stopped before his "Resurrection," and with an emotion which he could not conceal read the Latin inscription on the wall: "Et idem resurrexit Petrus.—Davidoff." He heaved a sigh, repeated in a checker. trembled. A pale, dark face with gleaming eyes rose before him. From the wall: "Et dem resurrer at let reDavidoff." He heaved a sigh, repeated in a choking voice, "Davidoff," and then relaysed into silence.
The cure, translating the Latin phrase, said behind him: came a sardonic burst its lips came a sardonic burst of laughter as on the night when he had laughter as on the night when he had resolved to end his life. What was she laughing at, showing her white teeth and the dimples at the corners of her mouth? Was it at him? Was she then so sure of her power to bring " 'And in the same way, Pierre has arisen from the dead.' Then a miracle has been wrought for you? My dear child, we must praise the morey of him to her feet, the day she should take it into her head to do so? then, her slave! He feared so—his weakness had been so great, his follies so disastrous, his so great, his follies so disastrous, his cowardice so complete, his fall so low. At the thought of again coming into the toils of this cruel and heartless woman a cold sweat broke out ipon his forehead and his heart beat with anguish. He fancied if he saw death before him a second time he would again choose it in preference to such humiliation. He dropped his head between his hands dejectedly, and, gazing at the sea which was now and, gasing at the splendors of the sun-set, surrounded by the peace and the grandeur of nature, he fell into a re-

Gradually his thoughts grew clearer, and he, who had not prayed since his childhood, seeing himself so solitary, so sad and so forsaken, raised his eyes to heaven in prayer. He asked nothing for himself. However hard and wretched his own lot might be, he accepted it without a murmur. But and wretched his own lot might be, he accepted it without a murmur. But would be a helpless cripple. Medicine after medicine was used, but did not help me. Then a neighbor advised Dr. Williems' Pluk Pills. I began taking them, but had the utmost difficulty in swallowing them owing to by an occurrence which symbolized in an instant his fears and hopes.

From a point of rock jutting out into he sea at his feet a dove had just lown in terror. An eagle followed lose behind trying to capture be the made desperate efforts. this pure and gentle creature, was she not innocent of blame, and did she not deserve to be spared from suffering.

an instant his fears and hopes.

From a point of rock jutting out into the sea at his feet a dove had just flown in terror. An eagle followed close behind trying to capture her. She made desperate efforts to escape, but the bird of prey gained upon her as ever, much to the surprise of all but the bird of prey gained upon her steadily, uttering a shrill cry at every stroke of his powerful wings. Pierre, steadily, uttering a shrill cry at every stroke of his powerful wings. Pierre, struck by the sight, said to himself, "Let this be a sign. If the eagle cap-tures his prey, all is over with Juliette If the dove succeeds in escaping, then I may hope to appear before her again, worthy of happi-

From the moment in which he thus succinctly formulated the problem of his destiny Pierre, in breathless suspense, followed with his eyes the conflict between the two birds. The eagle bad lowered his flight, and was now liams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

in the gayeties of the night under cover of their masks. He had already succeeded in guessing several, when suddenly he uttered an exclamation of he cried It was indeed Jacques, animated and erect, his complexion fresh, his eyes clear. His blue domino floated beaind him, giving him the air of a gallant cavalier of the Renaissance ame forward to meet them half-way, his hand extended, smiling and happy, as he had been before his illness; haggard and weary looking, as he was on the evening, some months before, on which Dr. Davidoff had related his Triumphant, almost insoient, he seem ed in the splendor of his youth health so miraculously regained.

Why, there is Jacques de Vignes!

"You are entirely recovered, Jacques?" asked the Prince. "Entirely." said the young man, "as

"All honor be to the climate that has restored you to yourself and us, for you were a jolly fellow, and you will be one again."

The young man leaned against the column beside Patrizzi, and letting his column beside Patrizzi, and letting his eyes wander over the motley crowd, that streamed by noisily,—
"And I enjoy life, my dear Prince," he said. With ardor, "like a man who knows what it is to have almost lost there. But her ferocious enemy, divin-ing her intention, hastened his flight he saw the moment approach it. You have never been seriously ill; ch she must succumb to her you do not know the melancholy lanin which she must succumb to her pursuer. Just as the rapacious bird guor that takes possession of the spirit as the strength of the body decreases. It seems as if a black veil covered all nature, so sombre and desolate does everything appear. The moments in which one might be happy are poisoned by the thought that they may perhaps be the last we shall enjoy, and the more beautiful and peaceful one's Pierre uttered a cry of joy. The response to his question had been decisive and immediate. Destiny had insurroundings are the more does one execrate them. You may believe what execrate them. You may believe what I say for I have experienced it. There can be nothing more cruel or more melancholy. So that now, after the hell through which I have passed, I am in paradise. Everything pleases, captivates, enchants me. I have learned the value of happiness, and I know how to enjoy it. The sup seems to me Pierre's anguish? But by a sudden re-turn of his former mocking humor he began to laugh at the thought that a how to enjoy it. The sun seems to me shot fired at a bird should thus be the arbiter of his fate. He shook his milder, the flowers more fragiant, the women more charming than before. I was on the brink of the grave, and thence springs my love for "The day I abandoned it, I was

"That's right," said Patrizzi; "it is pleasan! to hear you. But your recovery 's truly miraculous. Nov that I think of it-what wonderful story is that we heard about it? Did ome one make you a precent new scul? Davidoff pretends that it is rot you who are alive, but your friend Laurier, and he adds that you are very lucky in the change, for Pierre was of the stuff that centenarians are made of."

The prince gave a burst of laughter which made Jacques turn pale, and called the moisture to his brow.

"I beg of you," said the young man, "not to speak of that again; it is very "not to speak of that again; it is very painful to me. Laurier was the friend of my childhood, and his loss will be long and deeply felt by me. If the case had been reversed and it were I who had given my life to him, the world would have gained by the change, for Pierre was an artist of indubitable genius, and I shall never be worth anything."

As he uttered these words, feverishly and in a trembling voice, Jacques bursts from time to time.

From the outside the scene looked like a gay parterre. A crowd of ele-gantly dressed figures, some with ly and in a trembling voice, Jacques' pallor increased. His gaze was clouded, and his features suddenly seemed to contract, giving greater prominence to the cheek-bones and the teeth.

He was seized with a sort of trembling as if he had a fever. He bit his which had become livid, and tried to smile. But for a moment, as if in a vision of death, he presented to his friends, instead of his former healthy and happy look, the ghastly appearance of a dying man.

A moment later the blood returned to his cheeks, his look brightened, and Jacques was once more what he had been before, brilliant and haughty. He seemed to wish to shake off a painful impression, and taking a turn in the room he cried, with a gaiety that was somewhat forced:

"What a lovely evening, made in-deed for pleasure! In the street all is noise and gaiety, and here every-

"Lovely and seductive! Let us see if your acts will accord with your ness are more serious than the original trouble. This was the case with Mrs. James B. Moir, Mutana, Sask. Mrs. Moir says: "Some years ago, while we were still living in Nova Scotian I was take released.

words." Through her mask, the domino fixed upon Jacques a brilliant glance. upon Jacques a brilliant giance. The young man felt a supple arm ship through his own, and he asked gaily: "Are you in the humor for an adventure? Well, then, capture me and will be sour slave; the one no doubt will be as easy as the other."

The domino gave him a slight tap on the cheek with her fan and an-

"I forgive you the impertinence for the sake of the compliment."

Jacques looked at his friends with a malicious smile, and slipped through the crowd with his conquest leaning

Judge Hanington, when leader of the opposition in the New Brunswick Legislature, representing the County of Westmoreland, was oncy delivering a vigorious address in the Gouse against some measure of the government, then led by Mr. Blair.

"Oh, that my constituents in Westmoreland could her me now," exclimed the opposition leader, in violent tones. Mr. Blair motioned to an attendant.

"Open the windows," he said—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I understand that prohibition is making great headway in Crimson Gulch," said the stranger, "Yes," an-swered Piute Pete; "nearly everybody For the after effects of fevers and all wasting diseases there is no medi-cine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink swered Pills. They enrich the blood, build up in the place has signed the pledge. You the nerves, restore the appetite and see, we had a powerful warnin. When Three Finger Sam got so nervous he back complete health and shot at three men an' missed every strength. Sold by all medicine deal-shot at three men an missed every ers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six one of them, we thought it was time hoxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Wil- to do something radical."—Washington Star.

First Long Step Towards Recovery

IS TO FIND IF YOUR SYMPTOMS ARE OF KIDNEY DISEASE.

ent County Lady Did This-Then She Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Was Cured.

Upper Bouctouche, Kent Co., N. B., May 31st.—(Special)—Miss Genevieve Bastarache, an estimable tady, living near here, is telling her friends of the enefit she has received from Dodd' Kidney Pills.
"I am indeed happy to be able to state that I have been cured of Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills," Miss Bastarache says in an interview. "I was often so feeble I could not My sleep was broken and un-ning. I had headaches and refreshing. cramps in the muscles.

"I suffered from Rheumatism and Backache and was always tired and

"I was in this miserable condition when I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I had not taken two boxes till I felt better and three boxes cured

Miss Bastarache made a long step towards recovery when she discovered that her symptoms were of Kidney Disease. She then had only to use the old reliable Kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, to find a cure. She did it and was cured. Are your symptoms those of K-dney Disease?

Carbonate of soda will remove the most obstinate of mud stains. Rub off with a cloth or flannel dipped in the scda, then press well on the wrong side of the material with a warm iron.

To clean a vinegar cruet put a teaspoonful of lye in it and then fill it with water. Let it remain in it for a few days, and then rinse the cruet out thoroughly. It will be perfectly clean.

Putting a coat of varnish on the inoleum yearly will make it last for years and look bright and new. To remove a fresh ink stain, saturate it with kerosene oil and let it remain for 20 minutes, then wash out.

Liquid bluing, which never settles, made by dissolving one ounce of blue and one-half ounce ovalic acid in a quart of cold water. Be careful of the acid-it is deadly poi-

To remove black grease rub patientwith ether. It will not leave a ring, like gasoline, and will remove every trace of the stain.

A silver spoon in a glass will tem-per it so that hot liquids may be turned in without danger of breaking the

When boiling clothes place an peeled lemon cut in slices in the book with the clothes to boil. This will remove the stains and make the clothes beautifully white.

beautifully white.

A good way to cook green peas is to add a lettuce leaf and a teaspoonful of sugar when putting on to boil. They will retain their color and have a much better flavor. If a cake sticks to the pan, turn the pan upside down and lay on the bot-tom of it a cloth wet with cold water. After about five minutes the cake can usually be removed quite easily.

If the clothes are yellow, a tablesponful of peroxide of hydrogen put in the water in which they are soaked will bleach them.

Brown sugar frosting which will not crack is made of one tablespoonful vinegar, brown sugar enough to mix and the beaten white of half an egg. Beat all well together and add sugar thing is lovely and seductive."

As he ceased speaking, a white domino, emerging from a group, approached him, and said in a disguised better flavor.

THE "MADE-'N-CANADA" SAFETY STEERING DEVICE

W. L. McCracken, of Winnipeg, ratentee of the "Made-in-Canada" Salety steering device for Ford cars, will occupy a very lasting place with the legions of Ford car owners all over Canada. His device places the Ford car on a par with all other cars as far as the steering is concerned. The McCracken device does away with the nerve racking necessity of having to grip the wheel firmly. This has, in a large measure, taken away the pleasures of motoring in a Ford car. the device attached to a car, the driver on his arm.
"Well, Patrizzi, you who have can sit back comfortably and enjoy to guessed the names of so many women, tell us that of the woman who has tell us that of the woman who has can sit back comfortably and enjoy to casily and quickly attached, and weighs but five pounds. It is well and strongly built, and is thoroughly guaranteed. The Ford car has always been a popular car, and the "made-in-Canada" device has added immeasurably to the salue of this car.

Tests made in Winnipeg, under almost impossible conditions, proved Leyend any doubt that the McCracken device is one of the great boons of the age. The demand for the device in Western Canada has been enormous, and is growing constantly. Canada is now being taken up, and Ford owners should investigate for themselves the splendid werth of this device.

This is the only steering device made in Canada, and this in itself is a big incentive for Canadians to get hold of an invention purely Canadian.

"What is in the mail from daughter?" asked mother eagerly, "A thousand kisses," answered father, grimly, and 16 handkerchiefs, two waists and four batches of ribbons for you to wash and mend."—Kansas City Jour

"Et idem resurrext Petrus, and underneath, "Davidoff." Then turning to the cure: "When he returns," he said, "show him these words. He will know what they mean." Pierre passed his hand over his He then took leave of the forehead, smiled at the priest, who regarded him with astonishment, and in a grave voice said:

"Yes, a miracle has been wrought for me and God be praised for it." forehead, smiled at the returning to the inn, said to his com-"My dear count, you made a mistake in not coming out with me; you have He relapsed once more into silent meditation as if he were recalling the missed something very curious." "I will tell you when we are on past. Then he said softly: Perfect Heat For Any Kind of Cooking STRIKE a match—in less than a minute the NEW PERFECTION Oil Cookstove is giving full, easily regulated heat for any kind of cooking. The NEW PERFECTION gives you, too, a cool, comfortable kitchen. No smoke, no odor, to coal, ashes or kindlings. Let your hardware dealer show you the NEW PERFECTION today, in the 1, 2, 3 and 4 burner sizes. If he can't supply you, write us direct. "NOW SERVING ROYALITE OIL GIVES PERFECTION OIL COOK STEVES THE IMPERIAL OIL COMPANY Limited ALL CITIES BRANCHES IN Canada