POLITICAL.

Now issues to the people to be decided at the approaching election. Confederation and its attendant questions which agitated the country for several years are settled and disposed of for the present, and interests of an entirely different character have arisen to divide the people of this County. The question now before the people is, "Shall we have free, unsectarian schools?"

The recent reelection of Mr. D. L. Hamington was claimed by the Free-men and the friends of unsectarian education as a test of the feeling of this County in regard to free, unsectarian schools, and a triumph of separate school principles. It was on the other hand claimed that Mr. Hamington's election was due to his political influence and the sympathy excited for him in consequence of being deprived of his seat. No one who is acquainted with Westmorland politics will deny that the question "Shall we have free, unsectarian schools?" has never before been the issue at the hustings; and that Mr. Hamington's election had nothing whatever to do with schools.

Whoever is now elected will be called upon to decide at the next legislative session, shall we have free, unsectarian schools? The Montreal Advertiser meeting this issue, says: "Hear then the voice of Jesus Christ speaking by his representative on earth—Whoever does not obey the Church is unworthy to be called its child. With the Church rests the responsibility to teach with the faithful the obligation to obey. It is only on these conditions the reign of God will be perpetuated on the earth."

It is true the School Bill passed at last session, but a powerful opposition is now organizing and will be arrayed against it at the next session of the Legislature.

The election card of Mr. John A. Humphrey appears in today's issue. For many reasons we are pleased at Mr. Humphrey's candidature. As a resident of the Western parishes, which are justly entitled to a member, he can appeal to the Eastern parishes for support. He will make a worthy representative of the hitherto and agricultural interests, which, important as they are, have been heretofore vigorously excluded from representation. Better than this however, Mr. Humphrey possesses strong common sense. In the transaction of public business he would bring to bear all the ability and experience of a first class business man. A point in his favor too is that he is not a professional man. There would be no occasion for him to occupy the time of the House with long-winded special pleadings to the neglect of public business; he has no theories to ventilate, and at present no political axe to grind. He is up to the hilt in place and power. He has no personal grievance to hash and rehash to the disgust of the country. So far Mr. Humphrey would make a very good representative. But the merits of respective men, or the claims of class or locality sink into insignificance beside the towering proportions of the one question now before the people of this County: "Shall we have free, unsectarian schools?" Before Mr. Humphrey claims the support of the English portion of this County, let him enunciate his principles on this question. No elector who has any intelligent appreciation of the political situation will give a vote to Mr. Humphrey or any other candidate before he declares himself with reference to the School Law.

Donation.

Rev. Thomas Todd of this place was the recipient of a donation of some $70 from his numerous friends of the First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening last. After a splendid tea had been disposed of, Edward Anderson, Esq. was called to the chair, and Deacon John E. Cahill delivered an eloquent prescriptive address, in which he referred to the strong attachment existing between the shepherd and his flock, in this case extending over a period of eleven years. Rev. Mr. Todd feelingly replied, that as this offering formed no part of his salary, and as the church had recently been put to great expense, he considered it very generous. Addresses were delivered by Messrs. Shaw, Jones, Murphy, Pickles, and S. F. Black, Esq., and vocal and instrumental music enlivened the evening. It must be gratifying to Mr. Todd to receive these repeated proofs of the affection of his people.

The Westmorland Circuit Court met on Tuesday, Hon. Judge Watson presiding. There were no criminal cases and the following is the civil docket:

Assassination of James Fiske, Jr.

This remarkable man with a wonderful career, was assassinated at the Grand Central Hotel, New York, on Saturday afternoon, by Edward S. Stokes. It is known to our readers that a law suit arising out of Fiske's relations with a Miss Mansfield, has been proceeding in the New York Courts for some time. It was stated in the telegrams the other day that the affair had been compromised by Fisk paying Miss Mansfield a sum of some $60,000.

This report, however, does not appear to have been correct. On Saturday, Stokes, who, it appears was a main witness on Miss Mansfield's behalf, was on the witness stand, and was submitted to a severe cross-examination, in which he was made to appear in a most unfavorable light. This exposure led him to such an extent that he declared publicly that he would not wait the course of the law, but would take it into his own hands; and he carried out his threat with great coolness and determination. Hearing that Fisk was in the city, he went to the Grand Central Hotel at a certain hour in the afternoon, he drove to that house and stationed himself at the head of a flight of stairs up which he knew his victim would have to go. Fisk arrived and unsuspectingly commenced to ascend the stairs, when Stokes fired three shots from a revolver at him in rapid succession, the last one doing the mischief. Stokes was arrested, however, and taken to the Tombs, where, by legal advice, he refused to answer any questions. He states that the deed was done in a moment of frenzy. The wounded man was at once attended to, but no fatal result was anticipated, but gradually the patient became feverish, and on Sunday morning died. His wife arrived from Boston before he died, and was in great distress over the occurrence.

Fisk came to the surface through the late American war. Beginning life as a pedlar he entered the dry goods business, and was at one time a partner in the house of Jordan, Marsh & Co., Boston. He had some fat contracts during the war, went to New York, became a gold speculator, a speculator in railway stock, and the "leading man in Erie," a great steamboat animal. Colonel of the famous Ninth Regiment, owner of an Opera House, and we scarcely know what else. Every thing he touched seemed to turn into gold, but his life has been harassed by lawsuits, injunctions, and every other legal appliance, inventing to make him miserable, arising out of the unscrupulous way in which he carried on business. Although the possessor of millions, and often triumphing over his opponents, he has ended his career most wretchedly—not because he was shot, but because of the reasons that prompted the shooting, a low quarrel between one of his putters and himself, that had its origin in a dispute about a scandalous woman.

A Perth man was attacked and knocked down by a wild steer, which attempted to pin him to the ground. Luckily, the animal's horns passed between the man's body and arms. Possessing great muscular power the man seized the horns and with all his force twisted the steer's neck and threw him. He then jumped up and ran, but was negligent, as the steer was infuriated, and the next morning just where he was thrown, his neck having been broken.

Advices from South America state that the earthquake at the town of Guan last night nine hours with forty different shocks. Streets were split open and every house was flung into ruins. The inhabitants all fled to camps outside the town. Only one death occurred. The earthquake was felt throughout the Province of Jaive and a volcano burst forth, leading to the belief that there was further subterranean movements along the line of the Andes.
