Look. Read. Realize!

We cater to the men's trade, and no other. If you were sick you wouldn't call to see a Tailor, or a Blacksmith, about the condition of your health. Of course not; you would call to see a Doctor.

If you wanted a Suit or an Overcoat would you go to see a Doctor, or a Shoemaker? Not at all. You would go to see a First Class Tailor.

WELL, there's where we shine!!!
We study the business. We know what suits a young man we know what suits a middle-aged man, and we know what suits the old gentleman—both in goods and in style. It does not make any difference whether you want your clothes Ready-to-Wear, or Made-to-Order. We are equally in a position to suit you. We do not let a suit or overcoat leave our establishment until it suits and fits the man who is buying. Our prices are always right when you take the quality into consideration.

Do not forget that we are sole agents for the famous W H Leishman & Co., Wholesale Custom Tailors. We have an elegant stock of Overcoats to show you at the present time.

Overcoats, Made-to-Order-from....$30.00 to $48.00
Overcoats, Ready-to-Wear.....$15.00 to $36.00

Success Is a Habit

Our habits make us. We are creatures of habit. Whether we are a success or a failure is a question of how we do things without thinking. To Save is the only way to success.

Gloves

We have just the kind of Gloves you need, lined and unlined. Also Wool Gloves for this time of year. Suedes and Tans—both combination. Price.....$1.00 to $4.00

The Governor-General's Speech

Address in Reply Moved by Mr. James McIsaac.

(Hansard, Feb. 15, 1921.
Mr. JAMES McISAAC (King, P. E. I.) moved:

That an address be presented to His Excellency the Governor-General, offering the humble thanks of this House to His Excellency for the gracious speech which he has just been pleased to make to both Houses of Parliament.

He said: Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the people of King's, I sincerely thank the Prime Minister for selecting their representative to move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. Highly as I appreciate the honor thus conferred, I am fully conscious of the importance and responsibility of the task, and I assure you, Mr. Speaker, that I approach it with considerable diffidence and some trepidation of heart. I realize that the mover of the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the parliamentary session, from one year to another, occupies a unique position; he enjoys much freedom in blazing his own trail and developing, in his own way, the theme of his discourse, and under your wise guidance is, to a very great degree, immune from the danger of transgressing the ordinary rules of Parliamentary debate. He is at liberty indeed to "pursue things unattempted yet in prose or rhyme." But this very freedom, this immunity, may constitute his difficulty and his danger. He may, perhaps, incline to too great reticence on the one hand or too great extravagance on the other. It is, therefore, the part of wisdom to adopt a middle course, for, as it is very concisely expressed in the Latin tongue, "medio tutissimus ibis."

Mr. Speaker, before referring to any of the important matters contained in the Speech from the Throne, I desire to tender my cordial congratulations to the right honourable leader of the House on his elevation to the important, exalted and honorable position of leader of the Government, and Prime Minister of the nation. The office of Prime Minister of Canada at any time requires talents and statesmanship of the very highest order; but at the present time, when so many onerous, difficult and intricate public questions present themselves, the need for intellectuality, wisdom and prudence is accentuated. These qualities, I believe, our Prime Minister amply possesses. In this connection I cannot refrain from giving expression to a thought that presses upon mind, I wish to pay my profound tribute of respect and admiration for the right hon. gentleman (Sir Robert Borden) who led the Government of Canada safely and well through the dark and never-to-be forgotten days of the world's tragedy, and who for our sakes, by his devotion to duty and self sacrifice for the exaltation of his country, has become a casualty of the war.

In the Speech from the Throne it is stated:—

On your return to your Parliamentary duties I am glad to be able to congratulate you on the relative prosperity of the country and its comparative freedom from the feeling of unrest which has agitated countries not so fortunately situated. Following the conditions of expansion due to the war, a period of contraction was inevitable. Restriction of credit involving a certain limitation of production and business has been universal, but this Dominion has been less affected than other countries, and a feeling of confidence prevails. A general reduction of the cost of living has set in, and the country, save in certain limited areas, has been blessed with a bountiful harvest.

But, Mr. Speaker, what Canada has accomplished in the period following the war up to the present is in a sense not less remarkable than her marvelous achievements during that titanic struggle. By reason of the Government's wise and prudent financial management during the war period, as well as by reason of increased production and rising war prices, the finances of the country were greatly augmented, and as a consequence Canada emerged from the war in an exceedingly strong position industrially and financially. Our bank deposits had increased enormously, and by far the greater part of our loans was held by our own people, whose savings they represented. But scarcely had the armistice been signed when new and onerous obligations confronted the Government. The problems of demobilization, reconstruction and rehabilitation generally had to be grappled with and solved. Industries in many instances had become dislocated, and in not a few cases the arteries of commerce had been destroyed or seriously impaired. All these problems, and many more, confronted the Government. Enormous sums of money had to be found to meet the interest on the war debt, for pensions to the wounded and maimed returned soldiers, and for the dependents of those who fell in the country's cause. These numerous and perplexing problems required the immediate attention of the ministry and had to be dealt with concurrently with the ordinary business of government. An era of extravagance and abnormality had set in, and a thousand and one circumstances intervened to render still more numerous the conduct of public business. When we bear these facts in mind, it is a source of extreme satisfaction to know that Canada has been able to be more generous in her military pensions than any other country in the world. She has met all her war obligations generously and promptly, and in that respect stands today in an enviable position as compared with any of the allied or associate nations. Her trade, manufactures and banking business have all been splendidly sustained. The assets of Canadian banks amount to more than two-and-a-half billion dollars, and our national wealth per capita, based on bank figures, is $2,500, as compared with $2,400 in the United States. Canadians have a per capita investment in Victory Bonds of $86, while the investment in Liberty Bonds in the United States is only $65.80 per capita. Canada leads the world in her per capita production of food material, and we still have 441 million acres of untilled arable land. Canada's foreign trade amounts to about $300 per head of population, whereas the per capita proportion of the foreign trade of the United States is only $87.

Canada does more business per capita than any other country in the world, and was the only country that maintained uninterrupted transcontinental transportation during the war. She has her own steamships on all trade routes of the seas. According to population she leads all countries in transportation facilities, having one mile of railway for every two hundred and eighteen persons.
