Mr. John LeDrew, of the Battery, had 66 qts. of fish in his trap yesterday and it was brought in to his room in skiffs. John Baird, in Jobs South Side trap, had 45 qts. On Regatta Day last year this trap broke all records and landed 120 qts. dry. Mr. Michael Lane, who has a freighter running to Petty Harbor, says that fish were fairly plentiful there before the storm, but it is since very scarce. There are 12 traps out there but very little has been done by them. St. John's hook and line men are doing good work. The "bunnies" taking boat loads the past couple of days. Her Future Husband.

Three young ladies in a gateway on Queen's Road last night used the egg to find out their future husbands. A party of young men returning from a club room at 11 o'clock noticed them standing there like the statue in Pygmalion. They were the embodiment of suppressed excitement. Finally as the men passed along the handsome of the young ladies stepped forth on the street and hurrying after the gentlemen said to one of them who was nearest the fence—Mr. Paul Dombey. "Oh, sir, will you please tell me your name? You have walked over my egg." Paul was taken aback and non-plussed for the time being, but when his friend, James Grant, whose wife tried the egg experiment with success 20 years ago, interfered, the mystery was unraveled. The young lady in breathless excitement also chimed in and said, "Oh, sir, your initials are those of my future husband." When told that they were P. D. (Paul Dombey) the lady ran back to her companions well pleased. One man amongst four who were present kept quiet all this time till the whole business was explained to him and then he said, "Aren't girls queer?"

MUNICIPAL ELECTION

Friends and Fellow-Citizens,—I wish through the columns of this paper to publicly offer you my sincere thanks for the kind assurance of your support, and the splendid reception with which you honoured me throughout the campaign. I might not be able, in the short time now at my disposal, to personally interview every elector; any of you upon whom I have not, or may not be able to call, will please not look upon my failure to do so as a neglect on my part. I have made an honest effort to see you all, and I feel certain that you will, with that kindness of heart and generosity for which you are noted, "accept the will for the deed."

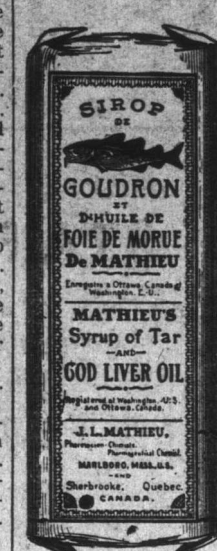

I advocate, and if elected will make every effort to carry into effect, many reforms in the different departments of the Municipal Council, from a Sanitary, Hygienic and Financial point of view. Amongst these I might only mention the following, which I consider the most important to the Public Health and the general improvement of the city.

- 1st—The demolition of the present Sanitary Stables, and erection of a more up-to-date structure on a site outside the city limits; the present site to be leased or sold. The rental or sale of same would almost, if not entirely, cover cost of new building.
- 2nd—The installation of an incinerator or crematory in the new stables for the disposal of night soil and garbage.
- 3rd—Light, Water and Sewerage extension to all streets now without those conveniences.
- 4th—Substitution of concrete or other suitable and sanitary drains, for the old germ-laden cobble stone ones.
- 5th—Closer and more frequent attention to Gullies and Catch-pits.
- 6th—Economic expenditure of the public monies.
- 7th—Re-arrangement of taxation upon a simple and more equitable basis.
- 8th—A more satisfactory method of sprinkling streets and flushing Trains.
- 9th—Dredging the Public Coves.
- 10th—Conduct the business of the Council on strictly commercial lines.
- 11th—To make any other improvements necessary to the good health and comfort of the citizens which might be suggested from time to time, consistent with the means at the Council's disposal, keeping in view the fact that the burden of taxation MUST NOT BE INCREASED.
- 12th—Equal rights for all; special favours to none.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES J. CHANNING.

TEMPERANCE ADDRESS.

On Thursday evening, 7.45, Rev. Edwin Moore and Rev. Mr. Aiken assisted the rostrum of Carbonar Church to deliver speeches in the interests of Temperance and Moral Reform. Rev. Mr. Moore in his opening remarks declared that because the liquor question had been so long before the public it was time to have the verdict from the public. The traffic had no right to be licensed, and no amount of argument to the contrary carried any conviction in the face of facts and circumstances, and the statement of this speaker was this viz., that the State should not receive revenue at the expense of the public good. The speaker outlined the various theories set forth by the defenders of the traffic, and in his confutation gave some concrete illustrations of the fallacies in the argument. His last appeal was to the intelligence of the people, and closed by saying that it was high time that the general conscience be appealed to and that to a man the country should use, while the death knell of temperance tyranny was being sounded. Rev. Mr. Aiken followed and on rising declared his admiration for the men who lived by the sea shore. During his remarks he said:—(1) That a great wave of temperance was being produced; (2) That decent people would encourage temperance. Leading men as an example of this were quoted:—President Taft, of the U. S. A., became a total abstainer on his election to the Presidential honor; and so Emperor William, Rudyard Kipling, Admiral Bessford and General Grant are concrete illustrations of this position. The Nations would encourage temperance; the U. S. A. were shutting up the saloons at the rate of 40 per day. We must face the crisis, said the speaker, from the shadow of Calvary. The cross stands for that which is outwardly repugnant but inwardly glorious. The saloon stands for that which is outwardly glorious but inwardly repugnant. There is an awful charge to lay at the door of the saloon; the rum-seller gets from life exactly what he is putting into it, and to be consistent ought to contribute of his own self and happiness to the continuity of the bar-room. Genius, cried the man from the pulpit, has again and again been dragged from its loftiness of purpose and power to degradation and contempt. The bar-room reduces the legitimate business of a place in the city as well as in the country, and the country can't be dry until the city is dry, and what was more the city was saved by the country. In closing, after speaking about how the saloon dominates the city, Mr. Aiken

Shall Man Fear Man.

The world admires a fearless man, if his fearlessness is of the kind that stands for right; not the fearlessness of a Jesse James. He must not be a man of lawlessness and infamy, but fearless as David was, when he said "what can man do unto me?" Certainly it speaks of men who have some character, some principle—who are not altogether shameless. If you have your mind made up to get new furniture or new clothing, you needn't fear for the opinion of other men. Just go to B. FRIEDMAN and get your clothing, Dry Goods and Furniture for cash or credit. B. FRIEDMAN, 301 Water Street, (Water Side), P. O. Box 5; Phone 546. Mail orders carefully attended to.
