Holy Name Society.

The monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society was held yesterday afternoon. Quite a large gathering of members attended. Benediction was imparted by the Spiritual Director, Rev. Fr. Sheehan. The singing of the "O Salutaris" and the "Tantum Ergo" was splendidly rendered by the young members of the Society, under the guardianship of Mr. John Slattery, the new organist. Eighteen new members were professed into the Society, after which all repaired to their beautiful meeting room. Here they were addressed by their Spiritual Director, who first of all congratulated them on the splendid appearance of their meeting room. He also thanked the Restoration Committee for whose untiring efforts can be attributed the great success attained. Although our ranks are swelling, each month by numbers of new members joining, still it is the wish of the Spiritual Director and the Society to see old members return to its ranks. Three of our worthy members have gone from our ranks during the past month to study for the priesthood, and may we not still look forward for others soon to follow? They were indeed living examples and had all the qualities that go to make a true born Catholic. Although they are separated from us, their memory will live in our hearts, and it is the earnest wish of the Society and we pray fervently to God to strengthen their vocation and send them safely back again to our little Island Home.

Funeral of Sir James S. Winter.

The State funeral which had been arranged for Saturday afternoon was largely attended. Besides the sons, brothers and other relatives of the deceased, there were present His Honor the Administration, Capt. Woolcombe, representing the Governor, members of the Executive Council and of the Legislature, members of the Law Society, deputations from the Loyal Orange Association, and from the four city brigades, a squad from the Brilliant and others from the Police and Fire Department, and a large number of the general public. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Mr. Andrew "Carroll". The introductory part of the funeral service was recited by the Rev. G. R. Godden, M. A., and the lesson was read by His Lordship the Bishop. The service in Church closed by the rendering of the Dead March in Saul played by Organist Sterling. The rites at the graveside were conducted by the Bishop and the Rector.

Fisheries Syndicate.

The Canadian Gazette, of a recent date, contains the following:—"The Newfoundland Fisheries Development Syndicate, Limited," was registered on Sept. 13, with a capital of £250,000 in £1 shares, to develop the fisheries of Newfoundland, to open up trade connections with the Eastern and Western Continents, to make provision for a direct supply of fish to Canada and the United States of America, to open up trade centres at Bay of Islands on the Western Coast and Harbor Grace on the Eastern Coast of Newfoundland, to acquire certain concessions, rights and privileges granted by W. T. Petrie, J. Lomax, and C. A. Swift. Offices: 19 and 21 Queen Victoria Street, E.C.

ACTED THE CANNIBAL.—Two outport men who were drunk on Baile Johnston's south side wharf Saturday afternoon had a set to, during which one of them took the other's hand in his mouth and bit it badly, tearing off the nails of two of the fingers.

Wedding Bells.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of England Cathedral on Saturday morning, when Miss Olivia B. Wills (Lilla), daughter of R. F. Wills, Esq., was wed to the altar by Eli M. Parsons, of Bay Roberts. The bride, who looked pretty in a dress of cream voile, trimmed with all-over lace and insertion, with hat to match, was given away by her father. She was attended by her sister, Miss Daisy Wills, and her cousin, Miss Cora Harvey, who were gowned in dresses of white with hats to match. The groom was supported by Mr. Walter Williams. The ceremony was performed by the Lord Bishop of Newfoundland. After the nuptial knot had been tied the happy couple drove to the residence of the bride's parents, Wood Street, where breakfast was partaken of. The happy pair then drove to the station to join the quarter to nine train for Bay Roberts where the honeymoon will be spent. After this they will proceed to their future home, Kelligrews. The bride and groom were the recipients of many costly and useful presents, including several cheques. That the bride and groom may spend many years of happiness is the wish of their many friends.

An English Chemist Has Discovered How to Grow Hair.

In England the ladies have entirely abandoned wearing rats which is due entirely to this new discovery. It has been proven that Henna leaves contain the ingredients that will positively grow hair. That they contain this long-sought-for article is proven every day. The Americans are now placing on the market a preparation containing the extract from Henna leaves, which is having a phenomenal sale. This preparation is called SALVIA. It is being sold with a guarantee to cure Dandruff and to grow hair in abundance. Being daintily perfumed SALVIA makes a most pleasant hair dressing. McDermid & Co., your druggist, is the first to import this preparation into St. John's and a large, generous bottle can be purchased for 50c.

Industrial Council Appointed.

London, Oct. 11.—For the purpose of settling industrial disputes the government has established an industrial council, consisting of the leading representatives of the employers and the working men, under the chairmanship of Sir George Ranken Askwith, Controller General of the Commercial Labor and Statistical Departments of the board of trade. The council is not invested with compulsory powers. According to the original plan of Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, the council was to be composed of ten leading employers and ten prominent labor representatives. These would form a panel from which an equal number on both sides would be selected to deal with any dispute arising before work was actually stopped. The object of the council is to ensure permanent peace in the cotton trade.

FARM NOTES

Not Written for Farmers
By H. L. RANN.

It is all right to rapscallion about the man who whistles while he works, but nothing will make a milch cow hold up her morning offering quicker than a loose-slipped hired man who lays his profile against her ribs and whistles in four different keys at the same time, while filling a twelve-quart pail with seafoam. When a cow becomes nervous and unstrung over poetry and song, her lactical mechanism is about as useful as sweet milk at an Elks' convention. If we had a hired man who insisted on whistling "Just Before the Battle, Mother," in the ear of a sensitive heifer which is trying to get rid of her surplus product, we would can him before he infected the entire herd with hysterics.

We have often wondered why the hoot owl is so unpopular a member of society. The voice of the male owl is fully as melodious as that of the average tenor, and his repertoire is just about as extensive. We have seen men try to insert a 44-calibre bullet in the lung of a tenebrous owl simply because that bird toots in and inhales angleworms, but these same men will turn around and take a drag from an Egyptian cigarette with a flavor which would turn the stomach of an Angora goat. Life is full of inconsistencies.

The Holstein calf may be all right as an article of virtue, but as a bread winner he is a more dismal failure than string beans on the pastry course. The Holstein inherits a love for sleep and ground feed, and it is a toss up which one he would rather have. You can put a calf of this species in the hammock and rock him to sleep with a burst of song, and unless you cut the rope or ring the dinner bell he will catenate to his humble pallet until his corpulence congregate. When it comes to indulgence, the offspring of a Holstein heifer makes the Brotherhood of Hobos look busier than a small boy with the shingles. More Holstein calves come to a violent death at the hands of red automobiles and irate manure spreaders than all other beasts of the field combined, unless it is the Buff Cochon roster, which will stand up in the road and crow in the face of a seven-passenger touring car. The only way to get any action out of the Holstein is to saunter up behind him when he is wrapped in thought and jar him out of his trance with a four-tined fork.

Very Polite.

Not long ago, in a certain Varsity city, a lady was crossing a street when she saw a bicyclist approaching. She stopped, then dodged backwards, and as the rider had swerved in order to pass behind her there was a collision, and both had a fall, though neither was much damaged. "If you hadn't wobbled, sir," said the lady angrily, as he helped her to rise. "This wouldn't have happened." "Neither would it have happened, madam," he replied. "If you hadn't wobbled, or if you had wobbled in a contrary direction from my wobble. It was our concurrent and synchronous wobbling, so to speak, that caused it."

Then the cyclist doffed his cap, mounted his bike, and wobbled on. Const. Rodgers, who suffers from loss of voice and has been 8 months in Hospital, was out and on Water Street Saturday evening and night. He is much improved, but went in again to-day to receive further treatment.

The Trinity Fatality

On Wednesday last we reported briefly the fatality which ended in the death of Stephen Bartlett at Trinity. Since then particulars have arrived. The schooner on which he was working had been fishing on the French Shore. In the storm of Tuesday week the schooner could not make Trinity harbor and she ran up the bay until breakers were sighted. Then both anchors were dropped and the schooner tumbled round and beat on the breakers. The crew soon afterwards found the water over the balustrade and with pumps and buckets they kept her clear. Then they hoisted her head sails and slipped her two anchors. The wind chopping, they made for Trinity harbor and beached her. The Trinity Mutual Insurance Company decided on repairs, and to make them a skiff filled with ballast was employed to throw the schooner out, ropes were passed under her, to which purchases were attached and also to the mastsheads. Bartlett, with another man was in the bow of the skiff and had to take in on the slack while the men were pulling on the purchases. While he was doing so one of the blocks broke away and fell on him. The man with him threw himself on one side. Bartlett could not move, but when he heard the crash he clasped his hands to his head, but this did not prevent the block crushing in his skull. The man died instantly. He was buried on Friday afternoon.

Police Court News.

To-day five drunks were each fined $10 or 30 days.
A drunk in charge of a horse, was fined $2 or 7 days. The only excuse that he could give the court for his conduct was that he heard that the Premier was instructing the old women of Burlington "how to make lemonade," and this so acted on his risibilities that he had to take something to keep from laughing and so he forgot all about his horse.
Two disorderlies were fined $2 or 7 days each, and a third was fined $5 or 14 days.
A disorderly in his own house was fined $20 or 30 days.
Bonds were given in an affiliation case.
