Children Under 13 Should Drink Lowney's

Why? As children begin to grow up, they often tire of milk and water and want to drink what Papa and Mamma drink—including tea and coffee.

The best dietetic authorities in England and elsewhere say that children under 13 should never touch tea or coffee. But after seven years of age, cocoa is recommended.

Lowney's is made from the finest cocoa beans the tropics produce. Our Montreal factory is a model of neatness and up-to-dateness.

Lowney's Cocoa is thoroughly wholesome, with a delicious flavor that quickly appeals to both children and their parents.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

Lowney's shows you how Cocoa ought to taste

The Best Way to Make Cocoa

Mix two even tablespoons of cocoa with two of sugar. Add 1/4 teaspoonful of salt. Mix gradually with two cups of boiling water. Stir to a smooth paste. Boil 5 minutes. Add two cups of scalded (not boiled) milk, and beat with an egg beater until frothy.

LAKE SIMCOE EXPECTED.—The Lake Simcoe, Wilson, is now 29 days out from Pernambuco to this port. Her arrival is being anxiously awaited as seaman Juke, who is alleged to have caused the death of shipmate Sears, is on board in police custody.

NEW HOCKEY LEAGUE.—We hear that the officers of the four Brigades will meet shortly to consider the formation of an Inter-Brigade Division in our hockey games, as such contests would, no doubt, be of great interest to the public generally.

When Love is Blind.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

exactly the wrong direction.

A young woman who has been married a little over a year was telling me of a recent storm which had ruffled her matrimonial seas.

It seems that "himself"—we'll call him John because that was not his name—had planned to go off for the week end on a hunting trip with two of his bachelor friends.

His wife was horrified. "Just think of that," said she, "he was going to leave me for two whole days. You can imagine how heartbroken I felt."

"He didn't go then?" I asked.

"I should say not," said the lady.

"I told him it showed he didn't love me any more, and finally I broke down and just cried and cried and he was frantic. He said, of course, he wouldn't go, that he'd stay at home and do anything I wanted. And so we are going to the theatre and have a little dinner afterwards—his hunting trip would have cost every bit as much. Isn't that lovely?"

"And you are perfectly satisfied?"

"Of course," she said, round eyed.

"Why shouldn't I be?"

"Why didn't you want John to go?"

I probed a bit further. "Wasn't there anything you would have liked to do?"

"Why didn't you pay us that visit you've promised so long?"

"Why didn't you want John to go?"

"Why didn't you want John to go?"

"Why didn't you want John to go?"

"Why didn't you want John to go?"

Love is a queer thing. And "love" is blind in more ways than the lover's inability to see "the petty follies they themselves commit."

Love is also blind in the strange way in which it gropes and grasps after what it wants in exactly the wrong direction.

Bureaus.

BY H. L. RANN.

The bureau is a receptacle in which women hide all of their husbands' clothes which are not worn on the outside. It is so constructed that a man can hunt through it for two hours without locating anything that he can use without having it stretched.

Every bureau is fitted up with drawers which can be pulled out at full length and dropped carelessly on the shine of the pulley. Whenever anything is lost, it can usually be found in the northwest corner of a bureau drawer, carefully hidden away underneath masculine lingerie which was coined in 1902. There is nothing that gives a woman so much pleasure as to conceal her husband's full dress tie in a bureau drawer which contains nineteen different styles of night gowns, forty-four pairs of half hose and enough handkerchiefs to stock a hay fever resort.

After a bureau has been in the family for several years it becomes so densely populated that it can be used with perfect safety by husbands who get their mail at the general delivery. It is usually inhabited by relics of the wedding trousseau and such regalia as the bague skirt, the halloo-strewn waist, the squatting turban and the wire bustle. After a man has pawed his way through this collection of natural curiosities, in search of a shoestring that he buried there last summer, he will look upon the bands of wedlock with heightened emotion.

Bureaus are used to secrete things which are taken off in the spring and put back on in the fall. This explains why so many men are running around clad in summer union suits and a cold in the head. There is absolutely no hope for the husband whose wife sprinkles his fleece-lined toilet articles with the fragrant moth ball and then forgets whether she buried them under the winter bedding or contributed them to the cause of home missions.

The chiffonier is an exasperating form of bureau which contains everything in the human wardrobe except a buttonhook. A man can hang buttonhooks all over a full-chested chiffonier on Monday morning, and by Tuesday night they will be scattered through his wife's dresser and inextricably intermingled with powder rags, lace inserts and the first frail beginnings of a natural switch. This accounts for the popularity of the lace shoe.

Headachy, Bilious, Upset? 'Cascarets.'

Bilious, throbbing headache means bowels are clogged and liver stagnant—you need Cascarets.

You're bilious, you have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver, and intestines can be quickly cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean, stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

"What," said Buck Kilby to Eph Wiley yesterday, "is the difference between Mrs. Tugg Watts and opportunity?" "I give it up," Eph replied. "Well," said Buck, "opportunity knocks but once."
