"If I Had Only Realized."
By RUTH CAMERON.

If I had only realized when I was a child how much more work it made to have people disorderly and careless about their things I am sure I should have been more careful. But I didn't realize.

That is the oft expressed sentiment of one young woman who has recently gone to housekeeping in a home of her own. And I fancy there are many of us who could say the same thing—we didn't realize. And not about that matter only but about many matters.

I have heard it said that children are naturally selfish. I beg to differ. I think they are naturally full of the most generous impulses. But I do admit that they are naturally thoughtless and that is what makes them seem selfish. It is not that they would be deliberately selfish and unkind, it is just that they have lived so short a time that they do not understand the trouble and pain and self-denial they may be the cause of—they just don't realize.

I once knew a wise mother who grasped this fact and based her training on the effort to make her children realize exactly what they were doing when they were thoughtless or careless or unreasonable.

For instance, take the very matter of which the young housewife spoke. This mother had a daughter who was terribly slack about leaving things around. She would come into the house and leave her coat on one chair and her fur on another, throw her gloves on the table and put her hat pin on the mantel-piece, and only put away her hat because she was afraid something would happen to the feathers if she didn't. Her mother talked and talked to no avail. Finally she decided to make the daughter realize the trouble she was causing, so she told her that for the next week she, the mother, would not pick up one thing that any of the children left lying round, that her daughter must keep the house in order as a punishment for past misdeeds, and that if she failed to do so, she would not be allowed to go to a certain function to which she was looking forward. As all the other children inherited more or less tendency to disorderliness from an artistic father, her task was by no means easy. Needless to say, the end of the week found her saying, "I never realized how much trouble leaving things round made. I will be more careful in future."

Again when the two older children got the habit of teasing for things that were beyond the family purse, this wise woman instead of scolding, simply took them into her confidence about the family income and outgo, asked their help about keeping the accounts, and without saying a word of her purpose to them, soon made them realize for themselves why they could not have everything that other children had. And after that she had no more trouble with teasing.

Look back into your own childhood and see if the kind, the selfish, the thoughtless, the cruel things that you did were not all done because you did not realize.

What better basis then, could we have for training our children than helping them to realize now instead of years afterward when it is too late?

Are You Blue and Worried?
Nervous? Some of the time really ill? Catch cold easily and frequently suffer from biliousness or headache? The reason is that your system does not rid itself of the poisons in the blood; just as impossible as it is for the great of a stove to rid itself of cinders. The waste does up to exactly what the cinders do to the stove; make the fires burn low until enough cinders have accumulated and then prevent its burning at all. Your liver is sluggish—you are dull and heavy—sleep does not rest, nor is food appetizing. In this condition illness develops. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery eradicates the poisons from the body—a glyceric alterative extract made from bloodroot, golden seal and mandrake root, stone and liver's root, without the use of alcohol. No matter how strong the constitution the stomach is apt to be "out of kilter" at times; in consequence the blood is disordered, for the stomach is the laboratory for the constant manufacture of blood.

Mrs. BENJ. BLAKE of Port Dover, Ont., Box 36, writes: "I have been a great sufferer from throat trouble, catarrh, indigestion, female troubles, bloating, constipation and nervousness—at times I would be unable to eat. Was under many different doctors' care, and would get better for a little while, then I would go down with chronic inflammation all through me. For nineteen years I had this poison in my blood. After trying nearly everything I got worse. I read in The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I have taken the Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pleasant Pellets,' and have used five bottles of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. I am now able to do my work and walk with pleasure, and like a new woman. I enjoy everything around me and thank God for letting me live long enough to find something that made me well again."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate liver and bowels.

Latest in Criminal Detection.

Electrical authorities have discovered what they believe to be the surest method of criminal detection yet known. It is in the photographing of the human voice by means of the oscillograph.

The oscillograph is a combination light plant, telephone and photograph gallery all encased in a little box two feet long, 18 inches high and ten inches wide. A small, but very powerful electric arc light throws a beam of light about the size of a lead pencil against a minute prism of glass. This refracts the beam to the back end of the box where it strikes a small cell filled with oil. Suspended in this little cell by means of silver wires is a little mirror almost too small to see with the human eye, but it is this mirror that turns the sound vibrations into light vibrations that are recorded on the photographic film. The mirror reflects such portions of the beam of light that falls upon it, back through a slit less than a half inch wide in the opposite end of the box through which the stamper ray of light falls upon a rapidly revolving photographic film. The mirror is connected by means of silver wires with a common telephone transmitter into which the words to be photographed are spoken. The vibrations in the transmitter cause similar vibrations of the little mirror through the beam of light in the cells and this fitful vibrating of the reflector is faithfully recorded on the revolving film.

The use of this apparatus in the detection of criminals is based upon the physiological fact that every set of vocal cords differs from every other set of vocal cords, or in other words, every human voice is different in some quality from every other human voice. The difference in the vocal cords causes a difference in the nature of the vibration in speaking any given word and the different sound vibrations produce exactly different light vibrations. Therefore, no two human voices can produce the same picture of any spoken letter or word. By photographing the voices of Roadside Telephones For Automobilists.

The latest form of telephone enterprise is reported from England. The scheme consists of roadside telephones for automobilists. Patrol sentry boxes are now being erected at intervals of several miles along most of the main roads and in each box will be installed a telephone communication with the nearest exchange. A patrol will be put on point duty at each box.

The scheme has been subscribed for by the road-organization committee of two principal automobilists' societies. The telephones will be at the service of the members for all purposes entirely free of cost. In the case of trunk calls the ordinary trunk fee only will be charged and a schedule of such fees will be exhibited in each sentry box. Members will, of course, be entitled to the service of the patrols either for the purpose of receiving or transmitting messages.

This extension will be of special value to members of the automobile associations not only in case of accidents or breakdown, but for private or business purposes, for com-

Rats.
BY H. L. RANN.

The rat is a small, eager reptile which lives on cheese and electric light wires. It is well supplied with teeth and strops them at night on the furniture in a loud rone of voice. One strong, adult rat, which has not had anything to eat for several days, can keep a whole family awake and running around in their night clothes, trying to turn his left flank.

Most people look upon the rat as a pest and seek to exterminate him with wire traps and strychnine pills, which are scattered in his pathway with the intent to commit murder in the first degree. Sometimes the house dog encounters these pills and has to be operated upon with sal soda. As a usual thing, a pan of water is placed near by, so that the pill will not lodge in the rat's throat and choke it to death. After a rat has admitted two or three of these pills to his system, he will lose interest in his surroundings and die in a very thorough and abrupt manner.

Rats are hunted with great determination by tall, fin-faced females, who attack them with a broom from the top of the steel range. Another dreaded enemy is the garden, bow-legged rat terrier, which seizes them around the neck with its front teeth and short circuits their medulla oblongata.

The chief diversion of the domestic rat is to set fire to houses which have been wired by a truck gardener disguised as an electrician. The rat also has the unpleasant habit of crawling inside of a brick wall and committing suicide, thereby taking all of the enthusiasm out of a social call.

The rat has a voracious appetite and will eat anything from a new pair of suede shoes to a piano leg. It enjoys getting inside of a wooden partition and holding a family reunion. Every once in a while a family of musical rats will get together and pull off an impromptu rehearsal at the head of somebody's bed, just where they cannot be gotten at with anything but profanity.

PROWLER ABOUT.—The past few nights a man has been prowling about the upper part of Freshwater Road, and is paying undesired attention to females passing there. He is a short, thick-set fellow who wears no overcoat or gloves but has a heavy cap on his head. He will get into trouble if he again shows himself there.

MAKING COLLECTION.—A collection is being taken in the city for the Widow Finn, of the Goules, whose house was destroyed by fire last week. All who can should contribute.

5 Cars fitted with 4 MICHELINS each out of 4 Tyres.
3 Cars fitted without any MICHELINS at all, which shows out of 52 Tyres, 32 were MICHELINS. In other words, 61 1/2 per cent of Tyres fitted were MICHELINS, the remainder being divided between five other makers. MICHELIN Beats Them All.
