Peace Terms on Which the U. S. Will Insist.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge delivered a speech in the United States Senate last week which has deservedly attracted wide attention. In the course of which he set forth the only terms of peace which will satisfy the United States, following this by a warning as to the immense task before the nation and the necessity for turning a deaf ear to German peace proposals, and to the "whisperings of pacifists at home." Peace, he said, must be a dictated peace, and the victory making such a peace possible must be won finally and thoroughly inside, and not outside, the German frontier. Such a peace, he asserted, can be won nowhere else. These are the terms upon which Senator Lodge says the United States will insist, and short of which there can be no permanent security for civilization: Belgium must be restored; Alsace and Lorraine must be returned unconditionally to France. All areas where the Italian race is predominant, including Trieste, must go back to Italy.

Independence for Serbia and Roumania.

Greece must be made secure.

The great Slav populations, now under Austria, must be established as independent States.

The Polish people must have an independent Poland.

Russian provinces taken by the Austro-Lithuanian peace treaty must be restored to Russia.

Turkey must be driven out of Europe, and Constantinople must be placed in the hands of the Allied nations as a free port.

Bulgaria and Turkey both must share the fate of Germany.

Palestine must never return to Turkish rule; the Christians of Asia Minor must be made safe.

Senator Lodge dismissed the arguments of those who favor a negotiated peace by saying they overlook the fact that this war is utterly different from any that the world has previously known. Because it is, the peace to come after it must be utterly different from any peace which has ever been agreed upon before.

He declared unequivocally that the war must be carried across the enemy's frontier. He said:

"It cannot be a peace of bargain, of give and take and of arrangement. It must be a peace that Germany in any degree can ever satisfy us."

"It cannot be a negotiated peace. It must be a dictated peace, and we and our Allies must dictate it."

"The victory bringing such a peace must be won inside, not outside, the German frontier. It must be won finally and thoroughly in German territory, and can be so won nowhere else."

"In no other way can we secure the safety for which we are fighting, in no other way can we justify the sacrifices we are making. To this supreme end our efforts must be addressed. I do not underestimate the difficulties. I do not underestimate the obstacles to be overcome. But the difficulties and the obstacles must alike be crushed, set aside and overridden."

The United States, the Senator insisted, seeks no territory, and could not be bribed or influenced through trade advantages, or territorial gains, or any form of national profit. Its only purpose is to assist in making it impossible for Germany ever again to attempt to conquer or ruin the world—Acadian Recorder.

Charge of the Tank Brigade.

(Shade of Tennyson, forgive.)

Half a league, half a league,
Half a league onward,
Move like the scythe of Death
Tanks, by the hundred,
Boche bullets harmless glide
Down from their metal hide,
While from that stately Hell
Showers of shot and shell
Volley and thunder.

Was there a Boche that stayed
To see how they were made?
Not when each friend felt
His hours were numbered.
Their not to speak and pry,
Their not to wonder why,
Their but to sprint, or die,
Straight to Berlin they fly,
Huns by the hundred.

Tanks to the right of them,
Tanks to the left of them,
Tanks back and front surround
Pillars, fians, and Hegmat.
Rolling the wires straight
Onward they navigate,
Crushing each creature that
Smells like a German.

What is that yellow streak
In the dim distance? Speak!
Is it a circus freak?
Has Nature blundered?
Hush! 'Tis the Kaiser's kin,
Trying to follow in
Vain his retreating chin.
Small blame you wondered.

Honor the Tank Brigade!
Honor the fleet that made
Every last Boche afraid
Prussia was under'd.
End all this sin with them,
Help them to win with them,
On to Berlin with them!
War-Lord, who blunder'd!
VILDA SAUVAGE OWENS.

A Bad Road.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—The "Rocky Road to Dublin" can now be very aptly applied to the stretch of Road from King's Bridge to St. John's Bridge, on the Portugal Cove Road. The worst section is within the city limits and a couple of men with rakes could remedy this condition in a day or two. Now that this matter has been brought to the attention of the Council, we trust that they will do their duty like "Blue Jay" Corn Flakes and "make this hard road easy" by the next whole holiday.

No Messages Received To-day

Again we regret to inform our readers that we are obliged to go to press without the daily Cable Despatches. This did not happen two days in succession when the service was in the hands of the Postal Telegraphs, and there is no legitimate reason why it should occur now. An explanation is due by someone in authority.

Along the Waterfront.

The Clutha is at Crosbie's wharf undergoing extensive repairs. She will not be ready for sea until about Christmas. When finished the Clutha will be practically rebuilt.

The American vessel, Marne, which came in here some time ago, is at Bishop's wharf. The Marne is a handsome vessel. She carries cold storage apparatus. The owners are endeavouring to sell her.

The Elizabeth Fearn is now discharging coal at Goodridge's wharf. When all discharged she will go on dock.

The schr. Cappahayden, loaded with new fish, arrived yesterday morning from Fermanagh, and is now discharging some at Goodridge's.

The Alma Nelson, arrived recently from Green Bay, with a cargo of lumber. She sailed for Labrador to-day, taking with her a cargo of salt. She will bring back fish.

The Portia is due at Channel to-day. Baird's Stella is in the stream.

Baird Johnson's schr. "Lawson" left port this morning, loaded with salt for the Labrador coast. She will bring back fish.

Baird Johnson's schr. "A. J. Sterling" is at present at the wharf, loaded with salt. She will probably go to Labrador for fish.

Baird Johnson's motor vessel Minora, arrived from Hr. Grace this morning, loaded with oil, which she is discharging on the South Side.

Baird's "Herbert Warren" is at the wharf.

The Thetis is now at Job's wharf. The three-masted vessel "Evelyn" is now at Job's wharf, which she is now discharging yet.

A large vessel is now discharging sand at Harvey & Co.'s wharf for W. J. Ellis.

Things That Grow Double.

Freaks of Nature That the Wisest of Men Find Some Difficulty in Explaining.

Nature does some strange things in the formation of vegetables, nuts and different kinds of fruits, an exchange states. It is quite common to find two or more growing together, and naturalists frequently run across some very curious freaks.

Double ears of corn are quite common. They grow side by side, and are sometimes of equal size; but usually one has a little better chance to grow and gets the advantage over the other.

A double ear on exhibition in one of the Western States was certainly a curiosity. One side was one variety of corn, while the other side was so different that it was hard to believe the two had grown so close together.

Double heads of wheat are quite common, but double grains are scarce. Grains of rye, however, are often double, and the same is true of rice. Onions, radishes, beets, carrots, turnips, cabbages and other vegetables are often found in double form.

The prettiest specimens of double peaches are those with two seeds, as they are most distinctly double, being joined at a point about half-way from the stem of the blossom ends.

Regimental March Tunes.

British Regiments are very jealous of certain tunes which tradition and association have connected with them. "Dumbarton's Drums" has been the quickstep march of the Royal Scots for over two hundred years. The West Yorkshire Regiment claims "Ca Ira" as its march; the 1st Battalion Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, "One and All"; the Cheshire Regiment, "Who wadna fight for Charlie?" in honour of Sir Charles Napier, who once commanded them; the Rifle Brigade, "I'm Ninety-Five"; the Scots Greys, "The Garb of Old Gaul"; the 10th Hussars, "God Bless the Prince of Wales"; and "Men of Harlech"; the 5th Lancers, "Let Erin remember"; and "The Harp that once thro' Tara's Halls"; the 2nd Battalion Seaforth Highlanders, "My Pretty Brown Lass"; and "The Relief of Lucknow"; and the 12th Lancers and 21st Hussars, "Coburg." The Scottish, Welsh and Irish regiments of the Army are all partial to tunes of national extraction, and English regiments formed originally in counties the names of which they still bear, have melodies applicable to the locality, and clinging to them tenaciously.

An excellent way to cure insomnia is to bandage the eyes with a handkerchief before retiring. The compress seems to drive away the blood from the eyes and so, sure, or at least temporarily, relieves that feeling of strain experienced by sufferers from sleeplessness, of trying to see in the dark.

"Better Than the Best."

"Colonel ———, in charge of the British interests here, told me that 'one of the greatest English Generals' had said to him that he would rather 'command a contingent of Newfoundland troops than any in the world,' that when others were ready to 'drop the Newfoundlanders were asking for more.'—Late Exchange.

When England called her gallant sons For her to do and dare,
For to give battle to the Huns They did not quake with fear.
They came with merry song and shout From every sea-washed strand,
And among the foremost to come out Were the boys of Newfoundland.

Though they had been unused to wars, Yet freedom fired their souls,
They fought beneath the shrine of Mars, Than those young folks so brave and strong.

When we all love to-day, Whose deeds are told in prose and song
In England far away, On every field where soldiers stand
To seek for freedom's right, There stands a youth from Newfoundland.

They're foremost in each fight; Where'er a son of England went
Our native sons did go, And freely there their blood was spent
To crush our Hunnish foe.

Though Scotia's sons be good and true And fighters of great fame,
Where'er they went "our boys" went too, And kept up their good name,
You'll find those youths on land or sea, One time against the Turk.

Where'er the sons of Ireland's Isle Had dared their grit to show,
"Our boys" we saw beside them toll, And this was their deed to show.
They hold their own on sea and land, And a great man did attest
That the boys from Newfoundland Were "better than the best." JAMES MURPHY.
