

Gower St. Harvest Home Service.

Fine congregations were present at both Harvest Home services yesterday in Gower Street Church. The preacher in the morning was Rev. W. B. Bugden, and he delivered a splendid sermon from 1 Tim., 2:3-4m. "For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour, who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth." In the evening the Pastor spoke on the laws of sowing and reaping from Gal. 6:7-9. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked. For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. He that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption, and he that soweth to the spirit shall of the spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well-doing, for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." He said it was a good thing to remind ourselves, by bringing into the place of worship the products of farm and garden that God is the giver of the harvest, and of all good gifts. More reliable even than the laws of seed time and harvest is the law of sowing and reaping in the spiritual world. He outlined the objectives of the spiritual part of the Methodist National Campaign, and pointed out that if spiritual harvests were to be gathered, there must be adequate preparation made and adequate causes provided by the putting forth of spiritual and moral effort. Literature on the campaign was circulated at the service. The platform and choir loft were beautifully decorated by the members of the choir, under the direction of the choir leader, Mr. Beresford. Sheaves of oats, flowers, ferns, fruits and vegetables were used in the decorations, which were very tasteful and effective. The music was bright and suited to the theme of the day. In the afternoon Rev. Gordon Dickie spoke to a good gathering in the men's Bible Class, and his address was greatly enjoyed. The Rally Day of the Church and Sunday School will be held next Sunday.

Cochrane Street Centennial Church.

The morning sun, with golden rays shining through the stained windows, became transformed, and with lovely rich colour filled the sanctuary. Reverent worship, devotional hymns and a sense of an all pervading Presence, led the worshippers to look up for a brief hour, seeking comfort and strength and peace. The God of Bethel again came down and visited His people, and as the old hymn was sung, many heads were lifted in prayer, confession, trust, and praise. The anthem was Wattle's beautiful hymn, "Immortal Love, for ever full," to a setting by Dr. Sanders of Ottawa. The preacher was Rev. D. B. Hemmison who took as his text, "There was a great calm." Peace, real peace, said the preacher, does not come from your environment, it is something within. As in this case, so it is always Christ in the heart makes peace. In spite of racial friction, international troubles and industrial strife there will be peace if Jesus Christ is allowed to take His place. Indeed, the cure for the unrest that is prevalent is the placing of Jesus in His position of pre-eminence. The imperialism of the day will not change matters, but rather make them worse; and the Church, instead of raising Christ's banner and following in His footsteps, leading the people to higher ideals and nobler purposes, has been content to follow in the wake of the material powers. But while many people, forming the visible Church, have thus loosened the hold of the higher things, the principles of the Kingdom will remain and the victory is to those who are faithful to these principles. Peace to the earth will come and can only come through Jesus Christ.

At the evening service the Rev. Dr. Alfred Hall was the preacher, and for his text he took the words of Elijah to his servant on Carmel, "Go up now, look towards the sea." Dr. Hall spoke in the interest of the Royal Naval and Marine Institutes of which he is the Chaplain. Many things call us to "look towards the sea." God's boundless mercy and long-suffering kindness are illustrated in the great oceans; Jesus Christ walked on the sea and stilled the tempest; History, in the Armada, Nelson's deeds and the great war, invites us to "look towards the sea;" and duty calls us to seek the good of those, who do so much for us along the paths of the great waters. Before the service closed the flags of the allied nations were brought in procession to the communion table and there presented, while a prayer of thanksgiving was offered by Dr. Hall. The service was very impressive and will long live in the memories of the congregation who witnessed it. The hymns were heartily sung, and the choir sang as an anthem, Sir Arthur Sullivan's arrangement of "The strain sprang."

Cashin Will Come Back. Girls' Friendly Society.

The G. F. S. opened for its winter work on Thursday, October 2nd, in the Sprud Building. There was a large attendance. The Bishop of Newfoundland gave a most pleasant and interesting address, telling of his three months' visitation voyage this summer. The G.F.S. club rooms are open every night, and it is hoped that the members will make use of these rooms as often as possible during the winter, and more especially on Thursday nights. The reading and writing class will go on as usual, and many new books will be found in the Library. The Associates kindly helping to supply them.

SATURDAY O Ready-mades

A QUEER WAY
If a person were to worry about you it would seem safe to assume that person really cared for you.
I wonder sometimes, however if worry is just a clever form of self-protection—a li-better than an ordinary form that it is unsatisfactory; a li-worse in that is much harder to rebuke.

"Now John, it is quite cool morning. You must wear your overcoat. I shall worry all day if don't," says Mrs. Jones to her band.

She Feels the Cold, He Doesn't

Now John, big and full blooded doesn't feel the cold near as much as his devoted wife does. She self wouldn't dare move out of that day without all her furs winter panoply. But John has through this same performance winter since he has married. tell his wife that he didn't feel cold and that it wasn't necessary for him to wear his winter yet, would seem simple. But—"I shall worry all day if you says Mrs. John.

We are Thinking Not of His Cold

But Ours.
We do not always remember what is one man's meat is an-man's poison. Lacking a con-viewpoint with our victim, we ours upon him by using as our argument not his comfort—but "I shall worry" is a favorite in many households.

I know a mother whose eld-was drowned. He was not a sturdy good swimmer. Her sons are all splendid swimmers.
