Baby Girl Suckled by Lioness.

A family secret for many years, how Mrs. Magdalene McCabe, as a child was suckled by a lioness, has been revealed here by her husband, upon her recent death at Johannesburg says special correspondence to the Daily Mail from that city.

Mrs. McCabe, the daughter of Mr. F. Swart, who spent his time with his wife hunting in the wilder parts of South Africa, was born during a trek through Colesberg.

Mr. McCabe says that one morning, near the Crocodile River, Magdalene, who was 3, was told to go down to the water where her mother was washing. Five minutes later the girl had disappeared.

After the distracted parents had searched 8 days for her, two wizened bushmen walked into the camp and said to Mr. Swart, "White man, bring guns. We have found your child."

The bushmen took Mr. Swart along the river's banks for about three miles and then they pointed out a tiny figure being suckled with two lion cubs by a lioness.

The hunter fired a shot in the air and the lions fled, leaving the little girl, her clothes torn and her body badly scratched, but otherwise un harmed. When Magdalene was ten she was found by her father near the Limpopo River flinging pebbles at two lions on the opposite bank. She said to her father, "There are the big dogs that carried me across the river."

Seeing With Your Nose.

Recent experiments show that the sense of smell in human beings often has a profound effect on the other senses. A pleasing odour, for example, stimulates the senses, while a disagreeable one depresses them. The same experiments demonstrated that the use of a perfume spray in cinemas, by stimulating the olfactory nerves, has the little-known effect of making the nictures seem clearer to the vision, and the music plainer to the ear.

The scientist in charge of the experiments holds that the colours of pictures in art galleries, and the tomes of singers and instruments at theatres, music-halls, concerts, and the like, would be enhanced if the atmosphere were perfumed with incense. It is a curious fact that women who go to the theatre heavily perfumed often notice that their hearing has been appreciably sharpened.

Miles of Microbes.

The microbe which causes the dread wool-sorters' disease, or anthrax, is a tiny fellow only one three-thousandth part of an inch in length. Rather more than six million could nestle comfortably side by side on the surface of a postage stamp. He multiples, not by laying eggs, but by splitting himself into two. This splitting process takes place once every half-hour, at the end of which time the single microbe has become two full-sized ones joined together like the links of a chain. The chain is still not a very long one; but let us see what would occur if nothing happened to stop its growth for a whole day. Doubling its length every halfhour, it would measure an inch and a half in six hours. .

Fourteen hours would see it a mile and a half long; in twenty-two and a half hours it would stretch from the earth to the moon; while in twentyfour hours it would attain a length of 1,847,368 miles.

Such an appalling rate of increase is prevented in three ways-the microbes cannot find the huge masses of food necessary for their growth; they are destroyed by sunlight; and they prey upon each other.

A Tip for Financiers.

Geneva, (Associated Press)-The collapse in Austrian exchange turned a police court fine into a fortune for an Austrian army officer who has just been sentenced to pay 50 francs at Buchs for assaulting a customs official before the war. The officer then was released upon cash bail of 5,000 Swiss francs, deposited at a time when the crown was the equivalent of the franc. When he paid his fine and received the bail he deposited years ago, he found that he had what would be changed into more than 2,000,000 Austrian crowns.

A Tall Order.

A customer had overhauled a large number of clocks of all shapes, sizes and descriptions, but nothing seemed exactly to suit his taste. At length the jeweller, in despair, fetched out a massive timepiece of complicated design. "Here, sir, is a clock which will, I think, suit your aesthetic taste. At precisely ten o'clock every morning the tiny bells chime and a bird hops out and sings a carol."

"I will take that if you will make a few changes in it."

"With pleasure!" the jeweller said. "I have a daughter," went on the customer, "and I want the clock for the room where she entertains her company. Make it so that at eleven o'clock at night a milkman's bell will ring and a newsboy will skip out and
