CHICAGO.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Grain speculation became excited today over the possibility of frosts in the unripe grain section, in spite of the fact that the weather map indications were very favorable. The rise of the day's trading was a good gain all around. At the close December wheat was %c to %c up, December corn ½c to %c higher, and December corn ½c to bchigher, and December oats %c up. Provisions closed generally 10c advanced. Local receipts of wheat were 158 cars, 1 of contract grade; Minneapolis and Duluth reported 400 cars, making a total for the three points of 558 cars, against 617 last week and 1,030 last year. Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 209 cars; corn, 185 cars; oats, 380 cars; hogs, 1,000 head.

POISON WAS SENT TO SIX FAMILIES

All Enemies of a Young Farmer in Michigan.

THE SUSPECTED MAN ARRESTED

Story of the Strange Crime-The Relatives of the Victims Worked Up the Case.

Lowell, Mich., Sept. 6 .- The mystery that surrounds the death of Ada Klump, who was poisoned by an alleged headache powder, may never be unraveled. The culprit who mixed the deadly drugs and mailed them to six Intended victims may never be discovered; but the developments are so startling that the prosecuting attorney decided to issue a warrant for the arrest of Bay C. Kerekus, who was arrested by Ionia County officers. Kerekus is a farmer whose modest little home adjoins the farm formerly occupied by Will Klump and his wife. Across the road is the Kerekus homestead, where Ben Kerekus, father of the suspected men, has resided for 45 years. With these two families, Will Klump and his wife were at no time on friendly terms. In fact, it is said that no neighbor, with the exception of Mrs. Mary Miller, has entered home of the elder Kerekus on a friendly call in a half score years. garians by birth and of noble blood. odd and eccentric in their ways, they have never stood on sociable terms with their Lowell neighbors. RECEIVED POWDERS.

Suspicion first pointed to young Kerekus, not because he and Will Klump had met in an open quarrel a short time before the death of Ada. nor because at the end of that quarrel, when Klump had kicked him off the premises, he shook his fist in Klump's face and said:

"There will be a hereafter," but he was suspected because it was discovered that young Kerekus had had trouble with every family that received a package of the deadly head-ache powders. This, coupled with the other circumstances, formed the first

Those receiving the powders were: Eugene Moey, Harmon Raymor, Mrs. Christopher Klump, Mrs. Will Klump, Mrs. Mary Miller and M. Merritt. With Moye, Kerekus had been involved in a law suit. He had serious difficulty with Merritt about some cattle. The trouble between Kerekus and the Millers grew out of a strawberry deal. and with the Klump the first dispute arose over chickens.

When Will Klump was arrested, the theory of the presecuting attorney was in order to cover up the murder of Mrs. Klump, headache powders had been sent out promiscuously, but it is held that the distribution of the powders was the culmination of a deep plot concocted and carried out by the man who had declared vengeance on Will Klump.

A CLUE. A systematic search resulted in securing one of the six envelopes sent out. This envelope was addressed in a man's hand and Presecuting Attorney Brown is authority for the statement that the writing is identical with that of Kerekus. It has also been discovered that Kerekus possesses a druggist's mortar and that he is in the habit of compounding powders for his horses and cattle. The investigation has likewise disclosed the fact that Winegar, a Lowell druggist, some time ago placed a large basket of samples, "Flag Salt Headache" powders, in his store within reach of all visitors and patrons. One, and the vita! point, remains unsolved. No druggist in Saranac, or any of the surrounding villages, has any recollection of having ever sold Kerekus any strychnine. On this point, the whole energy of the sheriff's On this force is centered. STORY OF THE CASE. On Feb. 28 last, Will Klump found bulky package addressed to his wife in the Klump box at the postoffice. He deposited the package with the other mail in his wife's lap and she opened the package. It proved to be the deadly headache powder and strychnine, but beyond the fact that the powder was fully 50 per cent larger than the ordinary powder put up for the purpose of checking headache, there was nothing suspicious in its appearance

The Klumps were in the habit of attending many social events and on the morning of March 2. Mrs. Klump awoke with a headache. She had arranged to have Klump drive out to her father's house, seven miles east of Lowell and took the headache powder while her husband was preparing for the trip. He had been in the stable yard and returned to the house to find his wife suffering from a convul-She suffered untold agony and the frightened husband ran to the home of Mrs. Mary Miller across the Mrs. Miller came at once and a physician was sent for. All day the doctor and neighbors worked on the stricken girl, but the terrible dose of more than ten grains of the poison did its work and the young wife died in the evening after suffering for ten hours agonies that baffle description.

Lumber Prices Will Go Up.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.-Mr. Booth predicts an advance in the price of lumber The increase of cost of supplies and wage bill, ranges this season, he says, from 15 to 25 per cent. above last season's prices, which showed an advance of 15 per cent. over those of the previous year. While the cost of production has advanced there has been no corresponding advance in the price of manufactured lumber, hence Mr. Booth's prediction. It is borne out by the fact that the demand continues firm both in the States and England. The Canadian consumption is also an important factor. Died From Weasel's Bite.

Paterson, N.J., Sept. 5 .- John Cornetti, a milk dealer, living at East Twenty-fourth street and Twenty-first avenue, died yesterday in great agony from hydrophobia caused by the bite of a weasel. For some time Cornetti had missed chickens, and he suspected that the thief was a wezsel. He de-termined to sleep in the barn for the purpose of catching the animal. During the first night he spent in the barn, about a week ago, he was bitten by the weasel, which got away. Three days ago he became ill, and Drs. Fitzmaurice, Vigner and Ritter were called in consultation. They diagnosed the case as hydrophobia and declared that it was the result of the bite.

The Crops in Alberta.

Toronto, Sept. 6.-Reports received from Northern and Central Alberta inlicate that crops are not ripe, and that cutting has scarcely commenced. The weather indications seem to point to an early frost, so that it is likely that the heavy grain crop of Alberta may simply have to be used for feeding purposes. The cool weather which has een general this summer has undoubtedly kept the grain from ripening in the Far West, and besides, the great floods in Southern Alberta, there being three already this season, have caused a great deal of damage. The meteorological authorities state that they believe that the enormous crop n Manitoba is practically safe, even frost does come, which may be very shortly, and the same conditions apply to Assinibola and Saskatchewan, where harvesting is reported to have enced everywhere
