

COLLAPSE OF SOCIETY PREDICTED BY HORNE

Former British Chancellor of Exchequer at New York Luncheon.

Associated Press Despatch.
New York, Jan. 22.—An early collapse of civilized society in Europe unless some means now seen can be devised of averting it, was predicted Saturday by Sir Robert Horne, former chancellor of the British exchequer, at a luncheon of the English-Speaking Union of the United States. Viscount Burnham, president of the British Press Union, and chief owner of the London Daily Telegraph, and Dean A. V. Baillie of Windsor Chapel, were other speakers.

Viscount Burnham urged a clear settlement of the British debt question. "I suppose," he said, "it is hopeless to expect Lombard street and Washington to reach a completely satisfactory understanding. But if we can reach a reasonable arrangement it is all we can expect."

"It looks to be as if destiny in peace and war were bent on bringing us continuously more close together in our interests and our ideals. In spite of all disturbers of the peace we are forced to march together with all its ruts and shellholes. Yet we are bound now and again in your own world tasks to have England as your friendly rival and helper. After all, you cannot keep your politics in cold storage; neither can we, either of us, be caught holding up the cause of righteousness for the day of judgment."

BEGIN PROBING DEATH OF MAN NEAR SIMCOE

Jury Is Empaneled to Sift the Strange Tragedy on Scott Farm.

Special to The Advertiser.
Simcoe, Jan. 22.—Coroner W. A. McIntosh empaneled this morning a jury and proceeded to investigate the tragedy yesterday morning, when Samuel Scott, a farmer, aged 67, dropped to the ground and expired on his farm, while in an altercation with a neighbor, Albert Frost, it is the statement of Scott's son is correct.

The son, who is probably over 30 years of age, said that he had almost blows struck, and did not see his father fall, but reached him before the breath of life had departed. He stated also that Frost attacked him subsequently, and threw him down, but that he escaped.

A. N. West told The Advertiser late last night that he had almost daily transactions with the Frost, and knew the Scotts well. They are all respected and law-abiding citizens, certainly not given to strife. For that reason, the tragedy was a surprise.

Mr. Scott was inclined to become highly agitated at the government prohibition, and it is possible that at the age, excitement may have resulted in heart failure.

It was Mr. Frost, who phoned for a doctor, after assisting to pick up Mr. Scott.

He says Scott fell while about 25 feet distant from the barn. Scott says the distance was three feet. The tragedy took place while Mr. Scott was on his way out to a field to drive a horse and wagon who were skating on a pond in his wheat field, which had developed after Saturday's rain and thaw. The boys had been cautioned by the farmer not to damage the wheat. Years ago, Mr. Scott had horse-whipped Albert Frost's older brother, it is said.

One of Albert's children, who was on the pond, and remembering that past, Albert says he went out to warn his boy off, when he saw Scott going towards the pond.

The investigation by the coroner's jury has been adjourned till next Monday. A post-mortem examination is being conducted by Drs. Sowby and McGilvray.

WHY DID GOVERNMENT RUSH ON ELECTIONS?

Hon. Mr. Patenaude of Quebec Addresses Meeting at Pointe Claire.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Pointe Claire, Que., Jan. 22.—Hon. E. L. Patenaude and J. S. A. Ashby, Conservative candidates, and respectively for Jacques Cartier County at the forthcoming provincial elections, addressed a meeting here yesterday.

Mr. Patenaude, minister of roads, and Senator Casgrain, Hon. Mr. Patenaude wondered why the government had rushed on the elections, in view of the fact that it possessed all powers and had a big majority. He prophesied that Premier Taschereau would find in the Quebec district alone 24 opposition members elected.

"Throughout his career," said Mr. Patenaude, "the government had shown it was not afraid of a free election. He cited as a case in point that of John I. Roberts, who, he said, had been put in prison for a year without trial before his peers. He said that the rights of the municipalities had been taken away.

Hon. J. L. Perron defended elections in the winter, and said he had used the prime minister to hold them at this time. It was the best time, he claimed, because farmers were never so busy as then.

In regard to the liquor law, which he warmly defended, Mr. Perron said that if he did not commit any more sins than voting the liquor law, he would go straight to heaven when he died.

Mr. Ashby said the final word, and urged the electors to let matters that were good remain as they were.

ORIENT CLUB SLIGHTLY DAMAGED BY FLAMES

A fire occurred in the rooms of the Orient Club this morning. A poorly constructed fireplace, in which the fire had been burning over night, was the cause of the conflagration, according to fire department.

Beyond a slightly damaged hearth, there was no harm done, the blaze being extinguished by the fire department in a few minutes.

British People Again Confronted With Question of Supporting Prince

Associated Press Despatch.
London, Jan. 22.—The coming marriage of the Duke of York to Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore, brings before the British people a question which has not arisen in many years, but which in times past has been a point of difference between the crown and parliament. This question is the financing of a younger member of the royal family.

The Prince of Wales has his own estates, appertaining to his title, which are sufficient for his support. Princess Mary married one of the richest men in the kingdom, Viscount Lascelles, so there was no difficulty in her case, although King George had precedents plenty for going to parliament for a money grant if he had thought it necessary to do so.

The King's younger sons in starting households of their own, must either must make grants for them or their own fortune. Although King George's wealth is a matter of guesswork, he probably might well afford to launch his sons in life financially, if it was judged by ordinary standards, but custom, strong in England, entitles him to expect the nation to provide for them.

Custom forbids the King's sons to work for a living, except in such employment as the army or navy, where they are insignificant. It also compels them to live up to their position.

The embarrassing duty fell on Queen Victoria of approaching parliament for grants for her younger children, and also because she remained so long on the throne, for her grandchildren, the daughters of King Edward VII, were dependent on her. There was opposition in parliament, which grieved and irritated the Queen. Even in those days there were radical members of the House of Commons who insisted on asking what these minor members of the royal family did for the nation to earn their lavish upkeep.

With Labor members constituting the second party in the lower house of parliament, and with more than a million unemployed in the country, any proposal to finance the Duke of York on any princely scale, either in the form of a lump sum or an annuity, is certain to bring on disagreement. The Duke has no great fortune of his own nor has his if it was judged by ordinary standards.

THREE CASES APPEAR BEFORE HIGH COURT

Motion to Recover Excess Pensions Is Adjourned for Week.

Three motions were dealt with at the weekly sitting of the high court on Saturday morning. In the King vs. Cohoe, motion for judgment to recover excess pensions paid to the defendant, the amount claimed in dispute. The order is reserved on another point. S. E. Weir acted for the attorney-general and F. C. Betts for the official guardian.

In the case of Liberson vs. Pattinson, motion to commit the defendant to jail for contempt of court for non-observance of an injunction restraining him from carrying on business as a butcher in London, the defendant took the case to the court, claiming that he had not been in willful contempt of the order. His lordship decreed that the order continue for one week. It was not to be issued until the defendant now observes the court order and pays the costs of the motion forthwith. G. N. Weeks appeared for the plaintiff, and W. B. Henderson for the defendant.

Bowson vs. Burch—motion under the vendors and purchasers act for reference to the local master at London to inquire and report as to whether the vendor can make a good title to the land. The case was referred to the local master at London to inquire and report as to whether the vendor can make a good title to the land. The case was referred to the local master at London to inquire and report as to whether the vendor can make a good title to the land.

WILL GIVE ADDRESS ON EUROPEAN VISIT

On Saturday, Jan. 27, at 2 o'clock, Mr. W. H. Porter of the Farmers' Advocate will give an address before the agricultural section of the Chamber of Commerce, in the Tecumseh House on some observations made during his recent trip to Europe.

These observations include such topics as "Some Observations of the British Market," "A Talk with the Duke of Devonshire," "Why Denmark Has Replaced 1,000 pounds of Canadian Bacon," "Why New Zealand Is Jostling Us Out of the Dairy Trade," and "Why More Canadian Goods Are Not Sold on the British Market."

There will also be a few comments on the immigration question, as it affects Canada. This is a meeting of the Agricultural Section of the London Chamber of Commerce, but a cordial invitation is extended to everyone who is interested in these vital questions of the moment.

Repeat Press Club Play "Thirty Days" at the Grand Theatre on January 31

Numerous demands for a repeat performance of "Thirty Days," the first offering of the Press Club Players, a big farce-comedy success, will be granted Wednesday, Jan. 31, at the Grand Theatre, when it will be given under the auspices of the London Conservative Club. Many who did not have the opportunity of witnessing the show when it was presented, several weeks ago, and who heard of its success, have been persistent in their demands for a return engagement.

Those wishing to attend should obtain their tickets at once from members of the Conservative Club or members of the London Press Club. The Press Club Players are well-known to the majority of Londoners, although they only made their bow to London a month ago. Charles E. Carruthers, who interprets the leading role, needs no introduction to London, for his ability is recognized far and wide. To him many of the best amateur actors owe their training, and he is a local master at London. One only needs to speak to those who attended the initial performance of "Thirty Days," to learn of its popularity. The quality of the interpretation of "Thirty Days" by the members of London's newspaper fraternity.

One scene in particular, in which Mr. Carruthers and Miss Ethel McGilvray execute a Spanish dance, is well worth the price of admission. Press Club Players is through arrangement with the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club, "Thirty Days" will be presented at the Star Theatre, St. Thomas, on the evening of Feb. 3.

DOUBTS EDUCATION STATUTES ARE LAW

J. B. Wright Questions Stand of Department on Erection Collegiate.

WANT EAST SCHOOL

Declares "Regulations Once Broken May Be Broken Again."

Have regulations as set down by the Department of Education at Toronto any appreciable strength? Some of the trustees on London's Board of Education maintain they have not, that they are to be taken "with a grain of salt," lived up to, if that course is convenient, or broken indiscriminately, if that course is thought wiser or better. The question came up this morning, when trustee J. B. Wright wondered what the department's regulations had to do with the building of a collegiate in South London when at least temporarily adequate accommodation had been afforded there, while absolutely no facilities were accorded the students from East London, outside of crowded rooms, and annexes at Central Collegiate Institute.

While not sponsoring the idea, Trustee Wright hints that "regulations, once broken, may be broken again, and goes so far as to say that there would be more reason to shatter department regulations" by building a collegiate in the east, than the same regulations in the erection of the Trafalgar school on the present site.

At the present time members of the board of education do not agree on the question of location. Some stand unflinchingly in favor of an East End Collegiate in the immediate future. Secretary W. A. Tanner points out that this cannot be, on the ground that the department of education has ruled that the colleges must be built in a certain sequence—Central first, then South second and the East third.

"Why build a collegiate in London South while there is accommodation in the east of the city?" asked Mr. Wright. "The board has disregarded almost with scorn every recommendation of the department of education concerning the Trafalgar School. The provincial inspector has the least bit of sense to see the situation, and he has reported it in his report. But, as far as taking the London Board of Education to task for its apparent disregard for regulations in the erection of that school, the educational department at Toronto holds aloof. When the department of Belgrave avenue, without question, then I think that the same thing will be done in regard to a new collegiate."

Outcome Uncertain.
Just where the matter will end remains uncertain, as the secretary states that part of the property now held in South London for the proposed Collegiate may be appropriated by the city for the new extension of Belgrave avenue. At the last session of the Collegiate committee there were several who favored building an East End Collegiate in the east of the city, but the eastern section first, the board will be again acting against department regulations, according to several trustees, and also a few words from Mrs. Ward, one of the old soldiers of the Army.

On Sunday there was the usual day services, and in the afternoon a number of long service badges were presented by the colonel to the following members of the corps: Sergeant Major Chapman, 15 years; Bandman Lismore, 20 years; Bandman Lismore, 20 years; Bandman A. Magler, 10 years; Bandman Ede, 5 years; Bandman Brown, 5 years; Brixton Dlx, 20 years; W. P. S. Brown, 5 years; Mrs. A. Ward, 20 years; Mrs. Marsh, 15 years; Mrs. W. Roberts, 15 years; Mrs. L. Gregory, 10 years.

An interesting and inspiring address was given by Col. Miller, who has been for more than 37 years a member of the Army, on some of the early experiences, mentioning the fact that when first he joined, he and another new recruit were forced to sleep on the bare boards of the floor, and a ship he declared that he gladly put up with, considering the nature of the work he was engaged in.

The conclusion of these opening services will take place tonight when there will be a musical festival in the new building at which all four bands of the army in London will take part.

PRESENTING HON. MAYOR AS SEEN BY AMERICANS

It's passing strange how little the Americans know about Canadian affairs, municipal or otherwise. Mayor Wenigke is vice-president of the National Cycle Dealers Association, with headquarters in New York city.

The mayor is a resident of the city, and is being staged in that city next month, and the mayor is receiving considerable correspondence in this connection.

This morning one communication was received from headquarters bearing the inscription on the envelope "Hon. George A. Wenigke."

"They're just a trifle premature, aren't they?" suggested The Advertiser, but his worship wasn't saying anything that might be used against him.

The department of agriculture is conducting a short course in the management of sheep in Parkhill on January 25th and 26th. Those interested to two days, the course will include every operation in which the shepherd is engaged, and also a judging competition in judging live sheep and carcasses.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 2 o'clock from her residence, 4 Dundas street west, to Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. The Rev. George Watts will officiate. Mrs. Howard was a resident of London for more than 30 years, and leaves a wide circle of friends.

GIVES BIRTH TO TRIPLETS AT SEAFORTH HOSPITAL

Special to The Advertiser.
Seaforth, Ont., Jan. 22.—At the Seaforth Memorial Hospital this morning Mrs. Frank Daniels, of Dublin, Ont., gave birth to triplets, two girls and a boy.

Mr. Hugh H. Ross, the physician in attendance, stated that all three babies were fine and healthy, and perfectly formed, weighing 5, 5 1/2 and 6 pounds, respectively, and the mother doing well.

Unusual interest is being taken by the citizens in the event, which is the first of its kind in the town.

PROFESSOR CHARLES VAILLANT.

According to word from Paris, the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences has withdrawn a 15,000-franc Audiffret prize awarded Professor Charles Vaillant because he was unable to sign the receipt for the prize. Professor Vaillant lost his remaining hand recently in the thirteenth operation he has undergone to check the ravages of infection caused by his work with radium and therefore could not sign the papers. The award was made to his wife, however.

OPEN ARMY CITADEL IN SOUTH END OF CITY

Salvationists Hold Impressive Service as Place of Worship Is Dedicated.

The new Salvation Army citadel, No. 2 corps, in London South, on Edward street and Tecumseh avenue, was opened on Saturday afternoon by Col. Gideon Miller, field secretary of Canada East.

In spite of a wet night, the full program was carried out. There was a gathering outside the door, at which two verses of "Oh God, Our Help in Ages Past" was sung, and also a prayer by Staff Captain Penfold.

Col. Miller, after congratulating the local officers on the partial conclusion of their proposals in the building of this new citadel, and expressing his hopes for the future of the corps, turned the key and opened the building.

Inside there were the regular opening services, under the direction of Col. Miller, which included addresses by Major J. Chapman and Mrs. Brown, and also a few words from Mrs. Ward, one of the old soldiers of the Army.

On Sunday there was the usual day services, and in the afternoon a number of long service badges were presented by the colonel to the following members of the corps: Sergeant Major Chapman, 15 years; Bandman Lismore, 20 years; Bandman Lismore, 20 years; Bandman A. WOULD TEACH M'NEIL HOW TO RAISE CHICKENS

Here's another little story that should not pass without comment. Everyone knows "Billy" McNeill, not only in London, but throughout the country, as a chicken feeder, and a raising fowl than any dozen men in these parts.

Prizes that are his represent many sections of the continent. One can well imagine his feelings when he received in the mail last Saturday a special inducement from a correspondent at school to learn chicken raising, etc.

CANADIAN SUGAR IN ITALY.

A shipment of 1,000 tons of Canadian sugar was sold in Italy during 1922. This was well received on the market. The sugar was sold at a price more highly than the American granulated on account of the fineness of the grain. The Canadian sugar was largely used by a large chocolate manufacturer, and as such and similar industries are very important. It would seem that other things being equal, Canadian exporters might be able to compete when Italy is in the buying market.

TYPHOID VISITS CITY, BUT WATER IS CLEAN

Several Cases Found in City, But Infection Was Imported.

After an absence of several months, typhoid fever has made its appearance in this city, and several persons are suffering with this dread disease. At St. Joseph's Hospital four members of one family have been treated, and one victim died. Another family is afflicted with three cases, and in addition, there are a few isolated cases.

Recognizing that this disease is readily communicable and is of serious import, attending physicians are taking every caution to prevent it from becoming epidemic, and as a result there is no cause for alarm.

It has been pointed out that typhoid fever is spread by means of contaminated water supplies, and the municipal supply for London is free from it. The family receiving treatment in St. Joseph's Hospital hailed from Parkhill, and it is thought the disease was contracted in that village.

In another family the disease has been traced to infected ice, which was placed in a shipment of oysters received from the Maritime Provinces, and this origin also leaves the city water supply above suspicion. A third group of cases, which is very small, is believed to have had an obscure origin, which has not been determined, but it is certain that city drinking water is not responsible.

Careful investigation by physicians of the present typhoid, and steps are being taken to prevent them from further spreading the disease. Of the several patients in London suffering with the disease, all are reported as progressing favorably toward recovery.

LITTLE FLUCTUATION IN GENERAL STOCKS

Except for Specialties, Small Change Is Not at New York.

By STUART P. WEST.
Special to The Advertiser.
New York, N. Y., Jan. 20.—Excepting for the bidding up of a few specialties there was an unusually small change in the general list of stock exchange today. The bulk of transactions in the standard issues occurred within a fraction of the final price of Friday. Pool operations continued today in Timken Roller Bearing, driving the stock to a new high level.

This was expected as the earnings, running as they are now three times the amount of the dividend, the distribution to shareholders is likely to be increased. Marland Oil was the feature of the oil group, still responding to the publication of the production figures showing that the average daily output of the first of the year had nearly doubled the average gross last year.

It was evident from the action of the sugar stocks today that the further cut in the price of refined sugar had been discounted. Sugar shares as a group simply marked time in face of the announcement that all refiners had reduced their price to 6.70 cents per pound and that raw sugar was barely steady. The opinion is quite generally held that although there will be shading of sugar prices during the next fortnight, the sugar stocks will not be much affected.

Wall street spent most of its morning wondering just what the perpetrator of the Baldwin fake was to accomplish by the bogus letter sent out Friday. Some thought the forged letter might have been used by some one to get the stock who had to get some cheap stock by breaking the price of Baldwin.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The big sugar refineries today announced price reductions of 10 points on refined and hard sugar. The majority of the reductions were to 6.30 for hard grades and 6.70 for soft.

The Baldwin Locomotive Company has received an order for 25 locomotives from the Illinois Central, valued at $2,000,000.

The Shell Union Oil Corporation today declared the regular quarterly dividend on common and preferred A stock.

RANGERS WILL HELP TO SOLVE TWO DEATHS

Man and Woman Found Murdered by Side of Lonely Road.

Waco, Texas, Jan. 22.—Texas rangers joined local authorities in efforts to solve the mystery of the death of W. E. Holt, 45, and Mrs. Ethel Deneceamp, 21, whose bodies were found side by side in a lonely road near here yesterday. A charge from a shotgun had torn a part of the left side of Holt's face, and he had several wounds in the left side of the back.

Mrs. Deneceamp was shot at least three times and has a wound about four inches long in the back of her head, thought to have been made with a hatchet. While sheriff Stegall and Constable Butts believe Mrs. Deneceamp was killed at the place where her body was found, they are positive that Holt was slain in another spot. A small rope was found tied around his right ankle. This is believed to have been used to drag him behind a car for a considerable distance. The couple had been missing since late Friday. The car in which they had gone riding was found in the down town section of Waco Saturday afternoon, the windshield had been shattered by a bullet.

CLAMOR FOR MINERS TO HELP COAL SUPPLY

Nova Scotia Mine Owners Send Out Call for Experienced Workers.

Is there a possibility of more coal next winter? The Dominion Coal Company of Sidney, N.S. has just issued a request for 800 miners.

The company states that these men are not to replace men who have, or have been on strike, and offer wages of varying rates, according to the kind of work required, guaranteeing a minimum of $3.00 a week, and a wage of $3.25 for a nine-hour day.

Single men are preferred, as the company cannot promise to provide accommodation for married men. It is surmised by the employment bureau officials that this request denotes the opening of new seams of coal in this district.

Only experienced men are accepted, and they must have at least a year's experience of underground work, and be used to coal mining.

BIG WHEAT YIELD FOR 1922.

Ottawa.—Canada's wheat yield for 19
