Woodstock News.

(From our own Correspondent.)

WOODSTOCK, April 13th, 1885.

The N. B. Railway recently purchased three handsome new engines for freight service on the northern division. They are from the Taunton works, and have already become great favorites with the railway men.

Mr. Leighton has returned from his Legislative duties at Fredericton, and may be seen every day on the street corners, earnestly discussing the events of the session with his constituents. He is one of the most popular representatives Carleton has ever had, and can be reelected any and every time he chooses to offer.

I hear considerable talk already from some of your York County people, regarding the coming election in your county, and from what I can gather, in conversation with residents of Canterbury, Southampton, and other upper parishes, I believe Mr. Hazen is the coming man. They consider him a remarkably clever young gentleman, who must achieve the brightest success in political life, if he cares to enter it.

There has been considerable talk around town lately, about the mysterious disappear of several registered letters, which contained over $700 dollars in cash, and were dispatched from Woodstock Post Office on the night of the 4th inst. for St. John, but never reached there. Post Office Inspector MacMillan was here Saturday trying to trace the matter but I believe without success, so far. A large amount of the lost money is said to have belonged to Mr. John T. Allan.

Harry Connell makes a popular mayor. He has gone in for reform in the management of town affairs, and that was evidently needed. The new Mayor proposes to revolutionize the style of book-keeping, hitherto in vogue with our officials. There are said to be evidences of great looseness in the manner of making payments, and it would not be surprising if an expert is employed to sift the accounts for the past few years. One half the old council have seats in the present one, and the Mayor has numerous casting votes to give in carrying out his reforms. But Mayor Connell is not the man to flinch from his duty, and the bold stand he has taken since his election to the position of Chief Magistrate has won for him golden opinions.

One of the most interesting sights in Washington is the collection of Confederate battle flags captured by the Union forces in the late war. There are 540 of them, and although a score or more of years have passed since they were placed in their present position, their torn and tattered folds tell the story of the war in silent and unspeakable eloquence. Some are torn almost to shreds, others are begrimmed with smoke and not a few bear the deep red stain of the blood shed for the "lost cause."

Can Deafness be Cured?

Mr. John Clark, of Milldridge, Ont., declares it can, and that Hagyard's Yellow Oil is the remedy that cured him. It is also a specific for all inflammation and pain.

THE AFGHAN DIFFICULTY.

Russia Seizes a Position in the Neutral Territory, and is asked to explain.

England likely to declare War.

The last week has been an eventful one in Afghanistan, where England and Russia confront each other in a dispute as to the boundry line. The encroachment of Russia has precipitated a battle with the Afghans, England's allies, who were defeated, the Russians following up the advantage by seizing Penjdeh in Afghanistan, and thus breaking their solemn agreement with England, who now demands an explanation. Whether there shall be a long and bloody war depends on Russia's answer

Col. Ridgway highly eulogizes the gallantry of the Afghan troops during the action. He says they fought under every disadvantage, and the fact that they held their ground as long and as stubbornly as they did, in the face of terrible slaughter and almost certain defeat, shows them to be possessed of splendid courage. They were taken by surprise, being attacked in the absence of any declaration of war and on ground which they believed was admitted to be theirs. They were vastly outnumbered, having only 1,600 men, with poor artillery, while the Russians had 3,000 well-armed regulars, besides a force of Turcomans. The retreat of the Afghans was conducted with perfect order and sullen deliberation.

The Official Messenger, at St. Petersburg, publishes the following telegram from Gen. Komaroff, dated April 1st:—

On the 25th of March our detachment approached Dash Kepria; when near the bridge we saw an entrenchment occupied by Afghans. In order to avoid a conflict I stationed my troops five versts (a little over three miles) from the Afghan position. Negotiations with Capt. Yate, a member of Sir Peter Lumsden's forces, commenced on the 26th. When the Afghans became convinced that we had no intention of attacking them, they daily drew near to our camp. On the 27th instant despatched, against a company of ours covering a reconnoitering party three companies with a gun and some cavalry. The next day, their audacity and arrogance increasing, they occupied a high and commanding position on the left flank of our camp, made entrenchments and placed a cavalry post in the rear of our line, and a picket within gunshot of our fort. On the 29th I sent the Afghan commander an energetic summons to evacuate the left bank of the Kushk and the right bank Murghab as far as the mouth of the Kushk. He replied that acting on the advice of the English he would not retire beyond the Kushk. I then sent him a private letter couched in amicable terms. On the 30th, in order to support my demand, I marched with my detachment against the Afghan position, still expecting a pacific issue, but the fire from the Afghan artillery and an attack of their cavalry compelled me to accept a combat.

The effect of Gen. Komaroff's detailed statement, which showed that the Afghans provoked the recent battle, have been weakened by reports received by way of the Austrian telegraph stations on the Russian frontier. Penjdeh was occupied by Col Alikhanoff on the 2nd inst. Gen. Komaroff states that he was obliged to occupy Penjdeh in order to stop the pillaging of the districts by the Turcomans, and that the Afghans had that the Afghans had threatened to resume offensive operations. The Russian Minister of War has sent a congratulatory message to Gen. Komaroff, and has directed him to thank the troops in the name of the Czar, and announce to them that all who took part in the battle will be rewarded according to their rank.

A London despatch says, during Mr. Gladstone's statements regarding the battle in Afghanistan his manner, even more than his words, emphasized the gravity of the situation. Most of the facts which he stated were quoted from an official report just received from Gen. Sir Peter Lumsden, the British Boundary Commissioner, who is now at Gulran, on the Heri-Rud River, fifty miles west of Herat, with an escort of 3,000 Indian cavalarymen, whose report was based on the statements of Col. Ridgway and Capt. Yate of his staff, who were witnesses of the fight on the Kushk river from beginning to end. When the Afghans retreated Col. Ridgway and Capt. Yate accompanied them for a short distance and then galloped to Gulran, a distance of about 150 miles to make their report to Gen. Lumsden.

A despatch from Bombay says the native patriotic fund is increasing enormously.

War preparations in all the departments of the military and naval services continue with unabated vigor.

The presidency of Bengal has offered $3,500,000 to aid in preserving the integrity of the British Empire.

The members of the British army reserve resident in Canada have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to return to England. It is said there are about 4,000 in the Dominion.

A Bombay despatch says troops are moving towards Quetta as rapidly as transport facilities will allow. The third and fourth army corps have been ordered to be placed on a war footing.

Before the departure of the Ameer from Rawul Pindi, he was invested with the Grand Cross of the Star of India. Addressing the officers present at the ceremony, he expressed the confident hope of continued friendship between Afghanistan and India.

The troops of the Ameer of Afghanistan are divided into four corps d'armee, one of which remains in Cabul, while three have taken up positions against the Russians. The three corps embrace 27,800 infantry, 8,800 cavalry, and 116 guns. Altogether the Ameer has 67,000 men.

The British forces actually mobilized and ready for the front are 30,000 men at Rawul-Pindi, 27,000 men at various strategic points on the Candahar road, and 35,000 men at Quetta, making a total of 92,000 men, consisting exclusively of British and picked troops of the Indian army.

The London Daily Telegraph of the 13th inst., publishes a despatch from Berlin which states that Russia refuses to yield an inch of territory she has occupied on the Afghan frontier, and that the Czar intends to express his approval of Gen. Komaroff's action by appointing him commander in chief in Turkestan.

Mr. Charles Marvin, the explorer, in a lecture lately delived in London, warned the Government that in case of war Russia will probably attempt to block the Suez Canal. The Observer states that the Russian cruisers "Nostromis" and "St. Petersburg" have been passing to and fro in the Canal for a week and that their movements require watching.

Lord Charles Beresford, it is announced, has accumulated a lot of written evidence from private soldiers engaged at the front as to the jamming of the Boxer cartridge, the net result of which is to place beyond doubt the fact that on one occasion 25 per cent. of the rifles in use were jammed at the same moment. The makers of this cartridge would seem to have done more to impair the fighting efficiency of the army in the field, than all the hosts of the Mahdi.

Lieut. Gen. Obrontcheff, chief of the general staff of the Russian army, is about to proceed to Merv to assume command of all military operation in Turkestan and Afghanistan. Gen. Obtontcheff is known as the conqueror of Mauktar Pacha, whom he defeated at Alajadazh, after a pitched battle lasting two days, in October 1877. The imperial arsenals at Cronstadt and elsewhere are being worked to their utmost capacity, preparing field and siege artillery, small arms and ammunition for immediate service.

The intelligence department of the Horse Guards has despatches giving the estimated strength, as reported by spies, of the Russian forces ready for an immediate advance in force on the strategic points on the Afghan frontier selected for occupation, namely, Pul-i-khatun, Zaliker and Pul-i-Khisti. The number is placed at upwards of 50,000 men of all arms. Of these, one division, 25,000 strong, is reported to be already in motion toward Chamenibed, and the remainder are advancing south along the roads bordering the Persian frontier, east of Sarakhs. The spies report that the main bodies of both these divisions are within 200 miles as the bird flies from Herat, and that two columns, 10,000 strong, are within five marches of the Russian advanced posts on the Murghab river on the east and the Heri-Rud on the west.

A Connecticut man has a a novel barometer in the shape of four bullfrogs, which live in half a hogshead in his spring. In fair weather they sun themselves around a hole in the hogshead's bottom, but when the storm centre moves their way, they dive through the hole and out of sight.

A minster near home had as guests two fellow-preaches who were deaf. An important series of experiments, which tend to show that torpedoes are not sufficient for the defence of fortified places against iron-clad vessel of the first class, has recently been conducted by the Italian naval authorities at Spezzia. A keel vessel of the type of the Italia, so far resisted the explosive power of torpedoes that although her steel plates were displaced and bent, and water entered her compartments, she maintained her position.

A pathetic story is told of a little orphan girl of Rutland, Vermont, who still maintains that "papa" lives, and can only be comforted by the constant presence of a large picture of her father, to which she brings various little offerings and all her little sorrows and complaints. She rarely sleeps unless the framed semblance of her "dear papa" is placed at the foot of her crib, where her last drowsy glance may fall upon the loved object, and in the morning her cheery salutation wakes again and again the sad sense of loss that fills the breast of the older members of the bereaved household.
