THE DAZZLING LIGHT.

The World paid a visit yesterday to the premises of Macfarlane, McKinlay & Co., St. Alban's-arcet, manufacturers of window shades, etc., and had a talk with Mr. Macfarlane, the genial head of the firm. From him it was ascertained that the handsome offices into which we were ushered were but just completed. The suite is finished in dark mahogany and terra cotta work, and presents a very neat and comfortable appearance. We were informed that an explosion of steam cocurred about six weeks ago in these offices, destroying carpets, telephone box, two typerwiters, and completely running gold and silver medal diplomas and certificates, and generally tearing things to pieces. The whole offige had to be refitted. This business now amounts to $100,000 a-year. About ten thousand square yards of goods are turned out per week, and about three shousand nair of decorated window shades per week. The trade of this firm extenda from Newfoundland to British Columbia, Mr. Macfarlane himself generally visiting these distant places. A tour through the premises, which have now grown to the very respectable dimensions of 50 x 200 feet, revealed a great many new and interesting sights. The first that met our view was the ingenious device for tastening window shades to rollers without the use of tacks, which frequently injure the delicate apring within the roller. This is such a simple device, yet withal such a useful one, that we have no doubt it will not long remain a novelty. Another equally straight. Both these inventions are patented and Mr. Macfarlane informed us that he has the contract for supplying the public schools and a number of public buildings in Toronto with shades, on account of these very useful contrivances. The price is very reasonable and enables all to possess such desirable additions to an otherwise incomplete shade. This firm were the first to manufacture pland window shades, which are now coming into use. The biggest contract ever made in Canada in shades was recently taken by this firm, for 22,000 pair. THE VERDICT IS FINAL

Mr, Christopher Teale a Witness—Important Testimony.

He acknowledges that he feels it a duty to his fellow man to give a true statement of his case in public print. He lives at No. 121 Strachan-avenue, and is well and favorably known. Although he is now in perfect health, previous to six months ago he had Catarrhal Dyspepsia so had that the best Physicians of this city failed to give him any permanent relief, and he was led to believe that his case was beyond the reach of medical skill. In speaking to a friend about his trouble he said, I had eatarrh very bad, and it seemed to have affected my whole system. Even my stommen had become very sweak as a result of this disease. The pain in it was of a ness-Important Testimony. this disease. The pain in it was of a burning character, I was very nervous, my heart palpitated, my tongue was badly coated and very bitter. I had many other very disagreeable symptoms, but I am glad to say that they have all been removed, and I am again a well man. When I think back how I suffered, and now cured, it seems too good to be true. And I am glad to be privileged to say a good word for the doctors at 170 King-street west. They have certainly saved my life, and I shall be glad to verify any statement made in this testimonial. ain in it was of NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.—Miss Nettle C. of B., Ont., has been an invalid the past five years. Sile has suffered terribly from female irregularities, nervous exhaustion, depression of spirits, loss of appetite and a great sense of lassitude and weakness of the whole body. Some days sile would feel comparatively well, and the next day be wholly unable to assist herself: the least effort or exerciss would produce a shortness of breath, and hot, faint flashes would pass over her, and a sense of weakness follow that is simply indescribable. She lost 30 pounds of flesh, her skin became sallow, and at times her body would bloat so that she could not fasten her clothing around her, and she was a hopeless, helpless invalid. In this condition her mother brought her to Dr. Lemon. Treatment was commenced on the 20th February. Etc had two magnetic treatments per week in connection with a little medicine, and last week she pronounced herself well and feeling better than she has for seven years, and advises everythan she has for seven years, and she the life after all other means failed, and she thinks he can cure you even if you think there is no help for you.

Every Description,

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

Ald. Maughan presided at yesterday's meeting of the Property Committee in the absence of Chairman Baxter, there being present besides, Ald. J. E. Verral, Gibbs, Bell, Mores and City Clerk Blavins. Mrs. Thomas' application to have the contract for the sale of her property for the drill shed site re-opened was refused, the City Solicitor being instructed to take steps to carry out the original agreement. It was also ordered that three keys be purchased additional for the Morgus. It was recommended that the city purchase a lot in Dundas-street, near Jamieson-avenue, for a firehall, at $50 per foot, the frontage being 52 x 180. The clock difficulty came up, and it was decided to recommend the purchase of one Howard American clock, the clock giving the best astisfaction to secure the contract for the supply of the remaining four clocks.
