

and will be evaluated on the basis of prevailing market conditions. It should be noted that an export permit will be required before the Department of Agriculture will certify shell eggs for export.

Exports of shipments of up to 25,000 kg. of egg products and up to two dozen eggs for personal use will be covered by a general export permit and therefore will not require individual permits. The export of egg products will, however, be monitored closely to ensure that their 'export' does not frustrate the control on export of shell eggs.

A Notice to Exporters with further administrative details, will be published shortly.
