"Of course, these very satisfactory conditions are more or less affected by the war business, so-called, yet it is undoubtedly true that there is a better feeling thruout the general iron and steel trade than has been experienced or some years past.' Experts who have followed the sing fortunes of iron and steel within the past twelve months assert that the volume of business, both domestic and foreign, at present is more than double what it was a year ago, and that there are today 175,000 men employed at iron and steel plants thruout the United States who were not on the payrolls a year ago. the payrolls a year ago:

HEAVY STOCK ADVANCE

ed Strong and in Demand.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—So great has been the sudden and general revival in the iron and steel trade of the U.S., it was said by authorities today that with virtually every blast furnace and steel mill in the country working night and day to capacity the demand for inbn. steel and steel products cannot be satisfied and it is today almost impossible to buy for immediate delivery any pig iron, any scrap or any ingots in sizable quantities at any industrial plant in the country.

The revival began about the first of last July, has been coming gradually with a deluge of orders since the midde of August and may not yet have reached its high mark. Within these three months the price of pig iron, long regarded as the barometer of trade, has increased approximately thirty-five per cent, and that of steel and steel products—except steel rails—has gone up about fifteen per cent.

"At the present time the demand for pig iron and for the various lines of firished steel.

"There is nothing to indicate that there will be a decrease in the demand for any of these products for some time. While prices received are still low, they have been and are increasing and apparently will go higher so that fair and reasonable profits may be expected.

"Of course, these very satisfactory to the purchasers seed are faired by the war business, so-called, yot it is undoubtedly true, that there is a better.
