

struggle and revolution. Only through wise and scientific education and development of our workers shall we overcome these threatening tendencies in our body politic, and begin to utilize for ourselves and for the race the unmeasured latent aptitudes of man applied intelligently to the infinite resources of the universe.