

worthless husband, who, when means of support begin to fail, generally betakes himself to the United States, or becomes a Victim to Intemperence.

This is merely a superficial sketch of the subject ; consult practical men for further information, and though it may differ from mine in minor points, our conclusions will be found the same, for I do not think they will give you advice, which is materially at variance with that you have received from a Lover of the Country and mere every day OBSERVER.

HALIFAX, 7th APRIL, 1827.

NOTE.—The Governor of Georgia, who lately called out the Militia of the State, to resist any attempt on the part of the Executive at Washington, to enforce its Order for the surrender of certain lands to the Indians. Mr. Troop came off not only unscathed but triumphant, and the Indians were paid for the Lands in dispute. Query. Will not the same Game be played by Maine and Massachusetts when our Boundary Question comes to be adjusted? or can we be said to treat, on equal terms, with a Government that has not the means of enforcing its own decrees? For what relates to Georgia, see the American Papers of February last. The Documents are curious.
