

thumbprint was left in Boston, although it was The Hawk's thumbprint, all right. The man who was wounded was The Hawk's accomplice in the Boston robberies. Good-by."

The murderer of old Daddy Heinz was never found. Brokaw Hamilton was convinced that the murderer was not The Hawk, but possibly some other crook who, disgruntled, had come in, demanded money, and been refused. He considered the matter in detail one day when he mailed a single unset diamond to Scotland Yard, London.