Saturday and Monday for alleys for the bowlers to qualify for the diamond, and now that all the names are on the board which will be put out when the freezeout takes place, it remains to be seen who takes place, it remains to be seen who will be in the first ten. As it is to be expected when such a valuable prize is put up everybody declares he will be in the roll-off, but only ten can qualify. There are 38 names on the board, and in conjunction with the diamond prize the esteemed manager of the Brunswick alleys has put up two fine plump turkeys to be taken away Saturday night (Gcod Morning World), one for the Central League and one open competition for three high games in succession. The scores will be counted for the bird and the diamond as well. Pity the turkey did not gobble up the diamond in the barnyard.

Austraija in the Lead. LONDON, Dec. 19.—Australia is all out, with a total of 308 for their second innings. England has 65 runs for one wicket. Gunn is not out, with 16. Play is close. The score stands: Australia, first innings, 447; second, 308. England, first innings, 318.

Mrs. Macdonald will sing a solo. actor would have, at least part of the time, at any rate. Miss Cahill is a firm believer in the old English custom of making Christmas Day a 'home lay" for pleasure and a day for making others happy, not a day of unneessary work. Born and brought up cessary work. Born and brought up in England, she has not forgotten the old traditions instilled into her youth. For that reason her custom has been since graduating into "stardom," the dalented comedienne will not give a matinee on Christmas Day, but, instead, alitho far from her own cosy home, will make the members of her company one big happy, joyous family, by entertaining them with a real old-fashioned Christmas dinner at the King Edward. In consequence of Miss Cahill's hospitality, the first performance of "The Opera Bahl" will not be given at the Royal Alexandra until Christmas night. Christmas night.
